ALLIES ADVANCE IN FLANDERS

RUSSIAN VICTORY IN POLAND

FIGHTING IN EAST AND WEST FAVORS ALLIES

Berlin Admits Defeat in Russian Poland—Pause in German Attacks on Left Wing of Allies While Re-enforcements Rush to Strengthen Lines — Kaiser Orders Troops From East and West to March on Calais

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The German host that so confidently rushed against Warsaw has been smashed by the Russian hordes.

Slowly, but certainly, the last desperate attempts of the Germans and Austrians to hold their lines in southern Poland have been overcome by the tremendous new army corps that have been hurled against them.

Hopeful despatches from Petrograd were at first believed to be over-optimistic, but when the official statement came from Berlin that confirmed the retirement of the Germans and Austrians, it was no longer possible to doubt the Russian messages.

PAUSE IN GERMAN ATTACK ON LEFT WING OF THE ALLIES

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The pause in the German attacks on the left wing of the allies where the Germans have fought furiously in their efforts to march on the French ports of Dunkirk and Calais, is considered here to be only momentary.

Reliable reports are to the effect that heavy reinforcements are on their way and that when the German lines are strengthened by these forces, which are said to aggregate more than 200,000 men, the fighting will go on with renewed fierceness. The reinforcements, it is declared, have been drawn from all the other battle-lines, both in the east and west, in pursuance of the order of Emperor William to his officers that the French ports, particularly Calais, must be taken at all costs.

Although the operations in Flanders have been temporarily at a standstill, the allies on the center and in the south have, according to the official communications, not only resisted the Germans, but have made slight gains.

There was a resumption today of interest in the operations of the Woevre, at least in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, where the French offensive is said to have met with fresh successes.

14TH DAY OF DESPERATE BATTLE OF WEST FLANDERS—LULL YESTERDAY

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The 14th day of the battle of West Flanders, which is being fought over an area hardly greater than a good sized farm in the state of Iowa, found the allies holding their ground to the west of the Yser and the Germans apparently bringing up more reinforcements to repeat their furious attempts to break through and reach the coast of France.

All despatches seem to agree that there was a temporary lull yesterday in the fighting between Nieuport and Ypres, but the reports are far from unanimous as to whether this was due to an armistice to bury the dead and remove the wounded which must thickly cover the field or whether it was caused by the exhaustion of the contending forces or the lack of German ammunition.

The London press hazards all three guesses and contends that at any rate the position of the allies is satisfactory. The public is warned, however, that the struggle in this quarter is not yet over for the Germans if they find the northern route to Dunkirk and Calais impassable may shift to the south with Boulogne as an objective.

It was at Boulogne that Napoleon waited in vain for his troops to embark for England and the taking of this city by the Germans would stir the German people as nothing else could.

Berlin claims that there had been no recent progress in the struggle in Flanders and as if explaining this, says 16 British warships are operating on the coast. This number never has been confirmed from British sources.

There are recurring reports that the Germans are constructing sheds on the Belgian coast for the housing of Zeppelin airships. A local newspaper is offering free insurance against Zeppelins to its subscribers. There is no official confirmation of the reported German invasion of Portuguese West Africa. Holland is still on edge as regards a possible violation of her neutrality. The first bottload of food for Belgium under American supervision left London today.

BIG OPEN AIR DEMOCRATIC RALLY

MR. HUMPHREY O'SULLIVAN
Chairman

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY
One of the Speakers

Greatest Local Demonstration in State Campaign Held Last Night

Crowd of Over 2000 Gathered at City Hall Steps

Lots of Old Time Democratic Enthusiasm—O'Sullivan Presided

Despite the fact that a hall was unobtainable, and the night a wee bit chilly, the democratic rally in Lowell last night was a great big success from start to finish. It was held at city hall, with the front steps as the rostrum and over 2000 people listened to the speakers, all of whom presented spirited and logical arguments for the democratic ticket. It was the first democratic rally of the state campaign and the cold night air did not chill the enthusiasm characteristic of old-time democratic rallies. Rallies by republicans and progressives, as witness the recent rally by republicans at Associate hall, may lack steam and enthusiasm, but not so with that of the democrats. They always manage to throw in the political spices that give to the rally the proper flavor.

The speakers last night included State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Hon. Charles F. McCarthy, of Marlboro, candidate for county commissioner; Hon. James H. Vahey of Watertown; Peter F. Tague of Boston, who represented ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, and Michael O'Sullivan of Lawrence. The crowd suffered some disappointment when it was announced that a death in his family made it impossible for the ex-mayor of Boston to be present.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, who presided, expressed regrets because of the fact that it was necessary to hold an open air rally. He explained that Associate hall had been engaged before the rally had been arranged for and it was impossible, he said, to rescind action in either case. The hall could not be taken away from the parties who had engaged it and to change the date of the rally would be out of the question. "We are all right here," shouted one of the enthusiastic auditors, who had joined in giving Mr. O'Sullivan a splendid ovation as he opened the meeting.

Mr. O'Sullivan made a plea for harmony. He said he would like to discuss national questions but he did not want to take up the time of the speakers who would follow and who would deal with national affairs. He asked his auditors to bear in mind the fact that the democratic party is the party that fought the battles of the working man; the party that the rank and file has always had to lean upon, and it never failed them of support. Referring to the administration of Governor Walsh, Mr. O'Sullivan said Lowell people should consider his administration impartially. Before Mr. Walsh has finished as governor, said the chairman, he will have convinced the state that his was a good administration. "Of course they may criticise the governor on personal questions," said Mr. O'Sullivan, "but the personal element must be subordinated in considering a man's worth to the public at large. A public servant should be measured by what he does in the aggregate. The democratic party is closer to the people than any other party. It has made more genuine progress for the country as a whole than any political institution the world has ever seen. It is the duty of every good democrat to stand by President Wilson and the democratic administration from top to bottom. We have the world's greatest leader at Washington and we must assist him to carry out the great improvements he has planned." To do this effectively Mr. O'Sullivan said it was necessary and in every way desirable to reelect Governor Walsh.

State Treasurer Mansfield

In introducing State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Mr. O'Sullivan referred to him as one of the best democrats in Massachusetts and a man of sterling worth and quality. Mr. Mansfield spoke in part as follows:

"Whenever the commonwealth needs money to carry on its great enterprises it gets it just as an individual does when he needs money. If an individual wants money, he generally gets it on his promissory note, if the bank is satisfied with the security. The state gets its money in exactly the same way. It borrows on its promissory notes only it calls those notes bonds. They are called bonds merely because the state binds itself to pay the money when it is due.

"It had been a custom for over 125 years to sell those bonds to a syndicate of bond dealers and bankers. One year ago, when I was campaigning for election as state treasurer, I pledged to the people, that if elected, I would not sell bonds to the syndicate, but would give the people a chance to buy them. This year we had the largest bond sale in the history of the state—over $6,325,000. I advertised for bids, because the law provides that this must be done. I received about a dozen different bids, the highest being by a large and powerful combination of bankers in Boston, and was $1042.79. This meant that the syndicate was willing to pay $1042.79 for every $1000 bond, and of course if I sold to the syndicate, the ordinary person could not buy a bond without dealing with the syndicate, and inasmuch as they would have control of the entire issue, the purchaser would be entirely at their mercy, and would be compelled to pay whatever rate they wanted to charge.

"I rejected all those bids, and offered the bonds for sale to the public at the same rate that the syndicate had bid to me. All of the bonds were sold 'over the counter' in exactly 21 working days, although one year ago, when the syndicate bought an entire issue of 5,000,000 from my republican predecessor, it took that syndicate 10 months to dispose of them. The profit which the syndicate would have made, is the money that I saved to the purchaser, and I estimate it at about $65,000.

"But the saving of this money was not what I desired most to accomplish. I wanted to bring the government of this state nearer to the people, and disseminate the bonds over a larger area, and to place them in the hands of more of the ordinary people. If this could be accomplished, civic pride and patriotism would be increased. If I could place a Massachusetts bond in the hands of every anarchist, every socialist, and every enemy of government, I would convert that man immediately into a friend of government, because then he would realize that whatever word or act of his which would tend to injure his government or his state, would injure his own bond.

"I also tried to bring the bonds nearer to the reach of the ordinary people by reducing their denomination. Before 1914, it was impossible for a poor man to buy a Massachusetts bond because they were $1000 each. There is no statute which compels the fixing of the denomination at this price. It is entirely discretionary with the treasurer, and it didn't seem to me to be fair to the poor to fix the price so high as to be prohibitive. Therefore, I reduced the denomination of Massachusetts bonds from $1000 down to $100, to give the poor man and the smaller investor a chance which he never had before.

Burden of Taxation

"In addition to popularizing the bonds, I have tried to lighten the burden of taxation for the poor man. Much of our state debt is in the form of taxable bonds. A taxable bond is one upon which the person who owns it is supposed to pay taxes. The only person from whom a list of names and addresses of taxable bonds may be obtained, is the state treasurer. After taking office, I found that it had been the custom for over 100 years, for the state treasurer not to divulge the names of the taxable bond holders, and the result of this pernicious custom, is that a great many wealthy people who ought to be in better business were dodging their taxes. They relied in many instances upon this custom, and bought taxable bonds knowing in advance that their names would not be disclosed, and of course in this way they escaped paying their taxes. For the first time in the history of this state, I gave the names and addresses of all taxable bond holders to the commissioner, and for the first time, these wealthy tax dodgers have been compelled to pay their share of the tax burden. The poor man cannot escape his taxes, because the property he usually owns is not of a kind that can be hidden. If a poor man owns an equity in a house, or a little farm, he cannot hide this kind of property behind the skirts of an

Mrs. Paradis requested Coroner Killip at Rochester to send the body back to her home. McDonald was 37 years old and unmarried.

ANNUAL PARISH REUNION

PAUL R. CLARK
Floor Director

JOSEPH A. PRESTON
General Manager

Of the Immaculate Conception Church Held at Associate Hall Last Night

The 14th annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church, held in Associate hall last evening was as usual a grand success, and in some respects it proved even more successful than some of its predecessors. From a financial standpoint the results were most gratifying, and the social features of the affair eclipsed any previous efforts along this line. Nearly every family in the parish was represented during the evening by one or more members, while the children held forth in the afternoon.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the orange and black of the Hallowe'en season prevailing in the color schemes. The stage was set with greenery, potted plants and palms, which completely hid the orchestra, and the gallery front and side walls were banked with bunting. Long streamers of orange were caught at the centre chandelier and swung to all corners of the hall. The booths situated in all parts of the hall were also tastefully decorated in contrast with the draperies of the hall proper, while hundreds of incandescent lights added brilliancy to the scene.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves as only children can. A special program had been prepared for them, including games, dancing and a "beauty baby contest." In the last named there were several entrants, but Baby Gertrude Slavin won favor with the judges and was awarded first prize. Little Mary Joyce was the second prize winner and all the other contestants were given honorable mention. Mr. John X. Payne, had charge of the afternoon's festivities, and it can truly be stated he enjoyed himself fully as much as the children.

Carlin's novelty orchestra formally opened the affair in the evening with several selections from "Sari," and this was followed by a solo by William F. Conklin, who sang in pleasing voice, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Edward F. Shea and John Dalton favored with solos and for an encore they responded with the ever popular "Killarney's Lakes." William Marren and Frank McCartin, two popular comedians of the parish, delighted the large gathering with their witticisms and they were both forced to respond to many encores. Through the courtesy of the Keith theatre management Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, one of the most popular teams on the vaudeville stage today, entertained in a short sketch which proved very amusing. Jim Toney and Miss Norman, also from Keith's proved their worth in a delightful sketch.

At the conclusion of the program, general dancing started and continued till midnight. Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, together with the other clergymen of the parish were in attendance and mingled freely with their parishioners.

The officers of the evening and the members of the various committees were as follows:

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

EYEGLASSES AND BEAUTY

Careless or wrong adjustment of eye glasses is not only harmful but in many cases actually disfiguring. The woman whose wish it is to look well-groomed, will not neglect this detail of correct dressing.

The woman then who does not wish to acquire several unnecessary wrinkles had best take care that her glasses are set upon her face at the correct angle and at the necessary distance or nearness to the eyes. If too near, the eyelashes brush them, this is uncomfortable and irritating and after awhile wears the eyelashes off and they look short and stubby, and are not longer a becoming fringe to the eye.

The string or chain sometimes annexed to the right eyeglass often serves as a sort of weight to pull it down or warp the frame of the glass out of place. This should be noticed and only the lightest kind of string or chain be used.

Glasses, of course, which are worn only occasionally are not so apt to fall into error. On the other hand, the glass which is put on and taken off frequently is sometimes put on carelessly, and often becomes bent and twisted from much handling. Care should be taken to avoid both conditions.

The sometimes decried lorgnette has its uses for this matter to temporary need. It is convenient for what it is intended and should be called into play rather than run any risk of eyestrain.

MRS. H.L. CHAMBRE DEAD

WIDOW OF FORMER RECTOR OF ST. ANNE'S CHURCH OF LOWELL

It was with deep sorrow that the many friends of Mrs. Harriet Lancaster Chambre, widow of the late Rev. A. St. John Chambre, D. D., learned of her demise which occurred yesterday at her home, 61 Nesmith street, after a long illness.

Deceased was born in Acworth, N. H., Aug. 10, 1828, her parents being William Lancaster and Fanny Davidson, both of Scottish descent. The young woman was educated by an aunt in Boston and later she studied art in Paris and Dresden and became quite proficient as a painter. She was an accomplished French linguist; she also had talent as a writer, a little volume, "Nettie Gay," being the work of her pen.

Mrs. Chambre was very generous to the church and community and it was she who some years ago when an effort was being made to clear the church debt, gave nearly $300 for that purpose. She was deeply interested in the work of the Theodore Edson orphanage and also took great interest in all parish work. She was president of the Girls' Friendly society and honorary president of the Beneficial society, positions she held until her death. Deceased had no near relatives. She is survived by two nieces living in the west.

HEALTHY HAIR SOFT, FLUFFY AND RADIANT

Beautiful hair does not just happen to be so, but is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. No matter if your hair is falling out, stringy, lifeless and full of dandruff, Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic, sold by all druggists, is all that is ever needed. It nourishes the hair roots and stimulates the growth of new hair. Even dandruff is entirely removed with one application, and itching scalp and failing hair cease; your hair will be bright, vigorous, soft and fluffy.

Whether your hair is oily, dry or brittle, Parisian Sage immediately removes the cause, and by toning up the scalp quickly restores the hair to its original brilliancy and vigor.

Parisian Sage can always be had from any drug counter, and is a delightful and easily applied treatment that will never fail to act as a real and lasting benefit to your hair and scalp.

Injured Secretary of State Removed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital

Thos. Riley Recovering Rapidly—Others Hurt in Accident Improving

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary of State Frank J. Donahue, who was injured in an automobile accident Monday night at North Adams, arrived in Boston last night and was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. His injuries may be more serious than first examination indicated, and an X-ray examination will be made of the fractured left arm and his injured shoulder and back.

Secretary Donahue, who was accompanied on the trip to Boston by his family physician, Dr. T. W. Green, stood the long train journey well. At the North station he was met by Dr. John W. Lane, chief surgeon of St. Elizabeth's hospital; Dr. M. J. Cronin, Timothy Barter, who is managing his campaign, and several other friends. His left arm was in splints and his injured jaw was encased in a bandage that extended from his right ear around to his chin, making it difficult for him to speak.

"Hello, Tim, how are things going?" is the way he greeted his campaign manager as he was assisted from the train. He held an impromptu reception and then walked slowly out of the train shed to a waiting automobile in which he was driven to the hospital.

Thomas Riley of Pittsfield, who was believed to be the most seriously injured of the party in the accident, is coming out better than expected. An examination at the North Adams hospital failed to reveal any fracture of the skull, as at first feared, and his injury may be only a severe bruise. Senator Mack and J. B. O'Hearn, a Pittsfield newspaperman, are resting comfortably and may be able to leave the hospital today or tomorrow.

WOMEN IN CONFERENCE

DISCUSSED FOREIGN MISSIONS AT THE CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH YESTERDAY

The Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission society, New England district, held a meeting at the Calvary Baptist church of this city yesterday. The affair was largely attended and proved very interesting.

The forenoon session opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. H. C. Fuller of the First Baptist church. The speakers were Miss Helen W. Munroe of Cambridge, vice president of the New England district, and Miss Grace T. Colburn of Newton Centre, home vice president. Miss Munroe spoke of her visit to Japan and the work being conducted there by the society, while Miss Colburn was very interesting with her campaign talk.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Mrs. H. W. Peabody, who spoke of India and what is being done there by the society. She told of the many institutions and the good they are doing. Between the afternoon and evening sessions supper was enjoyed in the vestry of the church and at 7 o'clock the evening service was started, the presiding officer being Mrs. Asa Reed Dilts, while the speaker was Miss Melissa Morrow, who has been doing wonderful work in India. She was followed by Mrs. Peabody who spoke on Burmah.

A vigorous campaign in the interest of the society was started on Sept. 20 and when it is ended meetings will have been held in 31 important centres of New England.

MR. DODGE INJURED

Mr. Cecil Dodge of The Sun staff met with a slight mishap on the 6.22 train to Boston Wednesday evening. While the train was stopped at Winchester it was suddenly bumped by another train. Mr. Dodge was thrown over a seat and against the side of the car in such a manner that the ligaments of his left shoulder were torn while the muscles of his arm were wrenched. He was treated by Dr. F. M. Pillsbury.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young People's society of the Worthen Street Baptist church held a Halloween party in the church vestry last evening with a large attendance. The scene of the party was appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and other Halloween effects. A pleasing entertainment was given by several young ladies after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Everybody in the city is invited to take a guess at the number of seeds in the smashing big pumpkin placed in the lobby of the B. F. Keith theatre. Those who make a guess should leave their names and addresses at the box office. To the one who guesses the correct number, or who more nearly gets it, five box seats for any performance next week will be given. And to the nine others who most nearly approximate the real number two orchestra seats for any performance during the week will be presented. The winners will be announced from the stage on Saturday night. Also on that night the theatre will be in real Hallowe'en dress, and the big feature will be an apple eating contest on the stage for boys only. Rosy apples will be strung and the contestants will have their hands tied behind them. To those who devour the apples first cash prizes will be given. Entrants should leave their name at the box office. This week's show is excellent in character, being headed by the Five Annapolis Boys, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy and others. 'Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Cosmo Hamilton's wholesome and stirring play, "The Blindness of Virtue," which is being given so capably at the Merrimack Square Theatre this week, has ever been a reigning favorite with stock audiences the country over, probably because its story is so unusual, probably because of the delicate love story which it contains, perhaps for any one of the 101 other good reasons, but anyway the fact still remains, folks like it, they come to see it, and it never fails to please.

Next week a play that perhaps is as well known as any which has ever been seen locally will be "Tess of the Storm Country." It has been seen in Lowell on the moving picture screen but the coming week will be the first opportunity that local playgoers have ever had to see it in play form. Seats are now on sale for all performances.

THE OWL THEATRE

The second Paramount picture to be released is shown at the Owl theatre, for the last three days of the week. This release is a Frohman Famous Players' film with Marguerite Clark, the dainty, magnetic star in "Wildflower," a drama of the lights and shadows of the sun-kissed forests, and of the depths and shallows of the human life. It is a delightful tale of sweet innocence and eternal youth, written by Mary Germaine and produced in an extravagant manner in four parts of motion pictures. Miss Clark gives the role of "Wildflower," a most bewitching characterization, and her good acting tends to soften the hearts of the most pessimistic. The scenery is very well chosen, the woodland scenes being especially adaptable to the screen. It is doubtful if the Famous Players have produced such an elaborate motion picture before. It will prove a delight from beginning to end. You'll heave a sigh at the finish, wishing there was more of it. Next week will bring two other big Paramount pictures, with Macklyn Arbuckle the first part of the week, and Max Figman in "What's His Name?" for the last part of the week. Five other Mutual movies complete today's program, all of the better variety.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interefer with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. Inall such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

MARJORIE'S BUTTER LESSON

"Oh dear, we use so much butter I am just awfully discouraged," complained Marjorie. "My butter expense is enormous."

"You perhaps waste a lot in cutting," suggested Marie. "Butter is a very important item in the family menu. Food should be served as attractively as possible because that which appeals to the eye generally appeals to the appetite. Butter, on account of its consistency and the manner of serving, is often not only unattractive in appearance, but is cut in such a manner that it is actually wasted.

"By careful forethought in providing the proper utensils butter can be used more economically and served more attractively. Individual molds, pats or balls of butter generally supply the wants of each member of the family, with the advantage of being economical, by eliminating left-over butter on the plate.

"When a pound of butter is to be used for table service it is a very good plan to cut it first into halves, then into quarters and eighths before cutting it crosswise so as to form neat little squares.

"A very neat butter cutter can be purchased for a comparatively small sum. It consists of a white enamel base, on which the pound of butter is placed.

"Copper wires are so adjusted that by pulling a lever the butter can be cut lengthwise into the desired number of squares. Another set of wires cuts the butter crosswise, thus accomplishing the work in about two seconds of time.

"However, you need not expend more than thirty-five or fifty cents for instruments that will always make butter attractive. Little wooden molds may be purchased for twenty cents. These make the small pieces of butter into imitation pats of a pound.

"Butter ballmakers, consisting of two wooden spoons, are quite inexpensive. The butter curler is perhaps one of the most convenient of contrivances on the market. This little device was first imported from Germany to this country. It consists of a knife-like curl that may be scraped across the top of a pound of butter, forming the butter taken up in the curve into a small attractive roll.

"These small rolls if dropped into ice water will harden nicely. They may be placed on a plate and served with a butter fork or on individual bread and butter plates.

"A little attention to so small a matter as butter cutting and serving may effect quite a saving in the family purse. Little things are always worth while. We are all familiar with the poem about the little drops of water making the mighty ocean. It is often the little savings that make the bank account."

MASS NOTICE

A month's mind mass will be sung at St. Peter's church, Friday morning at 8 o'clock for the repose of the soul of the late John F. Roark.

FOR EVERY SUFFERER FROM CONSTIPATION

Rheumasalts Insures Quick and Safe Relief

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all the misery and ills that go with it, is to dissolve a little Rheumasalts in water and drink it while it is effervescing.

Rheumasalts is a scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, sallow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then you need Rheumasalts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "doping" yourself with drug-forming, heart-depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumasalts. It is delicious to the taste and acts quickly without griping or nausea. Rheumasalts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

The next time you need a laxative, ask your druggist for about five ounces of Rheumasalts. If he hasn't the original Rheumasalts, write to the Rheumabath Company, Minneapolis, Minn., who will be glad to see that you are supplied.

MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES TAKE OUT THEIR PAPERS

Paid Commissionerships in Demand But No Great Rush for School Board—Evening Grammar School Attendance Shows 203 Over That of Last Year

City hall has a way of getting along that is peculiarly its own. It is either vibrant with excitement or an silent and inert as if everybody was asleep. The man at the elevator has little to disturb his slumbers albeit an occasional candidate tapped him on the shoulder and asked to be taken up to the mayor's office. Nevertheless, Milk Inspector Morse was up in the tower, was satisfying the complaint of milk retailed last night by Nixey Coughlin and down in the treasurer's office divers clerks were checking up the income taxes and computing how long it will take at the rising gait to put away enough to pay $100,000 on the temporary loan. Yes, of course, everything was extremely quiet; there was not a ripple of excitement, no swear words echoing through the corridors, no brickbats flying through the air.

The parties responsible for the little flurries that have acted to the gaiety of nations seem to have inaugurated a "watchful waiting" policy. The mayor's office was as silent as the tomb and Commissioners Brown and Donnelly were the only ones in sight. Commissioner Morse, it was stated, was busy at outside work. Commissioner Carmichael and City Solicitor Hennessey are out-of-town on business for the city.

Commissioner Morse made known, through the medium of the telephone, that the Street Railways company will probably delay the paving work in Westford street at Chapel and Concord streets. The street railway will have to put in curved irons at this point before the paving is laid. The iron has been ordered but has not arrived. Mr. Morse also stated that he would continue the use of the street car sprinklers until November 1, and if there are Clapp and Henry F. Anders. The last two candidates for nomination for aldermen are James F. MacKeila, 56 dusty days after that he will use cart sprinklers.

Many Called—Few Chosen

Candidates for nomination in the city primary have until Nov. 7 to file their papers. A great many papers have been taken out for aldermen but the only candidates who have filed papers are George H. Brown, 6, Harry Hinkle street, and William W. Duncan, Stafford street. Thirteen men up to the present have taken out papers. No candidate for nomination to the school committee has yet taken out nomination papers.

The completed voting lists for the state election, November 3, have been posted in the basement of city hall. Later these lists will be posted in all precincts of the city.

The Evening Schools

Evening school attendance for 1914 shows a very healthy increase over last year. The figures for the second week this year and the corresponding week last year were obtained at the office of the superintendent of schools this forenoon and the increase for the week is 203 in favor of the present year. These figures deal entirely with elementary schools, as follows:

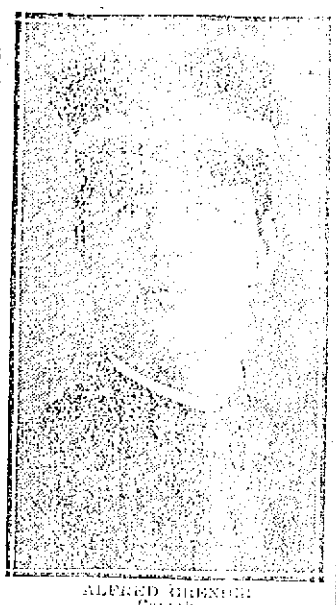
	1914	1913
Butler	50	49
Cabot Street	57	56
Colburn	171	229
Edson	138	127
Franklin	101	60
Green (boys)	267	212
Green (girls)	268	175
Greenhalge	68	85
Howard Street	25	14
Old Moody	104	76
Morse	151	114
Total	1409	1157

There were classes in the Middlesex Village and Riverside schools last year, but they could boast of but 23 scholars, 18½ to a school. The only schools to show a smaller attendance this year than last are the Colburn and Greenhalge schools.

GARDE JACQUES-CARTIER CHANGES

Takes New and Less Formidable Name of Garde St. Louis

Holds Business Meeting and Elects Officers—Thanks Capt. Grenier



ALFRED GRENIER
Captain

Garde Jacques-Cartier will be known hereafter as Garde St. Louis, this action having been taken at an important meeting of the members of this semi-military organization held last night in the parochial school hall of St. Louis' parish. It was also voted to affiliate the guard with the Sacred Heart league of the parish.

The meeting was held at 7.30 o'clock with a large attendance. Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of the parish, was present as an invited guest and he gave valuable advice to the young men. The pastor addressed the gathering, urging the young "soldiers" to follow the military life for it meant discipline for them which later will serve them well. He spoke of the Sacred Heart league and said he believed it would be well for the guard to affiliate with this church society and his advice was well received for at the close of the pastor's remarks it was unanimously voted to affiliate the organization to the league. The regalia of the guard will not be changed and the members have pledged themselves to do their utmost in increasing the membership.

The matter of changing the guard's name was brought before the assembly and inasmuch as most of the members are parishioners of St. Louis' church it was voted to change the name from Garde Jacques-Cartier to that of Garde St. Louis. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place with the following results: Alfred Grenier, president; Henri Cote, vice-president; Edmond Gamelin, treasurer; Henri Chamberland, financial secretary; Alfred Nault, lieutenant; Capt. Alfred Grenier was re-elected to the same position and a vote of thanks was extended him for the faithful services rendered the guard during his term of office.

The guard was organized several years ago by Capt. Joseph L. Pigeon and soon after its inception it was affiliated to the French American Volunteer brigade of the United States. It now counts 78 members in its ranks and an effort will be made to increase the membership to 90. Rev. J. B. Labossiere was chosen chaplain of the guard and the men have hopes that under the clergyman's direction the organization will prosper.

MATRIMONIAL

One of the prettiest marriages of the season in St. Joseph's parish took place this morning when Miss Anna Eliane Bourassa of this city and Mr. Alfred Joseph Lemieux of Waterloo, Que., were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated in the chapel of St. Joseph's rectory at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. H. Racette, O. M. I. The bride, who is well known in musical circles of this city and Boston, having completed a course of vocal music at the New England conservatory of music, wore a handsome white charmeuse with white silk tulle and white veil and she carried a large bouquet of chrysanthemums. She was attended by Dr. Roderick E. Mignault of this city, while the bridegroom was escorted to the altar by his brother, Ubald Lemieux of Waterville, Me. Little Miss Dorothy Mignault acted as flower girl. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Roderick E. Mignault, 841 Merrimack street, where a wedding dinner was served. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the dining room, especially presenting a very brilliant scene, the predominating flowers being chrysanthemums. Prior to the dinner, Mrs. Lemieux, who is possessed of a charming and powerful soprano voice, delighted the assembly with several pleasing selections. Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Miss Mildred Lefebvre, a talented pianist of Manchester, N. H., Dr. and Mrs. John Flood of Nashua, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bleidan of Nashua, N. H., Mrs. Herve Ferand of Gardner, Mass., Mr. T. Morissette of Haverhill, and Mr. Ubald Lemieux of Waterville, Me. This evening the young couple will be tendered a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Mignault and it is expected 200 guests will call to offer congratulations and best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Lemieux will leave this evening on an automobile tour through New Hampshire. They will return to Lowell in a few days and then will commence their journey to Waterville, Me., and other places of interest in New England and they will be at home to their friends at Waterloo, Que., where Mr. Lemieux is a prominent jeweler, after Nov. 15. The couple were the recipients of numerous costly gifts including several pieces of cut glass, linen and furniture.

HELD SURPRISE PARTY

A very pleasant surprise party was held last Saturday evening when Miss Marion Shelters was surprised at her home in Stevens street by about 40 female friends. The young lady was presented a beautiful white sapphire ring. The presentation speech before made by Mr. Arthur Killpartrick. Although taken unawares, she responded in a graceful manner. Refreshments were served by Miss Laura Shelters, Mrs. Anna Dupee and Mrs. Shelters and the evening was spent joyously in games and a carefully arranged musical program.

RETURNS TO COLORADO

FORMER LOWELL BOY LEAVES FOR WESTERN RANCH HOME AFTER EXTENDED VISIT HERE

William J. McCarthy returns tonight to his home at Longmont, near Denver, Colorado, after having spent a period of approximately eight weeks visiting his sisters, Misses Nellie and Elizabeth McCarthy of 124 Pine street.

Mr. McCarthy is a young man and was born in Lowell. His father was D. A. McCarthy of Lowell, who moved to Colorado for the health which William, the son, gained. Three years ago many people in Lowell will remember Mr. McCarthy, he was one of the prominent baseball players of Lowell, a basketball man of ability. His many Lowell friends will be pleased, no doubt, to know that he has prospered since his departure to the west, and is now the owner of several large ranches.

When he first went to Colorado, Mr. D. A. McCarthy started into the business of which he has attained success. He later purchased a ranch and began to increase his land holdings. At present he is the owner of four ranches, the largest containing 1600 acres, and the rest 320 acres each. Nearly all these ranches are devoted to the larger raising of cattle, and four thousand head of cattle are numbered among his possessions. The principal products are alfalfa and small grains, in addition which he has a dairy.

Mr. William McCarthy, who was a child of three when he left Lowell, seems to like the west, and is prospering there. He is very well liked in the city where he resides, Longmont, and has a host of friends. He has been employed on the Longmont Ledger, a daily paper, for the past two years, and has been very successful in his work. He is also a member of the Longmont band, and is very fond of music. He is looking forward to the time when he will return to Lowell to visit his many friends. He has promised to do this during the coming year, and he is looking forward to the time when he will see Lowell once more.

Mr. McCarthy will leave Longmont this evening, Wednesday, at 6 o'clock, and will arrive in Chicago Thursday morning shortly after 7 o'clock. He will leave Chicago later Friday morning, arriving at his home sometime on Saturday afternoon. The trip is a very long one, he says, and the scenery along the western route is beautiful.

Mr. McCarthy was shown through The Sun building and expressed his admiration of this large newspaper home. He said that in Longmont the editors of many of the large western dailies but few were of them can equal The Sun building and its facilities for getting out a live sheet.

A number of Mr. McCarthy's Lowell friends intend to accompany him to Boston this evening to see him on his homeward way.

A PORTABLE HENNERY

WITH MANY HENS WAS CARTED THROUGH THE CITY STREETS TODAY

One of the sights in the down-town streets today was a portable hennery. The hens were being removed from Nashua to Methuen. A big motor truck, loaded with hen coops, drew up at city hall shortly before the noon hour and remained just long enough for the three men on board to look the place over. No sooner had the motor in the big truck ceased its exertion than several roosters were heard to crow in unison. Hens were cackling and it's the day's best bet that the growers will not have to go short on eggs. The man at the wheel said he didn't know just how many hens he had on board, but he said they were all very valuable and very noisy. It was the first interstate hennery ever seen in Lowell.

HE SWALLOWED POISON

Thomas McDermott, aged about 47 years, of 5 Charles street court, swallowed a mouthful of a poisonous acid this noon believing that he was drinking water and a short time afterward was taken to St. John's hospital where he is now resting comfortably.

McDermott, it is said, was walking through Bott's court when he met a small boy carrying a bottle of the acid. The boy offered McDermott a drink and the latter took a mouthful before noticing the contents of the bottle. He spat it out immediately and the ambulance was summoned to Bott's court to remove the man to the hospital. The boy secured the acid in a Charles street store where it was used for cleaning purposes.

MAP SHOWING APPROXIMATE POSITION OF TROOPS IN EASTERN WAR THEATRE

In this map the present position of the German line after the retreat from Warsaw is shown as well as the Vistula valley and also the lines of defenses upon which the Germans are reported to be falling back. The German advance into Russian Poland began Sept. 25. On Oct. 13 a German column was within eight miles of Warsaw. After four days of hard fighting, in which the German infantry vainly assaulted the Russian positions and the Russian infantry was unable to gain in counter attacks, the Russians began their flanking movement, sending ten divisions of cavalry, from Novo Georgievsk, as indicated in the above map, around the extreme German left to strike at the German rear. The suddenness of the attack produced a panic, and the German retreat on Lowicz and Skierniewicz degenerated into flight. The Russians are continuing the pursuit, evidently intending to give the Germans no opportunity to make a stand and resume the defensive short of their previously prepared positions along the Silesian frontier, which are also indicated on the map.

BUYS TIN AS $6,000 PLATINUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Charles Gassner, a jeweller and diamond importer of 444 Grand street, appeared at police headquarters yesterday with a protest against atrocities committed by "Belgian refugees." Two men, claiming to have escaped from Antwerp, he said, had sold him twenty pounds of tin at $600 a pound, after demonstrating to his entire satisfaction that it was unusually fine platinum.

Half of the total payment, or $6,000, Mr. Gassner turned over in cash, and when the men failed to appear for the remainder he became worried, and taking the precious metal to a fellow jeweller learned of its real value, which is $6.50.

Mr. Gassner said that when the self-styled Belgian refugees came to his store he did not have any testing acid, his bottle of the fluid having been mysteriously broken. The visitors provided some acid which was used on the metal with apparently satisfactory results.

BOSTON & MAINE

Board of Directors Increased From Thirteen to Fourteen

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—At the adjourned meeting of the Boston & Maine R. R. Co. held here today the board of directors was increased from 13 to 14, five old directors resigned and the five new trustees agreed upon by the federal authorities and C. S. Cook of Portland, Me. and E. G. Eastman of Exeter, N. H., were added to the board. Frank P. Carpenter, one of the trustees, was a member of the old board.

The increase in the number of directors was made on a motion of Judge Knowlton, chairman of the trustees.

James H. Hustis, Frederick Dumaine, Samuel Carr, James M. Prendergast, Charles W. Bosworth, James D. Upham, George H. Prouty, Frank P. Carpenter, Marcus P. Knowlton, James L. Doherty, Henry B. Day, Charles P. Hall, Charles S. Cook and E. G. Eastman.

The directors who resigned were Richard Olney, A. W. Sullaway, Lucius Tuttle, E. F. Greene and Alexander Cochrane.

Before the meeting Judge Knowlton made the following statement in behalf of the Boston & Maine trustees: "The purpose of the decree lately entered in the federal court of New York is to take control of the Boston & Maine from the New Haven and rest it temporarily in the board of trustees, whose duty it is to see to it that the Boston & Maine is operated and managed independently of other corporations with a view solely to the interests of its stockholders and members of the corporation and to elect officers for the accomplishment of this purpose. It is proposed ultimately to dispose of the stock to the best advantage under an order of the court in such a way as shall make the separation of the two corporations permanent and to the best advantage of the New Haven company.

"The decree expressly authorizes the election of the trustees into the directorate of the railroad and it seems to contemplate at least to this extent a probable change in the managing board of the corporation.

"The directors elected at the annual meeting in 1913 were 18 in number. Some of them after having accepted office resigned at different times, several months ago, so that the present number is only 13. Others declined to be considered as candidates for re-election. The directors are of the opinion that for business management 14 is a better number than 18 to constitute a board of directors of the Boston & Maine. With some hesitation but in accordance with the expressed expectation of the parties to the suit in which they were appointed the trustees have decided to vote for themselves as directors.

"The corporation is fortunate in its president lately chosen, whose ability and experience gives the trustees great hope and expectation that taking advantage of improved external conditions, if we are favored with them, we shall see the dawn of a brighter day in the financial life of the company."

KENNEY WILL RECOVER

SHOWS REMARKABLE VITALITY—STATE POLICE STILL INVESTIGATING THE EXPLOSION

John Kenney, the 16-year-old boy who was so seriously injured in the explosion at the Mann school, will recover. Kenney's youth and the speedy service rendered by the doctors and surgeons were the factors in his recovery. Dr. T. B. Smith stated today that unless the unforeseen happens Kenney will get better. A great many have been heard to say that it would be better for one injured as badly as Kenney to die, but Dr. Smith is of the very opposite opinion. "I have heard quite a number make that statement," said the doctor, "but I consider it a very wrong statement to make. Take it in Kenney's case. He will have a good right leg and arm and enough of the left leg to handle an artificial limb. Life is too sweet for one to want to give up at the age of 16, under any circumstances."

The state police were expected to arrive in Lowell today for the purpose of resuming their investigation in connection with the accident at the Mann school, but they did not put in an appearance. The investigation, however, is pretty nearly complete and it will take but a short time to attend to the few details that remain. It is necessary to make the examination very complete in order to be prepared for the court actions that will, in all probability, follow.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Wlodyslaw Milefska.

Dated this sixth day of October, A. D. 1914.

STATE LAWS IGNORED

Lowell should not be surprised to hear—as it has heard through the meeting held Tuesday evening in the board of trade rooms—that Assistant Attorney-General Roger Sherman Hoar is preparing to bring suit against the city for its failure to construct the isolation hospital required by state law. Unless our legislature is a joke and our state laws ridiculous, the city will be compelled to do as the legislature has specified. When such action is taken, it will not do to say we cannot afford such a hospital, for some things we must have whether our city council thinks we can afford them or not. Possibly after bringing suit the state may collect the heavy penalties provided for neglect of the statute. Can the city afford that?

The meeting held under the auspices of the Middlesex Women's club, the Lowell guild, and the board of trade, acting through their combined committees, served to emphasize one most important point, viz.: that the fight against contagious disease in general and against tuberculosis in particular is a nation-wide as well as a state-wide fight. Before the law regarding the erection of isolation hospitals was placed on the statute books, active interests from one end of the country worked might and main to attack the insidious evil of tuberculosis which stalks over the land more silently but more deadly than any of the armies of Europe. The eyes of the nation were on Massachusetts, for this state has gained a reputation for advanced health laws and many states waited to see the effect here before adopting similar precautions. Lowell, however, has ignored and scorned the state demand, attracting in turn the scorn of advanced and intelligent men and women in all parts of the country. Where human life is concerned, as was remarked by Dr. Livingston at the hearing, economy, real or pretended, is no excuse.

In his address at the hearing the secretary of the state league testified that Lowell has 123 deaths annually from tuberculosis and that 20 are affected annually for every one who dies. He stated that Fall River has three times as much tuberculosis among the women who work in the textile industry as among those working elsewhere, a statement which confirms the oft-mentioned connection between the textile industry and the terrible disease. It is plain, consequently, that Lowell stands in dire need of intelligent activity towards the stamping out of this plague, and nothing can be done very satisfactorily until an up-to-date isolation hospital is erected. If the state will not admit to its hospitals any more advanced cases of the disease from Lowell, as Mr. Stone stated, the situation here will be serious in the extreme. If the city realized the facts as they were presented at the hearing, there can be no doubt that, despite claims of poverty or economy, there would be a clamor for reform that no officials could withstand.

Lowell has been providentially clear of such epidemics as smallpox or diphtheria on a large scale for some years past, but not less effective for evil has been the relentless tuberculosis that has worked ravages among our workers. Now that intelligent men and women are banded together we may hope for some constructive action that will usher in better conditions. Had Lowell not been carried away by organized insincerity and vilification we would have had an isolation hospital at the present time, and at a price that the city cannot hope to parallel, considering the advantages of site, situation and buildings. Led astray by foolish fears and personal spites, the city refused to listen to the demands of the state, and now our public is beginning to see the enormity of the neglect. We will be lucky indeed if we are not shown very soon by the power of the commonwealth that no personal machinations and no arguments of fake economy can be permitted to jeopardize the health of the people.

CONTRAST IN CAMPAIGNING

One who follows the published accounts of the campaigns being conducted by republicans, progressives and democrats in this state at the present time must come to the conclusion that the democrats are conducting the fairest and most consistent campaign. From Governor Walsh down to the least speaker, each exponent of democratic principles has something positive to offer, and all base the democratic claims on the record of recent achievement, state and national. Whatever the public opinion of their acts may be, no one can deny that they are willing to be judged on their record. They attack no principles and no party, except where compelled to do so by previous attack, but they regard as their main strength the fact that in national politics and in state politics they have kept faith with the public in a degree scarcely paralleled. They do not claim to have made no errors, but they are confident that the slighter things are far outnumbered by the reforms that have been enacted.

How very different is the campaign being waged by the other parties. The recent republican rally in this city is fairly typical of all the republican rallies, and may thus be taken as a criterion. At this rally one heard a great deal of condemnation for all democrats from President Wilson down, but little else. The harmlessly negative republican platform is being followed up by a campaign that promises little or nothing, that makes no reference to the rather unobjectionable republican record in national politics and the unprogressive regime in republican Massachusetts days, that contents itself merely with attacking the record of the democratic party. To be sure, the republican party is on the defensive but it would seem that it should have something to offer as a substitute for the administrations it condemns. The Massachusetts public is not apt to be favorably disposed towards a discredited party, merely because of a promise that if Mr. McCall and his followers are elected things will go in "the same old way." The interpretation given to this phrase by old time republicans and by a great many good people in Massachusetts is not quite the same.

Is it not more to the public welfare to elect men to office who have accomplished a great deal and who demand to be judged by these accomplishments than to elect a party of inactive critics who affect a dog-in-the manger attitude? President Wilson has never attempted to evade responsibility for anything he has supported or achieved; Governor Walsh is discussing his state record with entire frankness. Any promises made in national or state circles may be judged in the light of past achievement. Contrast the political tactics of the two parties, and you will not be long in deciding which is acting with the greater honesty.

In reference to this same matter, it is being circulated through republican channels that the progressives are deserting their standard in great numbers. Lowell does not bear witness to this, though one cannot tell until after the state election. If it be true, there can be no choice for the sincere progressive between the policies of the democratic party and the policies of the republican party. The only applied progressiveness of recent years has been shown by the democrats who have achieved a distinction that may be disliked but that cannot be ignored. Between a party that has been aggressive and active and that stands by its actions and one that has been passive and inactive and merely negative, real progressives will be able to choose easily, whether their progressiveness be spelled with a capital letter or not.

EXPORTS INCREASE

Whether due to the recent notes from England to the state department or not, regarding trade understandings during the war, many papers that have hitherto been more or less pessimistic in their discussions of business conditions are calling attention to the recent great increase in exports. Accordling to the Boston Herald: "The trade statistics begin to show in notably favorable volume the rise in export business which has come to this country on account of the war." Evidently the increase in volume has come to such a marked degree that it can no longer be denied or discounted. Trade figures show that not only the neutral countries but the warring nations are purchasing from us and to a degree in excess of previous years. The goods exported are for the most part foodstuffs, clothing and materials of which the belligerents stand in need and the large demand may be understood when we find that during the last three weeks our export trade has reached a total of $200,000,000.

The boom which seems to be on at last will go a great way in clearing away the stagnation from which American business has partially suffered. Our own mills and factories have shown signs of renewed activity and it is noteworthy that business leads everywhere speak cheerfully of the outlook. It behooves our merchants and manufacturers to make hay while the sun shines, for there is the danger that after a long war the nations may be poor purchasers. Still, this would lighten the competition in the other foreign markets. Regarded from any angle, it looks as though this country is on the brink of a session of unprecedented prosperity which will have beneficial effects in all our industrial centres—Lowell included.

NEWSPAPER "TIPS"

One automobile page yesterday told how a certain individual who sold fire extinguishers saw an account of a fatal motor boat explosion at a popular lake resort and at once conceived the idea of going there and doing business among other motor boat owners. The plan worked splendidly to the advantage of the boat owners and the seller of fire extinguishers. A little reflection will convince any intelligent person that there is scarcely a line of business that would not be benefited by "tips" in the daily papers—though most persons would scan over the item unthinkingly. A representative of a Boston architectural firm came to this city to look up prospects a few weeks ago, owing to business possibilities seen in Lowell newspapers. In like manner one local salesman at least watches the papers for records of marriages, seeing business possibilities in the setting up of a new home. These are but a few instances of business aid got from newspapers even outside of the advertising columns which need no champion. It may amuse the business man occasionally to knock the newspapers, but if he avails of them fully they will prove his greatest friend.

CARRANZA'S REQUEST

That Carranza, almost president of Mexico, has more ideals than most generals in that distracted country is proved by his recent request to Villa, to wit: that he will retire from the presidency in the name of peace, provided Villa also will retire from Mexican public life. Both men made common cause against Huerta, both secured a large following, both were passively, if not actually, aided by our government, and both were successful. With success came misunderstandings and Villa set out to undermine the authority he himself had set up. Villa's speeches are very noble, but his deeds belie them. He has set very difficult conditions for Carranza to accept. If he is sincere, he will receive the acquiescence of Carranza in the spirit in which it is given and help to bring a peace to Mexico in which personalities, ambitions and spites will not enter. It is apparently up to Villa whether Mexico will have war or peace.

How little we think of the dangers of the miner's life when we enjoy the steam heat of our comfortable homes or sit luxuriously in front of the blazing fire. Occasionally such things as the Royalton, Ill., disaster come to wake us from our lethargy. In the life of the miner, the explosion, cave-in or suffocation by poisonous fumes may come at any moment, and progress does little and can do little to make the life safer. The life underground is terrible at its best, but at its worst it makes a story that has more tragedy than words can tell.

It is certainly a matter for congratulation that the school department was not obliged to put the salary-cut into effect. The members of the school board cannot but know that such would have been a most unpopular policy, though the responsibility would rest with the municipal council. Being a member of the school board this last year was anything but enjoyable.

John Jacob Astor, great-great-grandson of the founder of the famous family, wounded in battle in France. What magic there is in a name, after all?

It is not so much the question "Can we afford it?" as the question "Can we still afford to ignore it?"

Wait till the snow falls; then we can track him.

SEEN AND HEARD

James Junior says it is better to go to bed late than never.

When some couples approach the altar, you wonder why the groom isn't wearing the bridal veil.

It isn't the chickens in the road that cause all the automobile wrecks. It is usually the chickens in the machine.

A fellow likes a girl to act kittenish when they are engaged. But after they are married he discovers that kittens grow up.

Some of the good prohibitionists are going to find heaven a lonely, cheerless, unhappy place. There are no saloons to close up there.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to wear the Prince Albert with the velvet collar and cuffs?

Other businesses have to employ travelling representatives. But the barkeep never has to hunt you up to make a sale.

The reason why a girl always keeps the glass wind-shield up when she is driving an automobile is because the glass acts as a mirror and keeps her from worrying about her looks.

Father and the children use up a lot of time being loyal to the old flag. But it could help some if they would show more loyalty to the old flag represented by mother's apron.

Grandma used to wear a mother hubbard, a pair of Congress gaiters and a shawl over her head, and she was dressed up. But nowadays the only way you can tell grandma from her daughter is that grandma is more liberal in her use of paint and powder.

The old-fashioned man who used to drink his booze barefooted now has a son who preaches against the curse of liquor and gets away with a bottle of Joggers Nervine (guaranteed to contain not more than 50 per cent alcohol) every three days.

THE APPLE CROP

That apples are abundant this year is a fact that is well known, but one can hardly realize what an abundance there is unless he takes a trip into the country and notes how some of the trees are still ladened with the fruit, in spite of the numbers that have fallen off. In this connection it may be interesting to note the apple prices down south. Nearly $100,000 worth of Massachusetts apples are being taken to Rio Janeiro in a Boston vessel, which sailed today to arrive in time for the Brazilian's Christmas. The bark Conway is the craft, and so highly thought of are the red beauties from New England in South America that the apples will retail for 10 cents each. For upward of twenty years, Capt. John W. Balano of the schooner Margaret Thomas carried a big holiday cargo of fruit to Rio, and each year he was greeted with a popular demonstration by Brazilians. The skipper has recently died and the duty of being the apple Santa Claus has devolved on Capt. Davis. Perhaps, sometime, this southern market will be worked for what it is worth, and surplus crops will find a market there instead of in Europe.

Below is given an Andover student's view of Harvard: "I took a stroll through the new freshman dormitories out at Cambridge the other afternoon. The predominant feeling I experienced in making the tour of these three big halls, with their own courtyard and board walks, was very much like that of visiting any one of the numerous colleges that make up the great universities of Oxford or Cambridge in England. There is a sense of isolation about this locality, set apart for the freshmen. Nevertheless, you fully realize that you are quite within the hallowed precincts of the great university. Although these new halls have been occupied less than a fortnight the aspect of newness and fresh paint has already vanished and their atmosphere is as homelike and snug as that of the old dormitories in the college yard. The living rooms I visited were like the typical collegiate den—simply but comfortably furnished and adorned with the usual student paraphernalia. As each of the three halls has its own dining room and reading room there is no lack of accommodations for bringing the freshmen in close touch with each other. Already a freshman debating club has been organized and other social organizations for the promotion of good fellowship are on the tapis. I asked one of the freshmen if the sophomores had included their presence here as yet, having in mind the rude and unwelcome visits the upper classmen were formerly wont to make on the neophytes. 'No,' he said, 'they haven't bothered us a bit, though they drop in occasionally for a friendly call.' Apparently the old hazing days are over. The only discordant note I found in these dormitories was the locks and other fittings of the doors of the main entrances. These all bear the name of Yale in conspicuous letters of shining brass. There was a time at Harvard when this rude intrusion would not have been tolerated beyond a single dark night."

THE APPLE TREE

When an apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat
There isn't any structure in the land that's "got it beat;"
There's nothing man has builded with the beauty or the charm
That can touch the simple grandeur of the monarch of the farm;
There's never any picture from a human being's brush
That has ever caught the redness of a single apple's blush.

When an apple tree's in blossom it is glorious to see,
But that's just a hint at springtime of the better things to be,
That is just a fairy promise from the Great Magician's wand
Of the wonders and the splendors that are waiting just beyond
The distant edge of summer; just a forecast of the treat
When the apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat.

Architects of splendid vision long have labored on the earth
And have raised their dreams in marble, and we've marveled at their worth;
Long the spires of costly churches have looked upward at the sky,
Rich in promise and in beauty they have cheered the passerby,
But I'm sure there's nothing finer for the eye of man to meet
Than an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

There's the promise of the blossoms, red and gleaming in the sun
Like the medals worn by mortals as rewards for labors done;
And the big arms stretched wide open, with a welcome warm and true
In a way that sets you thinking it's intended just for you
There is nothing with a beauty so entrancing, so complete
As an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

DEATH OF MONARCHIES

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal has counseled his adherents in that country to postpone their contemplated uprising for the restoration of the monarchy until the war in Europe is over. He is a wise young man, inasmuch as the outcome of that war may be the sounding of the knell of monarchical governments and it would hardly be worth while for Manuel to recover his job, even were that possible, only to be fired from it shortly after.—Fall River Globe.

NOTHING THE MATTER

There is nothing the matter with this country and there has been nothing the matter with it. We know what crops we have raised. We know that we have iron and steel and cotton and wheat and corn and manufactured goods of every description, and we know that the world wants these things.—Meriden Journal.

GOVERNMENT

When government is best it will be but a small part of the activity of society. Its principal duties will be to provide police and courts. The citizen's principal relations to government will be to pay taxes and kick. The insistence on publicity will make impossible the enormous waste on armaments. Will make financiers and gun-makers afraid to promote war as is said to have been done in the Balkans.—Lewiston Sun.

THE DIGNITY OF THE COURT

Our Maine supreme court added to its ostensible dignity years ago by borrowing the gown but not the wig of antiquity. Down south the judges are going to the other extreme. In order to increase the demand for southern cotton, the judges in some of the southern courts, notably in Jackson, Miss., appeared Monday in overalls. As a symbol of a working court, overalls are no disgrace. Excellent human beings have been known in overalls—such for example as Edison.—Lewiston Journal.

ADMINISTRATION CRITICS

If a little of the effort that has been spent in denouncing the administration and congress could have been devoted to removing dishonest men from positions in high finance, business would have been in a position to go ahead on a basis of high prosperity.—Lawrence Tribune.

UNITY MISUNDERSTOOD

Never a truer word did a democratic congressman up for re-election say than that a vote for him would be a vote of confidence in President Wilson. President Wilson was congress. The democratic congressmen took their orders from him and did his bidding in every respect. It is a question, however, whether the people of the United States are convinced that the time has arrived for uniting the legislative and the executive functions of the government and placing supreme power in the hands of the president.—Springfield Union.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A Hallowe'en party was held last evening in connection with the regular meeting of Echo lodge, 44, N. E. O. P. Whist was then played the winners being as follows: Carrie L. Mountain, first; Richard A. Curtin, second; Margaret B. McLaren, third; Agnes C. Porter, booby. It was announced that ball would be called at the next meeting. Past Warden Katherine L. Curtin, Margaret B. Bertrand, John J. Riley, Catherine Riley, Richard A. Curtin and Oswald J. Bertrand will have charge of the program at the next meeting.

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F.

At the regular meeting of Centralville lodge, No. 215, I. O. O. F., held last evening in its hall on Bridge street it was voted to hold a "Hillerica night" on January 10, 1915, when an invitation will be extended to all Odd Fellows connected with the Boston & Maine repair shops and to all members of Shawsheen lodge, No. 64, of Billerica to be present. Two applications for membership were read and committees were appointed to arrange for socials during the winter months.

S. H. Hines Lodge, K. of P.

The following from the Pythian Gleam was read at the meeting of S. H. Hines lodge, K. of P. last evening: "The lodges of Lowell will unite in a grand patriotic mass meeting in Associate hall in that city on Wednesday evening, November 4. The speakers will include Col. A. P. Donnell of the Massachusetts brigade, U. R., who will give an address on some neglected points in the history of the star spangled banner; Lieut. Colonel Richard Skane, who served in the United States army in Cuba and the Philippines; Captain Percy B. Dakyn, an honor man in the British army in the Boer war; Sergeant Frank G. Thompson, who was an officer on the battleship Maine when it was blown up in Havana harbor, and Captain Charles Remsen, who was an officer in Carranza's army in Mexico. Faulkner company, U. R., of Boston, under the command of Captain Palmer, will also give an exhibition drill."

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, feverish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of your bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other and see that yours is made by the fig syrup.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL
Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Miss BERTHA A. PELOQUIN, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N.Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

INVESTIGATION OF SING SING PRISON

Stephen P. Baldwin, Appointed by Governor Glynn, Will Conduct Sweeping Investigation Into Administration of the Famous Prison

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A sweeping investigation into the administration of Sing Sing prison will be begun tomorrow by Stephen P. Baldwin, appointed yesterday by Gov. Glynn as a special investigator. Mr. Baldwin so announced today, saying that he expected to summon witnesses to testify before him in Brooklyn tomorrow.

Mr. Baldwin said that he would not only investigate the case of David A. Sullivan, the banker convicted of wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, who is reported to have received extraordinary favors from the prison authorities, but would take up many other matters in connection with prison discipline there.

John J. Malloy, an official at Sing Sing, was taken from jail today. Malloy had spent two nights and a day a prisoner in contempt of court for his refusal to testify concerning reports that Sullivan had gone automobile riding with Warden McCormick on numerous occasions. District Attorney Cropsey said that Malloy had decided to testify at the instance of Governor Glynn.

George Ford, a Yonkers policeman, was summoned before the grand jury. It is understood the district attorney planned to ask him if it were true that Sullivan had recently lost his way in Yonkers and appealed to Ford to set him right.

Mr. Cropsey's detectives were searching high and low today for Miss Louise Burkhardt of Yonkers, said to have been Sullivan's confidential clerk. Mr. Cropsey wants to question her as to the accuracy of reports that Sullivan had conferred often with her in Yonkers when he was supposed to have been in jail.

MAY SUSPEND WARDEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 28.—John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons, said today that he would probably act later in the day on Governor Glynn's request, made public last night, that Warden McCormick of Sing Sing prison be suspended pending the Brooklyn grand jury inquiry.

GIFTS TO MRS. CARMAN

WOMAN OUT ON BAIL AFTER DISAGREEMENT OF JURY IN MURDER TRIAL SHOWERED

FREEPORT, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Florence Carman, who on Monday was released on $25,000 after the disagreement of the jury in her trial for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, today left her home for her husband's farm at Raven Rock, N. J. Dr. Carman, her daughter Elizabeth and George M. Levy accompanied her. A number of neighbors and townfolk intimately acquainted with the Carman family gathered at the house before the party left in an automobile.

Since Mrs. Carman returned home from her cell in the Nassau county jail she has been showered with gifts of flowers. Mr. Levy announced that it had not been decided as yet whether a second trial would be demanded for his client. The Carmans and Mr. Levy expect to remain at Raven Rock for two weeks.

NO BAN ON CHICKENS

Health Board Permits Fowls Within 25 Feet of Neighbors, Providing Coops Are Sanitary

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Chicken lovers may now cease to be anxious for their pets. The board of health yesterday passed an amendment to the sanitary code providing that poultry may be kept within 25 feet of any inhabited building other than that of the owner. Permits will be issued only when the coops are sanitary and when a tenant in a two-family house has the consent of the other tenant to the keeping of fowl.

The board contemplated two months ago forbidding the raising of chickens within 75 feet of a dwelling, but a vigorous protest from fanciers in all the boroughs led the board to fix the present limit.

EYES TROUBLE YOU?

TRY THIS SIMPLE RECEIPT

W all know some remedy for our minor troubles, and by the use of these remedies many a doctor's bill is saved and doubtless many a life.

How few know what to do when their eyes become tired and ache, or feel dry and inflamed from abuse and overuse? In the morning your eyes feel rough or sticky, or they trouble you when you read. What do you do? Most of us rush off and get glasses (perhaps at some cheap store where no skill is used in fitting our eyes), which we very often do not need at all. Thousands are wearing unfit or unnecessary glasses which they might better discard and other thousands can, with a little care, probably so strengthen their eyes that glasses might never be necessary. Here is a free receipt that may be relied upon to give comfort and to help the eyes of some people; it is harmless and has the enthusiastic endorsement of thousands who have used it:

2 Ounces Water.

Use it as an eye wash night and morning, or oftener if possible. It makes most eyes feel fine, quickly allays irritation, brightens the eyes and sharpens the vision. Many who have used it no longer feel the need of glasses; many others have ceased to fear that they will soon be obliged to wear them. Get the Optona tablets from the Riker Jaynes store or from your nearest druggist and prepare the solution at your own home.

EDISON AT DETROIT

FAMOUS INVENTOR VISITING THE SCENE OF HIS BOYHOOD—SENDS MESSAGE TO CHILDREN

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28.—It developed today that Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, who has been visiting scenes of his boyhood in this section of the state for the last week, cast off the mantle of his years yesterday and on a trip to Port Huron once more tried his hand at the operator's key and even went so far as to take the wares from a news vendor and sell them among his friends.

As a boy, Mr. Edison sold papers and worked as an operator for the same railroad over which he traveled to Port Huron yesterday. His last trip, however, was in a special train engaged for him by his host, Henry Ford, a local manufacturer.

As the famous inventor passed through Mount Clemens he stepped into the telegraph operator's office and tapped off a message to his children in New Jersey. The message was interrupted, however, when the Mount Clemens operator turned to Mr. Edison with a smile.

"An operator on the line is complaining. He says there is a boy on the wire whose practicing is gumming things up."

It was not reported what the operator said when he was told that Thos. A. Edison had caused the trouble.

At Port Huron Mr. Ford insisted upon equipping his guest with all the equipment of news butcher.

Mr. Edison appeared to take keen delight in the situation and he was soon selling fruit and candy to his friends. Gum brought as high as 5 cents a package and when the inventor stepped off the train he poured the proceeds of his day's business into the hat of a grinning porter.

100,000 ARE STARVING

INHABITANTS OF JERUSALEM SUFFERING BECAUSE OF THE WAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—One hundred thousand inhabitants of Jerusalem are facing starvation, according to Samuel Edelman, American vice consul in that city, who reached here today on the steamer Ancona. Two-thirds of the residents of Jerusalem are Jews. For many years they have depended upon their living from tourists and upon charity for support and the war has cut off all their sources of subsistence.

There are no industries in the city and little cultivation of the surrounding territory. The cold and rainy season is now approaching and indications are that the suffering there will soon be intense, Mr. Edelman asserted.

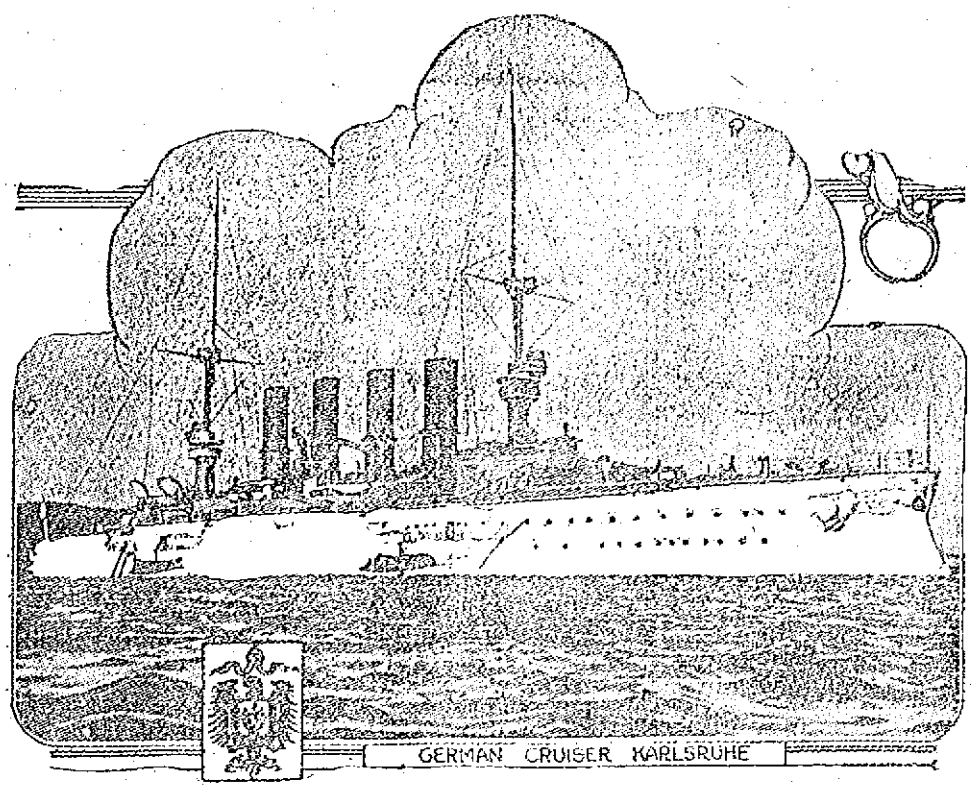
MR. ARVIL CHAMPNEY

New York Printer Formerly Employed on The Sun Drops in for Few Hours' Stay

Mr. Arvil Champney, former president of the Typographical union in Union Hill, New Jersey, now employed in New York, visited Lowell yesterday to renew old acquaintances for "Chappy" as he was affectionately called when employed on The Sun, has always been regarded hereabouts by the printers as a prince of good fellows. Mr. Champney gazed on the surrounding landscape from the tenth story of the Sun, and said in equipment the structure compares favorably with the finest in the metropolis. He had a pleasant smile and a good word for his old time acquaintances on The Sun, and left for the "big town" after a few happy hours in Lowell.

GERMAN CRUISER KARLSRUHE SOUGHT BY DOZENS OF BRITISH SHIPS IN ATLANTIC



The German cruiser Karlsruhe, of a trifle less than 5000 tons, has had in this war a career as eventful in the Atlantic as that of the smaller German Emden in the Indian ocean. The Karlsruhe first came into notice at the outbreak of the war when she appeared in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, apparently in wait for British merchantmen leaving New York. For a few days the British shipping hugged their piers and then came news that the Karlsruhe had been driven away by the approach of several British cruisers. On Aug. 9 the Karlsruhe appeared in the harbor of San Juan, Porto Rico, where she coaled. Soon afterward the Karlsruhe had a running fight at sea with the British cruisers Suffolk and Essex. Since then she has sunk or captured thirteen British vessels in the Atlantic, while the Emden has sunk or captured twenty-one British craft in the Indian ocean. Searching for these two German cruisers and five or six others and working in concert under various commanders in chief are upward of seventy British, Australian, Japanese, French and Russian cruisers, not including auxiliary cruisers. Among these are a number of the fastest British cruisers. According to the official announcement of the English admiralty, "the percentage of loss is much less than was reckoned on before the war. Out of 4000 British ships engaged in the foreign trade only thirty-nine have been sunk by the enemy, or less than 1 per cent. in all. Besides seven vessels are now overdue in Atlantic waters. Between 8000 and 9000 foreign voyages have been undertaken to and from United Kingdom ports, less than five per 1000 of which have been interfered with. On the other hand, German oversea trade has practically ceased to exist. Nearly all their fast ships which could have been used as auxiliary cruisers, were promptly penned into neutral harbors or have taken refuge in their own. Among the comparatively few German ships which have put to sea, 133 have been captured or nearly four times the number of those lost by the very large British mercantile marine."

FACES BUSY YEAR

To provide for the capacity enrolment this fall at the college of St. Elizabeth, in New Jersey, it was announced today that the authorities will transform a part of the large administration building into a dormitory. This step was decided upon so that the large number of young ladies on the college waiting list might be accommodated immediately.

The renovations in the Administration building provide for a transformation of the east wing into sleeping quarters. Santa Rita Hall, the newest dormitory on the campus, was originally intended for only a hundred girls. The college authorities aim to build in the near future a new residence hall for the continually increasing numbers in the entering classes.

In the choice of curriculum work this year a striking preference has been displayed by the young women for the science departments. In the domestic science department alone the enrolment is more than doubled, and the college will add to its faculty within a few days to meet this exigency.

NOV. 26 THANKSGIVING

President Wilson Issues Proclamation Designating Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President Wilson today issued a proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 26, as Thanksgiving day.

The president's proclamation, which refers to the efat that the United States is at peace while the rest of the world is at war, follows:

By the president of the United States of America:

A proclamation:

It long has been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since last observed our day of national thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of change which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessings for us.

It has been vouchsafed to us to remain at peace, with honor, and in some part to succor the suffering and supply the needs of those who are in want. We have been privileged by our own peace and self control in some degree to steady the counsels and shape the hopes and purposes of a day of fear and distress. Our people have looked on their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a fuller realization of their responsibilities as well as of their blessings and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to be.

The hurtful effects of foreign war in their own industrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the more fully and see the more clearly their mutual inter-dependence upon one another and has stirred them to a helpful cooperation such as they have seldom practiced before. They have been quickened by a great moral stimulation. Their unmistakable ardor for peace, their earnest pity and disinterested sympathy for those who are suffering, their readiness to help and to think of the needs of others has revealed them to themselves as well as to the world.

Our crops will feed all who need food; the self possession of our people amidst the most serious anxieties and difficulties and the steadiness and resourcefulness of our business men will serve other nations as well as our own.

The business of the country has been supplied with new instrumentalities and the commerce of the world with new channels of trade and intercourse. The Panama canal has been opened to the commerce of the nations. The two continents of America have been bound in closer ties of friendship. New instrumentalities of international trade have been created which will be also new instrumentalities of acquaintance, intercourse and mutual service. Never before have the people of the United States been so situated for their own advantage or the advantage of their neighbors or so equipped to serve themselves and mankind.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America do hereby designate Thursday, the 26th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set by hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 28th day of October in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-ninth.

(Signed) Woodrow Wilson.

By the President, Robert Lansing, Acting Secretary of State.

NEW YORKERS DRINKING LESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New Yorkers seem to be cutting out intoxicants. At any rate figures show that the number of saloons in Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn are decreasing. For instance, 236 fewer licenses were issued in these three boroughs since Oct. 1 than in the corresponding period of last year. That means a loss to the state and city of $205,000. The total receipts for the excise year ended on Sept. 30 in Manhattan and The Bronx alone were $40,000 less than in the previous year.

Figures for Manhattan and The Bronx obtained yesterday from the deputy commissioner show that in those two boroughs alone 153 fewer licenses have been issued than in the same period of last year. The total was 8213, netting $6,623,557, or $145,000 less than last year.

Various reasons are assigned for the decrease. The war is given as one; hard times is another. Motion picture theatres, which have provided places in which to spend part of the evening, are given as still another.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

Forty-Fifth Annual Report Shows Great Scope of Work of Local Institution

The 45th annual report of St. John's hospital embracing the work done by this worthy institution during the years 1912 and 1913 is at hand and contains much interesting reading and statistical matter. Upon perusing the report one is surprised at the great amount of work that is being done at the hospital, as also the great amount of work done for which no remuneration is received. The report also gives a comprehensive idea of the cosmopolitan character of the institution, within whose comforting walls representatives of about every country on earth have at one time or another received medical and surgical aid.

Dr. Huntress' Statement

Introductory to the report is a statement prepared by Dr. Leonard M. Huntress, president of the hospital faculty, which reads as follows:

In spite of the fact that there are in Lowell three hospitals of fair dimensions, it is certainly true that this city has not hospital room sufficient to accommodate all patients who seek hospital treatment in time of an epidemic. The staff hoped that before this report was printed the new wing for which we have so long waited would be built. But this was not to be. In all probability, however, this will be accomplished before another year goes by, and then we shall have approximately twice our present number of beds. Only the most careful management has enabled the institution to care so well during all these years for all our patients, and now to be in a position to promise with confidence that we shall soon have our increased accommodations which we so sorely need.

It is not pleasant to beg, but hospitals are often obliged to resort to this expedient, and the public thinks no less of them for so doing. Even crusades of begging are permitted in communities. Yes, they are often applauded. Now, it is not our intention to start a crusade or even to hint at such a thing but we feel it our right to call the attention of the public to the fact that in this hospital the city of Lowell has a worthy institution which deserves much at their hands. We have just made use of the word "beg." We should have used some other word. For it is not begging to ask for fair pay for work performed or goods delivered; and this hospital would be more than satisfied if it could receive that.

We have often heard St. John's hospital spoken of as an emergency hospital. Certainly this is in a sense true, for owing to its central location, as well as its well-earned reputation, a large percentage of the emergency cases of the city are brought here. But a careful study of the statistics of this report will show the large number of medical cases treated here with marked success, and the varied character of the surgical operations which have been followed by results of which we believe we have reason to be proud.

As a matter of fact, all of the Lowell hospitals are today showing every bit as good results as the hospitals in the larger cities, and we ask you to bear this statement in mind in studying the statistics of the laparotomies and especially of the appendectomies in this report.

Not seldom a Lowell patient goes to one of the larger cities to place himself in the hands of a surgeon of nation wide or world wide reputation, when he could receive just as skilful surgical treatment and just as good hospital care in this city.

Since our last report was printed St. John's hospital has met with a sad and serious loss in the death of Dr. Robert E. Bell, for many years a member of our surgical staff. Dr. Bell was so well known and so well beloved in Lowell that no eulogium is necessary. He was recognized as one of our ablest specialists on the eye, ear and throat, while as an all round physician and surgeon he was a credit to this hospital, to the city of Lowell and to his profession.

We are pleased to be able to endorse the management of the training school for nurses. The care and discrimination shown in the admission of candidates to the school, and the thoroughness used in their training on both medical and surgical sides of the hospital may assure the public that a diploma from this training school is not issued for real merit.

We can think of no more fitting motto for a hospital than "deeds not words."

So we simply desire to call attention to what is being done here. In other words, we ask you to study the statistics.

In their statement to their patrons, the Sisters of Charity, after expressing their deep appreciation of the interest taken by the public in the hospital call attention to the following facts:

During the past two years, 553 persons were given free treatment in the hospital and 247 persons were treated who only paid in part; 693 accident cases were treated free in the emergency department, and 11,102 treatments were given in the out-patient department; hence, it is evident that, with the increased cost of maintenance of today, the receipts from the board of patients must fall far short of the expenditures for them, and that a deficit is unavoidable, even with the strictest economy, while improvements are impossible without the assistance of generous contributions.

The hospital still has in reserve, as a nucleus for the building fund for the new wing, to which we are still looking forward, a portion of the legacies already received, and trust that other kind friends of St. John's will, by their gifts, enable us to see our hopes realized.

Among the many urgent needs which the contemplated new wing would supply is a department for maternity cases, the applications for such accommodations having been very numerous during the past few years; an addition of this character would obviate the necessity of sending our nurses out of the city for their obstetrical training, and would prove a great benefit to many.

Interesting Statistics

During the years 1912, 1913, there were admitted to the hospital proper 2105 patients (this does not include the out-patient department). Of these, 1466 were discharged as cured; 345 were discharged as improved; 79 discharged unimproved, while there were 135 deaths. Of the total number of deaths 66 died within 24 hours.

When one considers the fact that in a great number of cases the patient is not taken to the hospital until in a dying condition, the mortality of the institution is remarkably low. Of the total number of patients received, 553 were free cases for which the hospital received no remuneration whatever, 247 were cases paying in part, while the remaining number who paid in full received treatment for the bare cost thereof, for the institution is not run to make money.

In the emergency department there were 864 accident cases, while 316 cases were brought in by the city ambulance and 865 accident cases that returned for treatment, making a total of 2075.

In the out-patient department there were 2501 new cases treated in the dispensary and 7736 old cases, making a total of 10,237.

The surgical operations performed at the hospital during the two years numbered 1065, an average of about three per day. Those operations were classed as follows: General surgical operations, 702; gynecological, 143; eye, ear, nose and throat, 250.

The social status of the patients shows that while a majority were natives of this country, including about every state in the union, there were several hundred foreigners among the patients representing 27 foreign countries, including Greece, Arabia, Armenia, Asia Minor, Syria, Turkey, Russia, and other remote quarters of the globe for class or creed is never considered at St. John's.

The report of the emergency department states: Much is done for the poor of Lowell in this department, since the majority of cases treated either do not pay at all or scarcely pay for material used.

In his report of the X-ray department, Dr. Joseph A. Mehan, who is the roentgenologist of the hospital, says:

Previous to June, 1913, the work was done with a portable coil and radiographs obtained after long exposure to the rays. In June we had installed a SureX transformer, which allows a much greater scope of work and reduces the time of exposure to the minimum. With a coil it took from 15 to 30 seconds' exposure for a radiograph of an elbow, but with the transformer the time of exposure is reduced to one second.

With the transformer it became possible to do "bismuth work" and 14 cases were radiographed for the purpose of showing the outline of the stomach and intestines as the bismuth passed through. This part of the work will become of greater importance and will help in the early diagnosis of disease of the digestive tract. Our next report will undoubtedly contain many cases of abnormal condition shown by bismuth.

The total number of radiographs was 436.

In his report for the St. John's Hospital society, the purpose of which is to lend moral and material assistance to the hospital, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, president of the society, says:

The officers of the society and many citizens, including well known physicians who understand the needs of the hospital and the work it is doing, asked the municipal council for a grant of money to cover at least in part the work which the hospital has been doing for a long time practically gratuitously; the request was based on the ground that the hospital relieves the city of a great burden which would naturally fall upon it otherwise, and brought out the fact that the hospital does much work for the city's needy at a cost entirely out of proportion with rates established by the industrial accident board for such work.

While it was not possible to obtain relief in this direction during the present year, it is hoped that the opinion may soon prevail that such a grant of money will not be regarded merely as a grant to a private institution, but as the partial payment for invaluable service which must be furnished the people of the city in their just needs."

GENTLY ASSISTING NATURE

Those who find their breath bad in the morning, a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, a mean feeling in the head, will do well to try Pinklets, the new laxative.

Constipation, which these symptoms denote, is dangerous because it means that poisonous materials which should have been expelled from the body are being retained. It is a condition which, if not corrected, becomes chronic.

Even chronic constipation can be corrected by care in the diet and persistent treatment with a gentle laxative.

The use of harsh laxatives, unfortunately so common, gives temporary relief but in the end aggravates constipation. Pinklets are dainty, sugar-coated pills, hardly larger than a mustard seed and they act gently, causing no nausea or griping. They aid digestion and are a good after-dinner pill, especially when more food has been taken than the needs of the body require. They clear away the waste and prevent congestion. With a little persistence, which the result is well worth, they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free sample.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Master baby must be under his doctor's orders when open air sleeping is talked about, for it is not always wise to expose a very young delicate child too much, especially in a changeable or damp climate, but most physicians and mothers advocate the daily nap in the open air.

For this purpose, various clever contrivances in the way of swinging hammocks are provided. The most extensive but not prohibitive styles have detachable canvas roofs which may be slanted at various angles to keep off sun or wind. A new kind has the hammock of a porous hemp which has a canvas sheath, the latter to be drawn up over the thinner fabric in cold weather.

The sides should be high and the pillow or mattress inside not too high so as to keep the child from falling out. It pays also to get a good, firm frame. These fold up when traveling or when stored indoors, as they should be when not in use, unless kept in a very sheltered corner, because baby's bed must always be dry. It is advisable to put a hot water bottle at a child's feet when sleeping out of doors in cold weather.

If you are looking about for gifts for a new baby there are a few simple suggestions which it will be well to bear in mind. Dainty little slips, plainly gathered into neck and sleeve bands edged with a little valenciennes lace may be made at home, but excellently wearing varieties may be bought from one dollar and a half upward.

Select something for immediate use, such as caps, bibs, flannel skirts, mittens, sweaters and the like. A set of seven little slips or night gowns makes a nice outfit—one clean for every day of the week. The newest caps have ribbon run through the material, but separate bows and rosettes are always acceptable since they soil so easily, and a baby to be attractive must be immaculate.

The newest bibs have underarm extensions tied across the back with ribbons, and these are very convenient. For two dollars and upward one can find many pretty time bibs, and these are always needed sooner or later.

All the care possible for the cows and all the sterilizing that can be given to milk cans and bottles goes for naught if the housewife does not use precautions on her side. The housewife does her part by dipping all these bottles in boiling water and after letting them boil five minutes they are stacked in yard until, at the time the quarantine is lifted, the board of health comes and washes them all again with disinfectant.

The milk in sealed bottles is supposed to reach her in a sanitary condition, but when she pours it out does she always remember to wipe the mouth of the bottle off first with a clean cloth? Does she press the paper seal down into contact with the milk inside when opening the bottle or does she remember to remove the seal with a sharp instrument which keeps the milk from absorbing any soil from the seal?

The bottle should always be covered again quickly when not in use and kept covered in the refrigerator so that it will not absorb impurities. Do not replace the paper seal when the bottle is once opened. Cover the top with a glass tumbler or butter plate instead and never pour back into the jar any milk that has once been removed.

If we attempt to harden our children during the periods of rapid growth, the consequences may be disastrous. These periods of rapid growth are between the fourth and fifth, and ninth and the tenth and the thirteenth and the fifteenth years.

During the first few years of a child's life it is necessary only to adapt his body to indoor temperatures, and suitably clad, to varying outdoor temperatures. The child should not be given even mildly cold baths before he is three or four years of age, and this in the morning.

Up to the time he is fourteen a short stimulating bath in the morning is all that is necessary. Regularity in this matter is important. Safety and comfort are the criteria, depending upon the susceptibility of the child.

Careful mothers will not give children pennies and nickles with which to purchase cakes and candies at noon, as their selection for sweets is seldom in accordance with the laws of digestion. Such fruits as bananas, oranges and apples are easily packed, and are better for a school child than rich cake and pie.

Occasionally, hard-boiled eggs, accompanied by plain bread and butter, may be substituted for cold meat sandwiches. Little jars of potato or chicken salad can easily be put into the lunch basket and sometimes pickles and olives vary the midday school meal.

A modified club sandwich, and one which comprises almost a meal in itself, is made of two slices of bread toasted on one side, the other side is buttered and lettuce, small piece of bacon, a piece of cold chicken or other fowl, a slice of pickle and a little Mayonnaise dressing constitute the filling.

The well baby needs simple guidance to see that he keeps well; the sick baby needs, and usually gets attention. In the effort to make him well; but the merely delicate baby, with enfeebled powers of resistance to disease and of constant low vitality, needs both guidance and the best attention that medical science affords.

The basis of all modern medicine is prevention of disease. To keep the baby well is far easier, safer and surer than to cure him after he has once become ill. It takes very little to cause illness in the baby, and the result is often seemingly out of all proportion to the cause.

The same digestive disturbances that, in an adult, would cause at the most a passing discomfort, will result in acute illness in the baby, often with the most disastrous effect, and the infection which passes the adult by finds a quick victim in the baby.

THE SPELLBINDER

The utter lack of enthusiasm over the different republican candidates in this campaign is the best evidence of the fact that the republican party, locally at least, is badly on the rocks. Shortly after the nominations were made Hon. Horton H. Hilton, chairman of the republican city committee, with other party hustlers started a movement to revive the city committee and to get up some of the old time interest and enthusiasm that was ever on tap in the state campaigns. Whether you may agree with Mr. Hilton politically or not you must admit that he is a staunch party man, a hustler and an untiring worker for the cause, and the man to place at the head of such a movement. But the task was too big even for "Hortie," and nothing has been done to get the revival going. It was suggested that prominent republicans be seen and asked for contributions and they were seen, but again there was nothing doing. Last Saturday night the republicans had a rally, with the candidate for governor and our own congressman as the principal speakers. The usual street parade was held with a band at its head. But such a parade for the republican party of Lowell to hold! Outside of the mounted contingent from Dracut, there were only a straggling few in line, while the 100 or more at the hall included nearly as many democrats as republicans and it certainly was a cold gathering. In the senatorial contests too, the usual interest in the republican candidates is not to be found. Candidate Kimball of Littleton hasn't shown up in Lowell, publicly thus far, while Candidate Marchand is obliged to make a personal canvass to hold his own party. The republican party in Lowell is in a deplorable state of decay at the present time.

On the other hand, despite the untiring efforts of the Courier-Citizen to make its readers believe that there is democratic disaffection in Lowell that condition is not evident to any material extent. While the democratic rally of last evening was held under difficulties by reason of the fact that no hall was available on that particular date, it was in every way successful and augured well for Tuesday's results.

The Senatorial Contests

It is a long time since the democrats of wards five and nine have taken such a lively interest in their senatorial candidate as is manifest in Henry P. Dunn, of Lynn, who in a comparatively short time has made himself well known and decidedly popular. His enthusiasm and optimism have proven infectious and he'll get every democratic vote in the two wards. Up to Tuesday evening Candidate Kimball was comparatively unknown even by reputation in Lowell and few were aware of the fact that he is a member of the legislature. They knew him by reputation after Mr. Dunn had finished his recital of his opponent's record, however, for the democratic candidate showed a surprising familiarity with the affairs of the state house and particularly with his opponent's legislative record. Candidate Kimball hasn't made any speeches in Lowell, as yet, and as the time is drawing close, it is doubtful that the Lowell voters will be given the pleasure of listening to him.

One progressive candidate who will get a fine vote in this city is Dr. Livingston, the senatorial candidate in the eighth district, for there is an element in the republican party which, while it would not support a democrat under any circumstances, will not vote for Candidate George E. Marchand and will throw its support to Dr. Livingston. But Dr. Livingston can hardly be elected and Senator Draper will succeed himself.

Rep. Jewett's Job

The republican legislative committee of the general court has assigned Representative Victor Jewett to cooperate with the republican candidates in all the local districts and one of his duties will be "to attempt to arouse an interest in the prominent republican citizens who may be inclined to manifest only an apathetic sympathy in the present local contests." "Apathetic," by the way, means indifferent, lacking in interest, and has no reference to that element of the party whose title is included in the first three letters of the word. It's rather rough on Victor, who has troubles of his own in the 17th district, to insist on him going forth into the bailiwick of others. The leaders must imagine that Mr. Jewett has a walkover in his own district. Why was Representative Achin ignored in the choice of this arousing committee since it is a recognized fact that "Vic and Hen" have always done their most successful work in combination. There's Eddie Killpatrick who didn't show up at Vic's love feast to the defeated candidates, yet to be squared, and there is also a significant silence relative to the "heavenly twins," Achin and Jewett, a slogan that was heard in all corners of the district in the past; an indication that there may be a split somewhere.

Rep. Kiggins' Contest

While former Alderman Burt Crosby is a good fellow, and in every way qualified for the position of representative from the 19th district, there is no good reason why Representative John J. Kiggins, after a satisfactory record at the state house should not be given a second term. The only criticism that has been made concerning Representative Kiggins is that he missed. I believe, some few roll-calls. The critics, however, simply make the bare statement and let it go at that, while the voter if he chooses to, may draw the inference that Representative Kiggins was careless or indifferent to the duties of his position. During his term of office, Representative Kiggins was married and absented himself for a week or more while on his honeymoon. The roll-calls referred to came up during his absence and there were no measures of particular importance among them, a fact which the critics took care not to explain.

Rep. Brennan's Friends Confident

The temporary alarm of the friends of Representative Brennan over the appearance of Michael A. Lee, a former democrat and business agent of a strong labor union, as the progressive candidate in the 14th district, has abated as it would appear that the democrats and labor men alike are taking the right view of the matter, and while they admire Mr. Lee personally, will not throw down a man whose labor record is without a flaw by making possible the election of Mr. Colburn, through the medium of complimentary votes for the third candidate. Thus far Representative Brennan's opponents have offered no word of criticism as to his conduct or record, and they could not offer any did they so desire. He favored the different amendments to the workingmen's compensation bill that came up during the year and voted for the referendum on the proposition for Saturday half holidays for city laborers and for two weeks' vacation for those laborers, two matters which properly should go before the people for enactment. On the firemen's two-platoon bill so-called, which has caused much discussion throughout the state, Rep. Brennan was right, for he voted for both the initiative and the referendum on this important measure. The bill now provides that in cities of 50,000 or more if 25 per cent. of the voters desire the change; the proposition shall be placed on the ballot for action by the entire electorate. Thus the bill as at present constituted is far from being an attempt to shove unpopular legislation down the throats of the people for 25 per cent. of the voters must favor placing it on the ballot before it shall come up at all. Representative Brennan worked hard for the progress of the proposition to make the Merrimack river navigable and in fact was on the right side of all measures affecting this locality and its people. As town clerk of Dracut for eight years he was familiar with legislative procedure and had a wide acquaintance in the different state departments upon entering upon his legislative career. He is clearly entitled to a second term. The voters of Dracut will rally to his support despite the fact that the republican candidate is also a resident of that town for they are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct during the past session and believe that he should receive a second term.

Mayor Has Been Studying

Do you know what a social survey is? I read the Courier-Citizen's account of it, but all that I could make out of it was, that whatever it may be, it will cost between $5000 and $15,000. The Courier-Citizen informs us that Mayor Murphy has been studying the problem, having made some inquiries with a view to finding out the chances for a study of this city at a reasonable cost. About the time that His Honor was brushing up on what a social survey might be, the city was in such bad shape financially that the municipal council was attempting to use the cemetery trust funds to tide over the treasury and the local banks were on the verge of a panic as the result of the sudden withdrawal of those funds therefrom, while the employes of the assessors' office were writing out the largest tax bills ever presented to a long-suffering public. It would seem that His Honor, if he feels studiously inclined, could better employ his time by studying the financial problems that daily confront him as the city's executive head, with a view to running the municipality "at a reasonable cost."

But listen! Isn't the board of trade with its social survey scheme butting in upon the prerogatives of the Lowell city planning board, whoever they may be? It looks that way, and the members of the planning board should proceed to assert themselves, lest some outside experts come in and get away with the cabbage. Where does the board of trade's slogan about patronizing home industries come in, when we have a home industry known as the planning board, looking for something to do?

And anyway, what's the use of paying from $5000 to $15,000 for a social survey with the present administration on deck. If they didn't like it, they'd blame it onto last year's government, while if they did like it they wouldn't know what to do with it, as they couldn't borrow any trust funds to put it into effect.

A Frosty Debut

Commissioner Brown, after a brief sojourn in New York, opened his campaign Monday noon at the Machine Shop gate, before a large but cold and greatly disappointed audience, which included a large number of city hall employes. The crowd was there to "hear something" anent the recent sensational happenings at city hall and was disappointed, for the commissioner wasn't there with anything of a sensational nature and even "stalled" badly, on a question as to why he changed his vote on the Putnam matter. Mr. Brown devoted most of his time to the time-honored statement that the newspapers are against him and as he proceeded, "General" Shields who was an interested spectator, cried out: "Tell us why you changed your vote on the Putnam matter." But the commissioner didn't come back with the answer whereupon the crowd lost all interest in his remarks. Straws show how the wind is blowing.

"I Did; You Didn't"

This controversy between J. Joseph O'Connor and Congressman Rogers, while quite amusing to those who understand it thoroughly, is hardly worth the energy that both candidates are wasting on it. Had Mr. O'Connor in his original statement declared that Congressman Rogers "had not voted for" the proposition to appropriate money for the protection of children along the canal banks, he would have stated the absolute truth and there would have been no comeback. But he stated that the congressman voted against the proposition, which was inaccurate. Congressman Rogers in reply to Mr. O'Connor, cleverly words his denial, and says: "The records of the common council for 1911 show that the measure was unanimously passed, 24 votes being cast in favor and none against." Thus the reader is impressed with the apparent fact that as the vote was unanimous the congressman must have voted for the proposition. But on second thought he recalls the fact that under the old form of government there were nine wards, each with three members of the common council, making a total membership of 27, and hence a complete unanimous vote should total 27, instead of 24. But the statement of the congressman was correct for on this occasion there were three members absent from the meeting and one of them was John Jacob Rogers himself, who was in Europe or some other equally delightful place at the time, and thus Mr. Rogers did not vote for the proposition. Mr. Rogers in his denial says: Loose statements by a political candidate are to be deplored; false statements abhorred." How about misleading statements, Mr. Congressman? Along with the truth and nothing but the truth, the law requires a third feature, known as the "whole truth."

It was Harry W. J. Howe, then of charity board fame, who originated the idea of having ladders, life preservers, etc., along the canals for the protection of children, would-be suicides and all others who should wander too close to the water. Harry enlisted the co-operation of John "Nixey" Coughlin, then a member of the common council, and "Nixey" introduced an order for the appointment of a committee to look into the matter. They looked for opposition on the part of Councilman Rogers because of his father's connection with the Locks and Canals company, and were prepared to meet his opposition by calling attention to the fact that Councilman Rogers himself had spent his childhood days on the banks of the Pawtucket canal, as a resident of Pawtucket street, but had been afforded protection by means of a big fence that enclosed the lower end of the Rogers property, along the canal bank; and he would be asked to give the same protection to the children of the poor that had been given to him in the days of his childhood. But whether or not Mr. Rogers knew what was in store for him, he put the kibosh on it, by voting for the appointment of the committee to look into the canals, or rather to look into the proposition relative to making the canals less dangerous. As large bodies move slowly, it was a couple of months later when the council got around to voting an appropriation for the ladders, etc., and Mr. Rogers was out of the city.

In passing, it might be interesting to note that while Mr. Rogers is waxing eloquent over the wrongs of the mill people in the south, as yet there is nothing suggestive of velvet or clover in the lives of the operatives of the mills in his own district.

Like the Old Days

One man who probably wasn't disturbed in the least over the recent riotous proceedings in the office of the commissioner of streets was Commissioner Morse himself, for the excitement must simply have reminded him of the good old days in Arizona, where the boys lived on excitement and scalps, with the war-whoops of savage redskins to lull them to sleep and the blue canopy of heaven to keep the mosquitoes off them while they wooed the goddess of slumber. Ah, those were the happy days, when bouncing a paving block on the enemy's bean would have been considered only child's play.

As Col. Carmichael once remarked: "And were they real Indians?"

"S-u-r-e!"

"Oh, Gee!"

Making the Merrimack Navigable

The board of trade is having a lot of talk, some meetings and an occasional feed, relative to making the Merrimack river navigable but as yet it has overlooked the co-operation of two men who have done more in a practical way to bring about the navigability of our beloved river than all others, and they are Contractor Gow who is at present constructing something for the water department on the boulevard, and former Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett, both of whom certainly deserve places on the board's committee on navigable rivers.

Last year when Commissioner Barrett was running a pipe under the Merrimack river, it was necessary to transport sand across the Aiken street bridge and then into the river bed, by horse-power, the horses often going up to their trunks in water. The method was slow and inconvenient and one day while the commissioner was trying to think up a way to get around the difficulty his attention was attracted to a man in a dory nearby, who was fishing. Calling the boatman to the shore Commissioner Barrett asked him if he would like a job, and he replied affirmatively.

"How much will you charge me for yourself and the dory, to lug sand across the river to where the men are at work?" asked the commissioner.

"Mebbee one dollar an' a half a day," was the answer.

"Your hired," said the commissioner and immediately the boatman went to work and at the end of the day it was learned that he had transported 120 loads of sand while the horses had been delivering 80 loads. The boatman told a few friends that night and when Commissioner Barrett appeared on the scene the following day he found a fleet of dories awaiting him. He hired three of them and from that time forth all sand was transported across the Merrimack which was made navigable for the time being.

And now comes Mr. Gow from Boston, on the boulevard job, who is going to do business on even a greater scale than the former commissioner for he is going to build a scow and carry the sand across the river in wholesale lots. Thus once more is the river made navigable.

Need of Auto Ambulance

The need of an automobile ambulance was clearly and painfully demonstrated at the sad accident at the Vocational school on Monday when but for the kindness of a citizen who was passing in an automobile, the mangled Kenney boy would have been forced to remain unattended and unrelieved, until the arrival of the horse-drawn ambulance with its subsequent slow trip across the city to the hospital. The auto-ambulance is much more needed than the auto patrol-wagon or the auto of the commissioner of streets, or those of the other departments, barring the fire department, but the money for this much-needed improvement was voted by last year's government which fact in itself was sufficient to kill the proposition in the present administration.

And Still They Come

The announcement that Elias McQuade, Jr. had been held up on his own doorsteps last Saturday night, a happening that could not be kept from the public, led to the disclosure of the news of another robbery that occurred in Belvidere a week or more ago but about which nothing had been said until the McQuade incident came out. The thugs are certainly getting bold when they are operating in the mayor's own territory, but then Belvidere appears to be a fairly good place to commit a murder, anyway. On Saturday nights the patrolman who watches the Oaklands route is obliged to come way down to lower East Merrimack street, surely over a mile, during the night, and he can't spread himself over a mile of square territory at one time, not even on Saturday night. The frequency of these hold-ups, murders and other disquieting happenings has thoroughly alarmed many people and it is said that one of the municipal commissioners has been alarmed to such an extent that he has armed himself with a revolver though there is no record to show that he has secured the necessary permission to carry the weapon.

Westford Street Paving

The residents of Westford street are beginning to awake to the fact that the municipal council has shown poor judgment in putting down heavy and noisy stone paving blocks in a residential street when vitrified wooden blocks such as are being used in other cities would have been much better as they are almost noiseless and would have worn as well as the stone blocks. An engineer of national prominence is authority for the claim that vitrified wooden blocks properly laid will outwear granite blocks on streets of moderate travel such as prevails on Westford street. The wooden blocks are almost noiseless and are just the thing for residential streets. They are not furnished by the Hildreth or any other granite company, though that fact wouldn't necessarily operate against them. Then again, judging from recent happenings they would be a much safer block to keep around the office of the street commissioner than the granite article. It might be added, too, that there are a lot of wooden blocks walking around in Lowell, which if corralled would be of more use in the streets than on the sidewalks.

A SERIOUS REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK OCCURRED IN PORT AU PRINCE LAST NIGHT

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 29.—A serious revolutionary outbreak occurred in Port Au Prince last night as a result of the landing of Charles Zamour, a brother of the president of the republic. SHOOTING IN HAZING UPHELD

Grand Jury to Take No Action Against Students of St. John's

"Freshies" Can Use Weapons to Defend Themselves

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 29.—That under class men may defend themselves against hazers with deadly weapons and even take life without incurring any punishment is the principle of the unwritten law established by the grand jury for Anne Arundel county. Yesterday it notified the court that it would not present the five students of St. John's college who were concerned in the shooting of William R. Bowlus, who tried to force their door for the purpose of hazing them last May.

One of the five shot through the door, inflicting the wound upon Bowlus from which he died.

The jury was composed of 23 members and it was unanimous that no action should be taken against the under-class men, four of whom are still students at the college.

The bond of $1500 under which they were held has been released.

DERANGED MAN HAD $840

COMING TO LOWELL FROM WEST, BUT ACTED STRANGELY IN WORCESTER DEPOT

WORCESTER, Oct. 29.—With $840 in gold on his person, John J. De Aguiar became deranged at the Union station last night, as he was passing through the city, and is at the City hospital awaiting the arrival of Joseph De Aguiar of Lowell, his brother.

The man at the hospital was on his way from Crockett county, Calif., to Lowell, and had to make his last change of trains in Worcester. He missed his train and was wandering around the station aimlessly and complaining that a gang was after his money. The police were notified and took him in charge. He was unable to talk intelligently of himself. A leather money bag was found on the calf of each of his legs, each containing 21 $20 gold pieces.

Joseph De Aguiar, a Lowell storekeeper, called the police here seeking news of his brother and will come here after him.

CENTRALVILLE M. E. CHURCH

The harvest supper and entertainment at the Centralville M. E. church last evening was largely attended. The supper was much enjoyed. The entertainment, with Mr. Edward Leith as pianist and chairman of committee, consisted of the Kitchen orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Chas. Thomas and Mr. Fred Timmins, from the Highland M. E. church. The instruments consisted of all kinds of kitchen material with the xylo attached and each member of the orchestra was gowned in the kitchen apron and cap. The music, though weird, caused much merriment among the audience. Mr. Timmins, base xylo solo, "Asleep in the Deep," and his funny stories were the hits of the evening. Miss Grace Kendrick sang in a charming manner two beautiful solos. The orchestra played several selections during the entertainment, which ended with the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." The orchestra numbered 20 pieces. The supper was under the direction of the Ladies' Aid of the church.

THE Most Noticeable Thing in a Person's Features are his teeth—Their Appearance either mars or adds to their attractiveness.

HOW ARE YOUR TEETH?

Old Dame Nature did her very best to endow you with good teeth. This all-wise creature which governs all humanity fully realized that there were no more important organs in the entire system.

Possibly through illness, or possibly neglect, your teeth are gradually losing their usefulness and surely their attractiveness.

Take advantage of the situation before it is too late. Face yourself in a mirror. Be frank with yourself. Don't waver. Isn't it really embarrassing to you and surely to your friends to appear in company with foul breath and discolored teeth?

Wouldn't it be an investment that would yield a hundred-fold dividend to come to me and have your teeth examined; to know the honest, unvarnished truth of the case?

At the most, the cost of putting your teeth in perfect condition would be moderate, and possibly it would be most trivial. Surely my charges would be the very lowest in this city for good work.

GARRISON URGES MASS. TO BACK PRES. WILSON

Secretary of War Says Republicans are Snipers Without Issues—Olney Says Lowering of Wilson's Prestige Would be a Calamity—Gov. Walsh Speaks

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 28.—Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, speaking with Gov. Walsh at a mammoth democratic rally in the Auditorium last night, urged Massachusetts to reelect its democratic state officials, whose defeat, he said, would be heralded as a defeat of the president and the principles for which he and the democratic party stands.

He read a letter written by Hon. Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey, in which the ex-secretary of state said that "to weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people would be a calamity."

Other speakers were Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York; Lieut. Gov. Barry and Prof. Edward M. Lewis, candidate for congress.

These, with other state and local candidates, also spoke at rallies in Holyoke, Northampton and Eastampton, and Sec. Garrison spoke in Holyoke, where the audience numbered 1000.

"Unorganized Snipers"

In his speech here, Sec. Garrison said the republican party had no definite program "and our antlered opponent has apparently gone off in search of a sequestered salt lick."

He referred to the republicans and the progressives as "unorganized snipers taking pot shots from ambush and cover."

"With respect to conditions existing in this country before the war broke out in Europe," he said, "they know that many of the things of which they complain were beyond the control of any part or of any administration in this country, and that many other conditions were those which they had created—not we—and which we, not they, were trying to correct.

"Since the war broke out they attempt to attribute the consequences which inevitably fell upon this country to the party in power. They know and you know that this charge is the product of partisan ingenuity. It is without basis or merit and need not be dwelt upon.

Sec. Garrison said that one striking result of the war was the way it had served to "cast into bold relief the masterful figure of the president. Against its lurid background his calm, patient, sagacious, self-controlled and controlling figure stands out like the Washington monument against the sky."

Referring to the critics of the president, he said:

"Their whole campaign is one of whispers and nods and innuendo. They speak slightingly of the president's handling—but do not say what would have been right. They know that it preserved peace—were they for war? Ask them, and they stand mute.

"And so with the tariff bill. If any one thing is clear and is true it is that the American people wanted the tariff duties reduced. The republican party promised to reduce them and broke its promise. The democratic party promised to reduce them and kept its promise. The republicans wink and nod and shrug, but fail to tell us what they would do."

"If by your votes," continued Sec. Garrison, "you discredit President Wilson and the democratic party you thereby publicly advertise that you don't want honest-minded, hard-working representatives, who strive to ascertain the public will and to enforce it."

Letter From Richard Olney

Sec. Garrison indorsed the local candidates, and then read a letter from Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey regarding President Wilson's administration, which was, in part, as follows:

"Personally, I have been immensely impressed with what has been done in so short a space.

"A high protective antiquated tariff, for example, full of absurdities and abuses, has been subjected to a reasonable downward revision, has been supplemented by an income tax, which puts upon wealth a larger and fairer share of the burdens of taxation, and signalizes the passing, never to return, of such legislative crudities and extravagances of the Dingley bill and the Payne-Aldrich bill.

"The federal reserve bill inaugurates a new era in the financial history of the country, and in the judgment of bankers, business men, and experts generally will gradually but surely do away with the confusion and chaos which have heretofore disgraced American finance.

"The trust legislation and the Alaska railroad bill also embody legislation which may fitly be described as essentially constructive. It is not claimed, it is not to be claimed, that these measures, or any of them, are the last words on the subjects they relate to. At this very writing the federal reserve act, studied by statesmen and experts of all parties with the utmost diligence and enacted with as much deliberation and care as any statute ever had, is before congress for amendments believed to be necessary and proper.

President a World Asset

"It is to be remembered that these measures represent a new order of things. They have been brought about in the face of fierce opposition by the lovers of the old order and no doubt embody more or less unavoidable, even if undesirable, compromises and concessions. Yet, when all is said, they at least make good beginnings, are steps in the right direction, and are faulty, if at all, rather in matter of detail than in point of sound principle.

"If the democratic party showed great sagacity in picking Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, it has shown no less in trusting itself to his leadership. It was that trust which brought about the repeal of the "Panama Canal tolls exemption" through the votes of many congressmen who honestly doubted the justice and wisdom of the repeal. They now unquestionably plume themselves upon their action.

"They now unquestionably realize that, because of that repeal of the president's Mexican policy, and because of the good faith, sincerity, disinterestedness and law-abidingness which mark the president's course in both these cases, the United States today occupies a position of supreme importance in the world. It is the one great power not party to the awful carnage which is now desolating Europe and making modern civilization seem a sham and a reproach. It acts in foreign relations through its president and is the one agency through which ending the war can be urged upon the belligerents with the best chance of a hearing.

"To weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people, would be a calamity. At this juncture, and until discredited by some overt act of the American people, the president of the United States is not a democratic asset merely, nor even an American asset, but an asset of the civilized world. It is due to ourselves, to the unhappy warring nations, and to humanity generally, that we do nothing to impair its value."

Gov. Walsh on Health Board

Gov. Walsh in his speeches here and at Northampton and Holyoke said in part:

"In our own state for five years past there has been an energetic effort by public-spirited men interested in this great problem to secure an efficient and responsible state health department.

"It ought not to be necessary to emphasize the importance of this great problem, but in this state in 1912, out of a total of 42,250 deaths, there were 10,360 deaths of children under one year. I wonder if our people realize that 117 children out of every 1000 in Massachusetts die in their first year.

"There are 6000 deaths each year in Massachusetts from tuberculosis, and the expense for the 6000 persons dying from tuberculosis every year in their sickness and loss of wages amount to more than $25,000,000, practically the whole burden being borne by the poor.

"Massachusetts has four times as many deaths from typhoid, proportionately to population, as the city of London.

"The cost of living investigation in 1910 showed that this commonwealth paid for preventable death and serious illness in the year 1908 $52,137,112, and it was shown that 120,000 are estimated constantly to be sick in the commonwealth, one-half of which illness is preventable.

"It was with a knowledge of these sad facts and with the realization that our state health administration system was inadequate to the needs of our people that I called upon the legislature in my inaugural for the enactment of legislation to provide for a paid health commissioner.

"I regret to say that some republican legislative leaders were so blind to the necessities of the situation or so narrow in their partisanship as to attempt to defeat the measure in the closing hours of the legislative session. But despite their efforts the law was placed upon the statute books and I have secured as health commissioner one of the most experienced and best known health authorities in the country, whose duty and experience are based upon years of active service, both in the United States and Europe.

"He is to assume office within a few days and I shall then name the advisory council which is to co-operate with him in this the greatest work to which the agencies of the state can be directed.

"I would be content to rest my whole claim for re-election upon the usefulness and importance of this great reform in our state health administration."

Atty.-Gen. Thomas J. Boynton said in part:

"Democrats are often taunted with the question as to what they have done to reduce the cost of living.

"At the outbreak of the great European war the monopolies in control of various food products saw in that war a ready excuse for a substantial advance in prices. Such an advance would have been as was planned, purely artificial and unjustifiable.

"But, foreseeing this move, I at once detailed Asst. Atty. Gen. Seagrave to make a thorough investigation.

"Now, nothing so interferes with a conspiracy as does light. The leading republican newspaper of the state credits this investigation with contributing to prevent the threatened increase of prices."

BERLIN ADMITS DEFEAT BY RUSSIANS IN POLAND

London Says the Invasion of Russia Seems Definitely Checked and the Czar's Victory There is Expected to Seriously Affect the Austrian Attempt to Recapture Galicia

BERLIN, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 29.—The German and Austrian troops in Poland, according to an official announcement issued in Berlin yesterday, have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian forces advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novogeorgievsk after having repulsed all former Russian attacks.

"At first the Russians did not follow and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. The reserve troops will change their formation according to the situation."

DEFEAT OF GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN POLAND IN SEVEN DAYS' BATTLE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Defeat has overtaken the main German and Austrian army in Poland, in a struggle that approaches the magnitude of a decisive battle.

The invasion of Russia seems definitely checked and the czar's victory there is expected to seriously affect the Austrian attempt to recapture Galicia.

After days of fighting before Warsaw and Ivangorod and along the Vistula river, the teutonic allies found they had run against an impenetrable line of defense. In this situation they were assailed by overwhelming numbers of Russians. The battle lasted more than a week before the Germans gave way and began a retreat toward Silesia.

BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLY

obliging state treasurer, and he is compelled to pay not only his own share, but that of the wealthy man as well.

"I now pledge myself to the people of this state that as long as I remain state treasurer, the wealthy taxable bond holders will have to pay their share of the taxes, as well as the poor man.

"It is a significant fact that the last three republican state treasurers who preceded me, Elmer A. Stevens, Arthur B. Chapin and Ed. S. Branford, after serving as state treasurer, each for a period of five years, were each made vice-presidents of banks, and it is also significant that in the contest of the republican primaries for nominees for this position, the two gentlemen who aspired to the nomination, were both bank officers. Does the republican party think that the office of state treasurer belongs to bankers? I do not wish to make any unfair criticism, but I think it is, to say the least, improper. It does not look well for men to go directly into banks, after leaving the state treasurer's office. Again I wish to pledge myself that while I am treasurer, I will endeavor so to conduct my duties of that office, as to win the approval of the citizens and tax payers, and not so as to win a vice-presidency of a bank.

Saving of $40,000,000

"I have also inaugurated a plan, by which $40,000,000 can be saved to the people of this state in 40 years. I have recommended that the old sinking fund bonds be retired, and replaced by serial bonds. As everyone knows, the sinking fund bonds cannot be paid until the end of the time for which they have to run, whereas serial bonds are paid off yearly, and the interest and principal is constantly diminishing. The difference in interest alone, in the 40 year term, would be over $1,000,000 a year, and His Excellency, Governor Walsh, thought so well of the plan, that he sent a special message to the legislature about it, and the board of efficiency and economy is now considering it, and a public hearing was held today at the state house.

"I have also reduced about 40 per cent. of the sinking fund requirement for the 40 cities and towns in the Metropolitan district. This requirement is ascertained, by computing the sinking fund with their earnings at 3 per cent. to the end of the time the loan has to run, and subtracting this ainount from the total that is to be paid, and the difference is divided proportionately between those cities and towns. As a matter of fact, the funds have been earning more than 4 per cent., and by reckoning this as low as 3 per cent. those various cities and towns have been compelled to pay more than they ought to, and many of the funds will be filled years before the loan matures. In other words, this generation has suffered from an over-taxation, part of which belongs to the next generation to pay.

"This year I have computed the funds at 4 per cent, as I see no reason for computing them at 3 per cent. when they are earning 4 per cent., the result of a reduction of about 40 per cent. in the yearly requirements, dropping for example, $812,000 in 1913 to $492,000 in 1914.

"My only object as state treasurer has been to do the best I could for all of the people of the commonwealth, and especially to alleviate the condition of the poor man, and I shall continue this policy as long as I am state treasurer, and it is upon this record that I ask for re-election."

Hon. Charles F. McCarthy

Senator Charles F. McCarthy proved eloquent and energetic. He is a candidate for county commissioner. Mr. McCarthy as a legislator, introduced the bill known as the McCarthy bill, compelling mill owners to pay taxes on property where the property is located instead of where the owners of the mills live. This bill became law and the working of it means over $60,000 a year to the city of Lowell. This amount was formerly paid in rich towns where the mill owners lived, instead of being paid in Lowell and other cities and towns where the mills are located. In the course of his speech Senator McCarthy said:

"I stand for election as county commissioner on my record as a public official and upon the experience gained as a city official of the city of Marlborough, and in the Massachusetts senate and house of representatives.

"I believe a candidate's public record is the truest test of his fitness for office and I believe that experience in legislation will prove one of the best and most useful assets in administering the affairs of this great county during the next three years.

"I have been elected three times to the Massachusetts senate and four times to the house of representatives by the rank and file of the people, irrespective of party, on my record as a public official and upon my promise to represent them honestly, faithfully and fairly.

"During my public service I have striven earnestly to merit the trust and confidence of my constituency by my every vote and action. I have endeavored at all times to place the interests of all the people above everything else, and to give my voice and vote in support of all legislation for their welfare.

"With this in mind, and being firmly of the opinion that there is a sincere and wide-spread desire on the part of the voters of Middlesex county for a change in the present method of administering the affairs of the county which has prevailed for the past twenty years, I desire to respectfully submit myself as the candidate for county commissioner.

"I stand first, last and always for Massachusetts—for its interests and its industries, and for the advancement of the welfare of the great mass of its people.

"I believe in the industries, institutions and people of Middlesex county, and if elected commissioner will be guided always by their best interests.

"I believe a large majority of the voters of Middlesex county are dissatisfied with conditions as they exist in the conduct of the affairs of the county, and if elected commissioner, I promise to give the best that is in me for a faithful and impartial administration of the people's business in the office."

In referring to Commissioner Levi Gould, up for reelection, Mr. McCarthy said he didn't want to attack him on account of his age, but he declared Middlesex county interests demanded the election of another man. He said, and very truly too, that the average man knows nothing about the doings of the county commission, and if elected, he said, he would arrange it so that every man interested in the work of the commission would have an opportunity to know all about it. Every man, he said, should know what the county commission is doing. The county commissioners have been holding their meetings at times and places where it was impossible for the rank and file to attend and in this way their movements have been covered up, more or less. "If I am elected county commissioner," said Mr. McCarthy, "I will see to it that the meetings of the county commissioners are held at night in order that the man who works all day in the mill and other places of industry will have an opportunity to see for himself what is going on." Mr. McCarthy referred to Lowell as the greatest city in the county, and said it had not been fairly treated by the county commission. In mentioning Mr. Gould, the speaker took occasion to remark that Mr. Gould was diametrically opposed to the election of Erson Barlow of Lowell as county commissioner.

Hon. James H. Vahey

Hon. James H. Vahey was given a warm welcome when introduced by Mr. O'Sullivan. Mr. Vahey bore down on the fact that democratic unity spells democratic success. He said that democratic success would mean an indorsement of President Wilson's administration, which he regarded as the best since that of Abraham Lincoln. He said that if a man like Lincoln were a candidate today he would gladly vote for him, irrespective of party, and he asked his hearers to forget party ties in the coming election and vote for men who represent the Wilson ideas. Referring to present conditions in America, Mr. Vahey said that only for the most conservative management, war would be upon the people of this country—war with Mexico, and possibly other countries. "Forget your party, think of your country, and vote for men who will bear the message that President Wilson has your confidence," concluded the speaker.

Fitzgerald Not Present

Peter F. Tague, congressional nominee in the 10th district, came as the representative of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston. The ex-mayor's brother, George F. Fitzgerald, died at his home in Mt. Vernon street, Dorchester, yesterday morning, and that was the reason the ex-mayor did not put in an appearance in Lowell last night. His brother had been ill for more than a year from a nervous breakdown brought on by an attack of acute indigestion. Mr. Tague, representing ex-Mayor Fitzgerald at the rally, proved a very entertaining speaker.

Man From Lawrence

The last speaker of the evening was Michael O'Sullivan, a prominent Lawrence lawyer. He said, in part:

"Thomas J. Boynton, as attorney general during the past year, has refused to be awed by corporate greatness, or impressed by corporate wealth. In the interpretation and administration of the laws there are many opportunities to twist the law this way and that, and to resort to technicalities. Where some attorneys general might have strained the law in the interest of big corporations, and have neglected the cases which bore on the wealthy, Thomas J. Boynton has looked at law matters from a human angle and has always been concerned with obtaining the greatest good for the greatest number. The following are examples:

"A large corporation for years polluted the beautiful Neponset river, with the acquiescence of previous attorneys general. Mr. Boynton has forced the building of a filter. For years the Haverhill Gas Co. resisted the order of the gas commission for 80-cent gas. With Mr. Boynton's advent it has capitulated. Mr. Boynton won the best cases in the supreme judicial court, which have brought the tax-dodging foreign corporations to time.

"It is to be noticed that all these corporations have capitulated without a fight, realizing that at last there is a stalwart servant of the people in the chair of the attorney general. Reelect Thomas J. Boynton."

KING GEORGE'S COUSIN WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

Prince Maurice of Battenberg the First Member of British Royal Family to be Killed in Present War—Recently Commended by General French

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Maurice of Battenberg, a cousin of King George and a son of Princess Henry of Battenberg, has been killed in battle in France. He was an officer of the king's royal rifle corps.

Prince Maurice was the first member of the British royal family to be killed in the present war. It was reported that the prince was not actually killed on the field of battle, but that he died afterward from wounds received in an engagement. King George and Queen Mary visited Kensington palace yesterday afternoon to condole with Princess Henry, his mother.

Two brothers of Prince Maurice also went to the front, Lieut. Prince Alexander of the Royal Grenadier Guards and Lieut. Prince Leopold of the king's royal rifle corps. Prince Leopold was invalided home recently suffering from an injury to his knee, the result of a fall.

Prince Henry of Battenberg, father of the three princes, died from typhoid fever while on service in the Ashanti.

Prince Maurice Victor Donald of Battenberg was the youngest son of Prince Henry of Battenberg, who married Princess Beatrice, a sister of the late King Edward. The prince was the brother-in-law of the king of Spain.

He was 23 years old and since 1911 had been a second lieutenant in the king's royal rifle corps. Field Marshal Sir John French, the commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary force in France, in his report to Minister of War Kitchener, given out on Oct. 10, mentioned the prince for meritorious service in the field.

A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

PREDICTED BY COL. HARVEY AFTER INTERVIEW WITH PRESIDENT WILSON AND OTHERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Following a conference with President Wilson, Private Sec. Tumulty and Thomas J. Pence, Col. George Harvey said last night: "For the first time in our political history, the opposition is on the defensive. Therefore, my guess is that the democrats will have a majority of between 50 and 100 in the next house of representatives."

Also, he predicted Neeley would beat Curtis and Murdock in Kansas for the senate; that Hogan would beat Harding and Garford in Ohio; Sullivan would beat Sherman and Robbins in Illinois, Gerard would beat Wadsworth in New York.

He thought Husting had an even chance with McGovern for the senate from Wisconsin and that Glynn would be elected governor of New York.

ALLIES CONTINUE TO PUSH FORWARD

Kaiser's Forces Suffer Crushing Defeat in Russian Poland and are Driven Back in Flanders —Allies Expect to Crush Germans as Grant Did the South by Overwhelming Numerical Superiority—British Training 1,500,000 Men—Emden Sinks Russian Cruiser and French Destroyer—Another Steamer Sunk Off Coast of Ireland—Kaiser Orders Calais Taken at any Cost

From the west and east German reverses are reported. Germany acknowledges a check in Russian Poland but concerning the great battle in Flanders she preserves her silence. The only official word received by midday today was from the French, who again made indefinite claims to further progress. Not since the struggle along the North sea began a fortnight ago has Germany made a statement upon which may be based judgment as to the course of events. The best information available indicates that notwithstanding their dauntless attacks and heavy sacrifices of life the Germans are further from the coast than when the battle began.

The one great factor upon which the allies build their hopes of an eventful triumph apparently is beginning to tell. It is the almost inexhaustible supply of men that may be drawn from the vast reaches of the British and Russian empires which are relied upon in time to crush the Germans as Grant did the south by overwhelming numerical superiority. In the east this influence seemingly is already being felt and to it is ascribed the German reverse in Russian Poland.

The secret of the Russian victory, writes a British correspondent, at Petrograd, lies in the vastness of the Russian army which he estimates at 8,000,000 men. This enabled the Russians to keep an immense reserve for every army, changing regiments frequently and never leaving the same men on the firing line long enough to become stale.

Meanwhile the British, who declare their forces now on the continent as merely an advance guard, are training at home an army of 1,500,000 men, of whom 600,000 are from her colonies.

Today's French statement, while again optimistic in tone, gave little specific information. On the extreme western end of the battle line, where the fighting has been fiercest there is "nothing new." London ascribes the lull of the past few days to the fact that the opposing armies have been utterly exhausted by incessant fighting by day and night and perforce relaxed their efforts. There is no indication, however, that Germany intends to abandon the fight for the possession of the North sea coast.

To the south and east, along the battle line across France, successes are reported by the French to the south of Arras between the Aisne and the Argonne and in the forest of Apremont. None of the German attacks, it is said, has been successful.

The German cruiser Emden, whose remarkable exploits have fairly earned a place in history, is reported to have performed the most daring feat of all. Disguised with a fourth smokestack, presumably taken from some captured vessel, and flying the Japanese flag the Emden is said to have sailed boldly into the waters of Penang, a British possession in the straits settlements and to have sunk a Russian cruiser and a French destroyer. The Emden was reported yesterday to have sent to the bottom a small Japanese passenger steamer.

The long list of losses on the sea continues to grow. Another steamer is reported to have been sunk off the north coast of Ireland.

EIGHT AIRSHIPS ON WAY TO BRUSSELS AND ANTWERP

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Eight airships passed over Hazlet on the German-Belgian frontier, going westward and evidently making for Brussels and Antwerp, where it had previously been stated, Zeppelin sheds were being constructed, according to a Rotterdam despatch to the Daily Mail.

SWEDISH STEAMER HIT MINE IN NORTH SEA AND WENT DOWN

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Swedish steamer Ornen from Portugal for Gothenberg, Sweden, hit a mine Monday morning in the North sea and sank off Cuxhaven. Five members of her crew were drowned.

BRITISH AND RUSSIAN GOVERNMENTS AGREE TO EXCHANGE OF TECHNICAL FORCES

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Petrograd despatch to the Times states that the British and Russian governments have agreed to a mutually advantageous exchange of combat and technical forces, the details of which will be announced later.

GRECIAN TROOPS MOVE TO ASSIST IN OCCUPATION OF SOUTHERN ALBANIA

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A despatch from Athens to the Havas Agency says that the forward march of the Grecian troops who are going to assist in the occupation of southern Albania proceeded in perfect order but amid great enthusiasm by the people. Queen Sophie has been named as honorary commander of the First Regiment of the National Guard.

BERLIN NOT NOTIFIED OF GERMAN INVASION OF ANGOLA

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—It was announced officially in Berlin today that nothing was known concerning the report that German troops had entered Angola, the Portuguese colony in West Africa. The statement was given out by the Wolff bureau.

STUBBORN STRUGGLE NEAR ST. MIHIEL GOING ON FOR SIX WEEKS

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Countess De Chambrun, formerly Miss Clara Longworth of Cincinnati and a sister of ex-Congressman Nicholas Longworth, has received a letter from her husband, who was at one time the French military attache at Washington and is now an officer of an artillery company at the front. In his letter Count De Chambrun says:

"I am now having the great pleasure of directing the artillery fire against our own chateau and I take great enjoyment in seeing piece after piece come down.

"The De Chambrun chateau is near St. Mihiel, where a stubborn struggle has been going on for six weeks since that point has been occupied by the Germans."

CZAR'S ARMY OF 8,000,000 MEN ENGAGED IN BATTLE WITH GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Mail sends the following regarding the fighting in Russia.

"The Germans are astonished and disheartened to always find themselves pitted against fresh troops, full of energy. The secret of this lies in the Russian plan of keeping an immense reserve for every army, changing regiments frequently and never leaving the same men on the firing line long enough to become stale.

"In this way the vastness of the Russian emperor's army of 8,000,000 men is beginning to show a marked influence on the campaign."

GERMAN POLICE TO TAKE DRASTIC OPPRESSIVE MEASURES AGAINST BRITISH

LONDON, Oct. 29.—What the London press describes as reprisals in Berlin in the matter of vigorous handling of the English there are related in a Reuter's Telegram Co. despatch from Berlin by way of The Hague under date of Wednesday.

"The German police authorities," the message says, "are preparing to take even more drastic oppressive measures against the British. The authorities are taking a revised census of British residents with a view to facilitating arrests. Word has gone forth that a clear sweep will be made and it is considered possible that every Englishman in the German capital will be under arrest in a short time.

"The Germans, it is stated, are taking additional precautions against spies and are curtailing the provisions of the English civilians already interned. In some of the concentration camps in Germany the Englishmen are forced to sleep on straw."

COL. AND MRS. HEERY DIE

Well Known Aged Couple Passed Away Within a Few Hours of Each Other

A double burial will take place Saturday morning, when the bodies of the late Col. Luke M. Heery and his wife will be laid side by side in St. Patrick's cemetery, the wife having passed away last night, while the husband's demise occurred this morning.

Colonel Heery and his wife had been ill for a long time and it was a question as to which would pass away first, for the attending physicians had given up all hope for the recovery of either.

The couple had been residents of this city for many years and they made their home at 8 Shaffer street. Colonel Heery had been one of the best known manufacturers in New England in his younger days and he was quite prominent in political and social circles. For a number of years he conducted a woolen factory in West Chelmsford, with his two brothers, John and James, the firm being known as Heery Bros. After conducting a very successful business in West Chelmsford, the factory was gutted by fire and shortly afterward the brothers removed their business to Besallies, Conn., where success also crowned their efforts.

James Heery married a daughter of the late Thomas Carolin, Miss Elizabeth, while a few years later Luke M. was married to another daughter of Mr. Carolin, Miss Margaret. James died a few years ago and Luke continued the business. Later he gave up the woolen industry and started other enterprises in this city, which he conducted successfully until illness forced him to retire.

Col. Heery was interested in politics in days gone by and at one time he served on Gov. Waller's staff in Connecticut, where he secured the title of colonel. His death will be deeply mourned by his many friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Heery is survived by a brother, Dr. William T. Carolin, while the couple leave a son, Thomas Heery, who is expected in this city today. The two bodies were removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

ANNUAL PARISH REUNION

PAUL R. CLARK
Floor Director

JOSEPH A. PRESTON
General Manager

Of the Immaculate Conception Church Held at Associate Hall Last Night

The 14th annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church, held in Associate hall last evening was as usual a grand success, and in some respects it proved even more successful than some of its predecessors. From a financial standpoint the results were most gratifying, and the social features of the affair eclipsed any previous efforts along this line. Nearly every family in the parish was represented during the evening by one or more members, while the children held forth in the afternoon.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the orange and black of the Halloween season prevailing in the color schemes. The stage was set with greenery, potted plants and palms, which completely hid the orchestra, and the gallery front and side walls were banked with bunting. Long streamers of orange were caught at the centre chandelier and swung to all corners of the hall. The booths situated in all parts of the hall were also tastefully decorated in contrast with the draperies of the hall proper, while hundreds of incandescent lights added brilliancy to the scene.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves as only children can. A special program had been prepared for them, including games, dancing and a "beauty baby contest." In the last named there were several entrants, but Baby Gertrude Slavin won favor with the judges and was awarded first prize. Little Mary Joyce was the second prize winner and all the other contestants were given honorable mention. Mr. John N. Payne, had charge of the afternoon's festivities, and it can truly be stated he enjoyed himself fully as much as the children.

Carlin's novelty orchestra formally opened the affair in the evening with several selections from "Sari," and this was followed by a solo by William F. Goodin, who sang in pleasing voice, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Edward F. Shea and John Dalton favored with solos and for an encore they responded with the ever popular "Killarney's Lakes." William Murren and Frank McCarthy, two popular comedians of the parish, delighted the large gathering with their witticisms and they were both forced to respond to many encores. Through the courtesy of the Keith theatre management Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, one of the most popular teams on the vaudeville stage today, entertained in a short sketch which proved very amusing. Jim Toney and Miss Norman, also from Keith's proved their worth in a delightful sketch.

At the conclusion of the program, general dancing started and continued till midnight. Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, together with the other clergymen of the parish were in attendance and mingled freely with their parishioners.

The officers of the evening and the members of the various committees were as follows:

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

EYEGLASSES AND BEAUTY

Careless or wrong adjustment of eye glasses is not only harmful but in many cases actually disfiguring. The woman whose wish it is to look well-groomed, will not neglect this detail of correct dressing.

The woman then who does not wish to acquire several unnecessary wrinkles had best take care that her glasses are set upon her face at the correct angle and at the necessary distance or nearness to the eyes. If too near, the eyelashes brush them, this is uncomfortable and irritating and after awhile wears the eyelashes off and they look short and stubby, and are not longer a becoming fringe to the eye.

The string or chain sometimes annexed to the bright eyeglass often serves as a sort of weight to pull it down or warp the frame of the glass out of place. This should be noticed and only the lightest kind of string or chain be used.

Glasses, of course, which are worn only occasionally are not so apt to fall into error. On the other hand, the glass which is put on and taken off frequently is sometimes put on carelessly, and often becomes bent and twisted from much handling. Care should be taken to avoid both conditions.

The sometimes decried lorgnette has its uses for this matter to temperary need. It is convenient for what it is intended and should be called into play rather than run any risk of eyestrain.

MRS. H.L. CHAMBRE DEAD

WIDOW OF FORMER RECTOR OF ST. ANNE'S CHURCH OF LOWELL

It was with deep sorrow that the many friends of Mrs. Harriet Lancaster Chambre, widow of the late Rev. A. St. John Chambre, D. D., learned of her demise which occurred yesterday at her home, 61 Nesmith street, after a long illness.

Deceased was born in Ayworth, N. H., Aug. 10, 1828, her parents being William Lancaster and Fanny Davidson, both of Scottish descent. The young woman was educated by an aunt in Boston and later she studied art in Paris and Dresden and became quite proficient as a painter. She was an accomplished French linguist; she also had talent as a writer, a little volume, "Nettle Bag," being the work of her pen.

Mrs. Chambre was very generous to the church and community and it was she who some years ago when an effort was being made to clear the church debt, gave nearly $900 for that purpose. She was deeply interested in the work of the Theodore Edson orphanage and also took great interest in all parish work. She was president of the Girls' Friendly society and honorary president of the Beneficial society, position she held until her death. Deceased had no near relatives. She is survived by two nieces living in the west.

HEALTHY HAIR SOFT, FLUFFY AND RADIANT

Beautiful hair does not just happen to be so, but is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. No matter if your hair is falling out, stringy, lifeless and full of dandruff, Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic, sold by all druggists, is all that is ever needed. It nourishes the hair roots and stimulates the growth of new hair. Even dandruff is entirely removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; your hair will be bright, vigorous, soft and fluffy.

Whether your hair is oily, dry or brittle, Parisian Sage immediately removes the curse, and by toning up the scalp quickly restores the hair to its original brilliancy and vigor.

Parisian Sage can always be had from any drug counter and is a delightful and easily applied treatment that will never fail to act as a real and lasting benefit to your hair and scalp.

Injured Secretary of State Removed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital

Thos. Riley Recovering Rapidly—Others Hurt in Accident Improving

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary of State Frank J. Donahue, who was injured in an automobile accident Monday night at North Adams, arrived in Boston last night and was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. His injuries may be more serious than first examination indicated, and an X-ray examination will be made of the fractured left arm and his injured shoulder and back.

Secretary Donahue, who was accompanied on the trip to Boston by his family physician, Dr. T. W. Green, stood the long train journey well. At the North station he was met by Dr. John W. Lane, chief surgeon of St. Elizabeth's hospital; Dr. M. J. Cronin, Timothy Barter, who is managing his campaign, and several other friends. His left arm was in splints and his injured jaw was encased in a bandage that extended from his right ear around to his chin, making it difficult for him to speak.

"Hello, Tim, how are things going?" is the way he greeted his campaign manager as he was assisted from the train. He held an impromptu reception and then walked slowly out of the train shed to a waiting automobile in which he was driven to the hospital.

Thomas Riley of Pittsfield, who was believed to be the most seriously injured of the party in the accident, is coming out better than expected. An examination at the North Adams hospital failed to reveal any fracture of the skull, as at first feared, and his injury may be only a severe bruise. Senator Mack and J. B. O'Hearn, a Pittsfield newspaperman, are resting comfortably and may be able to leave the hospital today or tomorrow.

WOMEN IN CONFERENCE

DISCUSSED FOREIGN MISSIONS AT THE CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH YESTERDAY

The Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission society, New England district, held a meeting at the Calvary Baptist church of this city yesterday. The affair was largely attended and proved very interesting.

The forenoon session opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. H. C. Fuller of the First Baptist church. The speakers were Miss Helen W. Munroe of Cambridge, vice president of the New England district, and Miss Grace T. Colburn of Newton Centre, home vice president. Miss Munroe spoke of her visit to Japan and the work being conducted there by the society, while Miss Colburn was very interesting with her campaign talk.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Mrs. H. W. Peabody, who spoke of India and what is being done there by the society. She told of the many institutions and the good they are doing. Between the afternoon and evening sessions supper was enjoyed in the vestry of the church and at 7 o'clock the evening session was started, the presiding officer being Mrs. Asa Reed Ellis, while the speaker was Miss Melissa Morrow, who has been doing wonderful work in India. She was followed by Mrs. Peabody who spoke on Burma.

A vigorous campaign in the interest of the society was started on Sept. 29 and when it is ended meetings will have been held in 31 important centres of New England.

MR. DODGE INJURED

Mr. Cecil Dodge of The Sun staff met with a slight mishap on the 6.22 train to Boston Wednesday evening. While the train was stopped at Winchester it was suddenly bumped by another train. Mr. Dodge was thrown over a seat and against the side of the car in such a manner that the ligaments of his left shoulder were torn while the muscles of his arm were wrenched. He was treated by Dr. F. M. Pillsbury.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young People's society of the Worthen Street Baptist church held a Halloween party in the church vestry last evening with a large attendance. The scene of the party was appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and other Halloween effects. A pleasing entertainment was given by several young ladies after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Everybody in the city is invited to take a guess at the number of seeds in the smashing big pumpkin placed in the lobby of the B. F. Keith theatre. Those who make a guess should leave their names and addresses at the box office. To the one who guesses the correct number, or who more nearly gets it, five box seats for any performance next week will be given. And to the nine others who most nearly approximate the real number two orchestra seats for any performance during the week will be presented. The winners will be announced from the stage on Saturday night. Also on that night the theatre will be in real Halloween dress, and the big feature will be an apple eating contest on the stage for boys only. Rosy apples will be strung and the contestants will have their hands tied behind them. To those who devour the apples first cash prizes will be given. Entrants should leave their name at the box office. This week's show is excellent in character, being headed by the Five Annapolis Boys, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy and others. Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Cosma Hamilton's wholesome and stirring play, "The Blindness of Virtue," which is being given so capably at the Merrimack Square Theatre this week has ever been a reigning favorite with stock audiences the country over, probably because its story is so unusual, probably because of the delicate love story which it contains, perhaps for any one of the 101 other good reasons, but anyway the fact still remains, folks like it, they come to see it, and it never fails to please.

Next week a play that perhaps is as well known as any which has ever been seen locally will be "Tess of the Storm Country." It has been seen in Lowell on the moving picture screen but the coming week will be the first opportunity that local playgoers have ever had to see it in play form. Seats are now on sale for all performances.

THE OWL THEATRE

The second Paramount picture to be released is shown at the Owl theatre, for the last three days of the week. This release is a Frohman Famous Players' film with Marguerite Clark, the dainty, magnetic star in "Wildflower," a drama of the lights and shadows of the sun-kissed forests, and of the depths and shallows of the human life. It is a delightful tale of sweet innocence and eternal youth, written by Mary Germaine and produced in an extravagant manner in four parts of motion pictures. Miss Clark gives the role of "Wildflower," a most bewitching characterization, and her good acting tends to soften the hearts of the most pessimistic. The scenery is very well chosen, the woodland scenes being especially adaptable to the screen. It is doubtful if the Famous Players have produced such an elaborate motion picture before. It will prove a delight from beginning to end. You'll heave a sigh at the finish, wishing there was more of it. Next week will bring two other big Paramount pictures, with Macklyn Arbuckle the first part of the week, and Max Figman in "What's His Name?" for the last part of the week. Five other Mutual movies complete today's program, all of the better variety.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interefer with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. Inall such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

MARJORIE'S BUTTER LESSON

"Oh dear, we use so much butter I am just awfully discouraged," complained Marjorie. "My butter expense is enormous."

"You perhaps waste a lot in cutting," suggested Marie. "Butter is a very important item in the family menu. Food should be served as attractively as possible because that which appeals to the eye generally appeals to the appetite. Butter, on account of its consistency and the manner of serving, is often not only unattractive in appearance, but is cut in such a manner that it is actually wasted.

"By careful forethought in providing the proper utensils butter can be used more economically and served more attractively. Individual molds, pats or balls of butter generally supply the wants of each member of the family, with the advantage of being economical by eliminating left-over butter on the plate.

"When a pound of butter is to be used for table service it is a very good plan to cut it first into halves, then into quarters and eighths before cutting it crosswise so as to form neat little squares.

"A very neat butter cutter can be purchased for a comparatively small sum. It consists of a white enamel base, on which the pound of butter is placed.

"Copper wires are so adjusted that by pulling a lever the butter can be cut lengthwise into the desired number of squares. Another set of wires cuts the butter crosswise, thus accomplishing the work in about two seconds of time.

"However, you need not expend more than thirty-five or fifty cents for instruments that will always make butter attractive. Little wooden molds may be purchased for twenty cents. These make the small pieces of butter into imitation pats of a pound.

"Butter ballmakers, consisting of two wooden spoons, are quite inexpensive. The butter curler is perhaps one of the most convenient of contrivances on the market. This little device was first imported from Germany to this country. It consists of a knife-like curl that may be scraped across the top of a pound of butter, forming the butter taken up in the curve into a small attractive roll.

"These small rolls if dropped into ice water will harden nicely. They may be placed on a plate and served with a butter fork or on individual bread and butter plates.

"A little attention to so small a matter as butter cutting and serving may effect quite a saving in the family purse. Little things are always worth while. We are all familiar with the poem about the little drops of water making the mighty ocean. It is often the little savings that make the bank account."

MASS NOTICE

A month's mind mass will be sung at St. Peter's church, Friday morning at 8 o'clock for the repose of the soul of the late John F. Roark.

FOR EVERY SUFFERER FROM CONSTIPATION

Rheumasalts Insures Quick and Safe Relief

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all the misery and ills that go with it, is to dissolve a little Rheumasalts in water and drink it while it is effervescing.

Rheumasalts is a scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, sallow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then you need Rheumasalts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent, as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "doping" yourself with drug-forming, heart-depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumasalts. It is delicious to the taste and acts quickly without griping or nausea. Rheumasalts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

The next time you need a laxative, ask your druggist for about five ounces of Rheumasalts. If he hasn't the original Rheumasalts, write to the Rheumabath Company, Minneapolis, Minn., who will be glad to see that you are supplied.

JAMES SAUNDERS DEAD

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF PAWTUCKETVILLE PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING, AGED 74 YEARS

James Saunders, a well known and highly respected resident of this city died this morning at his home, 325 Mammoth road, at the age of 74 years, after an illness of two weeks.

The deceased was one of the pioneer members of St. Mary's and St. Patrick's parishes, having been a resident of this city for over 60 years. During the employ of the Proctors and Suffolk mills when a youth he remained continuously in the employ of that corporation for 46 years, until his retirement some few years ago. For many years he was a construction foreman for the company and superintended the building of their great mills of recent years. He was an expert on building construction and real estate and his advice was frequently sought in such matters.

Mr Saunders was a loyal member of St. Patrick's parish until the establishment of St. Columbkille and was prominent in parish affairs. He was a man of kindly and generous instincts, of exemplary life, a devoted father and steadfast friend. He took a particular interest in the welfare of the young men of his acquaintance and was ever ready to extend to them a helping hand. He was unostentatious and retiring, deeply religious and a model of the highest type of citizenship.

He is survived by two sons, John S., of Boston and Thomas A. Saunders, the well known undertaker, two daughters, Mrs. Edward Mulry, of this city and Mrs. W. A. Burns, of Detroit, Mich., and six grandchildren. He was the father of the late Rev. Edward F. Saunders.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the residence, 325 Mammoth road and solemn high mass of requiem with burial at St. Columbkille's church at 10 o'clock. Friends are requested to omit flowers. The funeral will be in charge of Undertaker Peter D. Savage.

SUPERIOR COURT

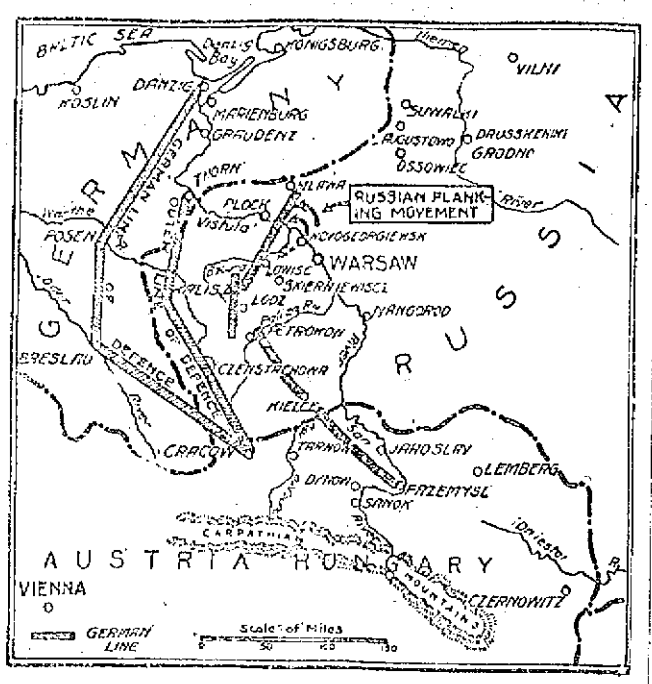
The case of Anthony Popovicz vs. John and Peter Jarek, all local mill dealers, was concluded shortly before the noon recess at the civil superior court today and the jury went out for deliberation at 12.30 o'clock. Several witnesses testified for the defense yesterday afternoon and this morning.

O'CONNOR AT WOBURN

Congressional Candidate Addressed Two Big Democratic Rallies Last Evening

J. Joseph O'Connor, candidate for congress, addressed large and enthusiastic audiences in Woburn and Andover last evening. He severely arraigned his opponent for stumping on the prohibition resolution now before congress, his deliberate aim to deceive the voters as to his vote and speech on the currency bill so reported at to the country, and his cunning in trying to make the people believe he delivered on the floor of the house of representatives his "Out Heroding Herod" speech, when as a matter of truth he got permission to print in the Congressional Record, and then by use of his franking privilege had thousands of copies distributed throughout the country.

MAP SHOWING APPROXIMATE POSITION OF TROOPS IN EASTERN WAR THEATRE



In this map the present position of the German line after the retreat from Warsaw is shown as well as the Vistula valley and also the lines of defense upon which the Germans are reported to be falling back. The German advance into Russian Poland began Sept. 25. On Oct. 13 a German column was within eight miles of Warsaw. After four days of hard fighting, in which the German infantry vainly assaulted the Russian positions and the Russian infantry was unable to gain in counter attacks, the Russians began their flanking movement, sending ten divisions of cavalry, from Novo Georgievsk, as indicated in the above map, around the extreme German left to strike at the German rear. The suddenness of the attack produced a panic, and the German retreat on Lowicz and Skiniewicz degenerated into flight. The Russians are continuing the pursuit, evidently intending to give the Germans no opportunity to make a stand and resume the defensive short of their previously prepared positions along the Silesian frontier, which are also indicated on the map.

TO ENFORCE LAW

Harvard College Men Face Arrest if They Carry Red Flags

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Cambridge police officials will arrest the first student who carries the Harvard crimson banner in any parade or demonstration. The world-known university flag comes under the ban of the red flag law in this state, according to Acting Chief J. E. Murray of the police, and he will forbid the proposed parade of crimson flags from the college to the Stadium on Saturday.

Gov. Walsh and Assistant Attorney-General Thomas P. Riley came to the defense of Harvard yesterday, but despite their opinion that the supreme court ruling on red flags ought not to interfere with the flaunting of the crimson. Chief Murray declared emphatically that the decision of Chief Justice Rugg includes the Harvard boys as well as the socialists.

The governor said that it is not so much the red flag as what it symbolizes that caused the statute to be placed on the books. "I don't think that the ruling of Chief Justice Rugg will mean interference with either the red pennant of the National Lancers or the crimson banner of Harvard," he added.

The assistant attorney general stated: "The statute as a reads would debar Harvard from carrying its distinctive flag. The letter of that statute is directed against any red banner."

Her apron caught fire as she withdrew the pan from the stove.

EFFORT TO SECURE MOST WHOLESOME FOOD FOR THE ENLISTED MEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Efforts of purchasing officers of the navy to secure only the most wholesome food for enlisted men are revealed in a special order which Paymaster-General McGowan has just issued to the officers and chiefs in his bureau. In it he declares that our men are "no prison squad" but human beings and American citizens, "for whom we stand in the relation of trustee insofar as relates to the question of food."

He announces that "every effort to try on the navy any experiments or tests of any food product whatever shall be promptly suppressed" as the enlisted men have no choice as what they shall eat and because adequate and satisfactory subsistence is the very foundation not only of real efficiency but of discipline itself there is no class of purchases for the naval serve, he says, that need to be more constantly watched than provisions.

Another order by the paymaster-general advises the contract requisition and supply sections to go slow on waiving competition, even in cases where it is permissible and to stand by the lowest bidder whenever possible. He declares that "government's red tape is never objectionable to honest men except when it is needlessly wound up so tight and so long that it results in obstruction."

TO PREVENT INSANITY

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Dr. L. Vernon Briggs of the state board of insanity yesterday explained a new plan for the prevention of insanity and the treatment of incipient cases. Public clinics will be established in the principal cities of the commonwealth for advice and treatment. Dr. Briggs said:

"The hospitals will reach out into the community and give an opportunity for those on the verge of a mental or nervous breakdown to receive treatment and in this day more serious consequences will be avoided. Last month clinics were held in Haverhill, Lawrence, Lynn, Gloucester, Worcester, Taunton and the Psychopathic hospital in Boston. The clinics will be advertised and held this month in Haverhill, Lawrence, Lynn, Gloucester, Worcester, Newburyport, Salem, Springfield, New Bedford, Fall River and Boston."

WHISKEY GOES TO STATE

ATHOL, Oct. 29.—Chief of Police P. J. Murphy yesterday shipped to district police headquarters in Boston five barrels of whiskey that have been stored at the Athol police station since Nov. 18, 1913, when the liquor was seized from an auto truck near the Athol fair grounds on a claim that it was being illegally transported into Athol, then a no-license town.

This liquor was valued at the time at about $500. Through a recent decision of the supreme court the whiskey has now been forfeited to the state.

David L. Burdo of Fitchburg claimed the liquor.

POLICE COURT SESSION

ANOTHER FINE IMPOSED IN A MILK CASE—MAN WISHED TO GO TO JAIL

A pitiful case was brought to the attention of Judge Enright in police court this forenoon when Thomas Duffy, a Merrimack square newsboy, was arraigned for assault and battery upon a competitor, Thomas Riley, aged 15 years. The defendant, who is nearly 21 years of age, did not understand the charge and was unable to plead so the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Young Riley testified that both he and Duffy were stationed in the square early yesterday morning when an autoist signalled for a newsboy. The witness said that he reached the auto first and was about to pass over a paper when Duffy struck him, knocking him to the street. This was corroborated by Patrolman Cunniffe, who stated that the autoist was a Boston lawyer who complained of the defendant's treatment to Riley.

Duffy, when called to the witness stand, admitted hitting Riley but said he did not do it intentionally. He did not understand Judge Enright's questions relative to the assault so was unable to give a clear explanation.

His Honor suggested that Duffy be committed to an institution for treatment but his father strenuously objected to this and it was finally decided to place the case on file on payment of costs. The court instructed the father to keep the boy from Merrimack square hereafter, fearing that harm might be done to some of the young boys.

Frank L. Peabody pleaded not guilty to having in his possession milk which was below the standard. He was represented by Lawyer Daniel J. Donahue.

Collector of Milk Samples John J. Coughlin took three samples from Peabody's wagon a few days ago and turned them over to Milk Inspector Master. When questioned by Mr. Donahue, Inspector Master said that none of the samples indicated that water had been added but a part of the milk was below the standard required by law. Mr. Master said the milk was undoubtedly in the same condition as it came from the farm. Judge Enright adjudged the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $100, it being his second offence.

Asked to Be Sent Away

Bartholomew O'Neil, who has been rather unfortunate relative to securing work, asked to be sent to jail for the winter, so he was placed in the care of Sheriff Eveleth until the last of next February. One of the drunken offenders was sent to jail for ten days to sober off.

MAGENIS RAPS CUSHING

WESTBORO, Oct. 29.—The progressive party had a rally last evening in the town hall, William R. Clark presided. There was music by an orchestra and singing by Miss Rebecca Andrews of Boston.

The speakers were: James H. Magenis, candidate for lieutenant governor; Dr. Frederick P. Glazier of Dorchester, candidate for state auditor; Willard J. Mayberry of Westboro and Stephen H. Marshall of Clinton, candidates for representative.

Mr. Magenis said in part:

"Mr. Cushing does not believe in the abolition of party enrollment. It isn't surprising. Judging by his public record, he does not believe in real democracy. He fought the primary, has opposed every device to bring the government closer to the people, is now opposed to the initiative and referendum and is firm believer in rule by a representative part of the people, of which part he firmly believes he is.

"He is a consistent reactionary, and if the voters of this commonwealth believe in his ideas he should be elected. If not, then Mr. Cushing should be snowed under so deeply that the warmth of his disposition will never be able to thaw him out."

LOWELL PASSENGERS HELD UP

GUBERNATORIAL FIGHT

GREAT INTEREST IN CONTEST IN OHIO—GOV. COX, DEMOCRAT, IS OPPOSED BY CON. F. B. WILLIS

FRANK B. WILLIS

(Aside from the "wet" and "dry" issue in Ohio at the election No. 3, the gubernatorial fight is arousing red hot interest in that state. Governor James M. Cox, democrat, is a candidate for reelection and is being opposed by Congressman Frank B. Willis, republican. The campaign has been extremely bitter and personal. Cox has accused Willis of standing in with trust interests, particularly the Standard Oil company, and Willis has attacked Cox's record as chief executive of the state. Not in many years has a gubernatorial fight been so bitter.)

DARING RESCUE IN HUB

THREE WOMEN AND SIX CHILDREN SAVED—LODGING HOUSE ON MERIDIAN STREET AFIRE

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—John Doherty of 151 Meridian street, East Boston and ex-Representative McCarthy of that district were the heroes of a fire early this morning in the four-story brick building at 155 Meridian street. The ground floor is occupied by the shoe shop of J. Superstein; the upper floors by the lodging house of Mrs. James Crouse. When at 12.15 this morning fire was discovered around the back stairs of the building, Mrs. Crouse was there with her six children and two lodgers, Mrs. Mary Shannon and Mrs. Mary Shea, elderly women.

Doherty and McCarthy ran into the house before the firemen arrived and helped the occupants out. The former having taken out several Crouse children, had returned to carry Mrs. Shannon down from the third floor. Stumbling through the dense smoke, he was half-way down the last flight of stairs when he slipped. He and Mrs. Crouse fell to the bottom. Both were injured by the fall, but not seriously.

Except in the rear, the firemen kept the flames from the upper floors, so that the loss will not exceed $2000. The principal danger was from a hardware and paint shop which adjoins the building. The police will be asked to investigate the fire, as there is a suspicion that it was incendiary.

In a fire in the same building some six years ago two men were killed, one by the flames and the other by jumping from an upper window.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCann of 95 London street are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl.

The accident is ascribed to over-charging. The gun had been used with exceeding effectiveness on the German right wing. SEEK AMERICAN VESSELS

BUSINESS HEADS PREPARING TO SHIP COTTON ABROAD—DAWN OF PROSPERITY FOR INDUSTRIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The British government having assured the state department at Washington that cotton, not being contraband, would be allowed to go through to Germany and Austria, American vessels are being sought in this port to carry abroad the first shipments.

Robert P. Rose, foreign trade adviser of the state department, in making this announcement here yesterday said that the cotton would either be landed at ports in Holland and transported into Germany by rail, or would be shipped direct to Germany.

Germany will take 50,000 bales of American cotton each month, while Austria will need 25,000 bales a month, in Mr. Rose's opinion.

It is planned to have the vessels bring back dyestuffs, cyanide, chemicals, medicines, sugar beet seed and potash on their return trips. Although Germany has lifted the embargo upon these products it has been stipulated that they must be carried in American bottoms. For that reason American vessels only are being sought to carry cotton abroad.

The Matanzas, the first steamship laden with dyestuffs from Germany since the embargo was lifted, left Rotterdam for New York yesterday, and the Sun, an American steamer, will leave Rotterdam Nov. 1 with the first cargo of cyanide.

It is estimated that the prosperity of 600,000 American textile workers depends upon a free movement of German dyestuffs, and it is stated that the owners of American gold and silver mines depend upon German cyanide to extract these metals.

WAR FOR 18 MONTHS

English Author Says It May Go on For Three Years and Will End When Allied Troops March Into Berlin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Jerome K. Jerome, English author and playwright, said here yesterday that the war in Europe will continue for at least 18 months and perhaps three years. It will end when allied troops march into Berlin. He declares that it is a war of resources, including men and money, and when it is over the world will have peace for from three to six centuries.

"We shall not get to Berlin in less than 18 months, nor later than three years from the beginning of the war," said Mr. Jerome. "Berlin, of course, is our objective and the British will never stop until the goal is reached.

"It is not impossible that we shall meet the Russians in Berlin in 1915 as we did our allies in Paris in 1815. But we shall meet them; there is not the slightest doubt about that.

"As for the Belgians, they certainly have done their share of the work."

STATE LAWS IGNORED

Lowell should not be surprised to hear—as it has heard through the meeting held Tuesday evening in the board of trade rooms—that Assistant Attorney-General Roger Sherman Hoar is preparing to bring suit against the city for its failure to construct the isolation hospital required by state law. Unless our legislature is a joke and our state laws ridiculous, the city will be compelled to do as the legislature has specified. When such action is taken, it will not do to say we cannot afford such a hospital, for some things we must have whether our city council thinks we can afford them or not. Possibly after bringing suit the state may collect the heavy penalties provided for neglect of the statute. Can the city afford that?

The meeting held under the auspices of the Middlesex Women's club, the Lowell guild, and the board of trade, acting through their combined committees, served to emphasize one most important point, viz.: that the fight against contagious disease in general and against tuberculosis in particular is a nation-wide as well as a state-wide fight. Before the law regarding the erection of isolation hospitals was placed on the statute books, active interests from one end of the country worked might and main to attack the insidious evil of tuberculosis which stalks over the land more silently but more deadly than any of the armies of Europe. The eyes of the nation were on Massachusetts, for this state has gained a reputation for advanced health laws and many states waited to see the effect here before adopting similar precautions. Lowell, however, has ignored and scorned the state demand, attracting in turn the scorn of advanced and intelligent men and women in all parts of the country. Where human life is concerned, as was remarked by Dr. Livingston at the hearing, economy, real or pretended, is no excuse.

In his address at the hearing the secretary of the state league testified that Lowell has 123 deaths annually from tuberculosis and that 20 are affected annually for every one who dies. He stated that Fall River has three times as much tuberculosis among the women who work in the textile industry as among those working elsewhere, a statement which confirms the oft-mentioned connection between the textile industry and the terrible disease. It is plain, consequently, that Lowell stands in dire need of intelligent activity towards the stamping out of this plague, and nothing can be done very satisfactorily until an up-to-date isolation hospital is erected. If the state will not admit to its hospitals any more advanced cases of the disease from Lowell, as Mr. Stone stated, the situation here will be serious in the extreme. If the city realized the facts as they were presented at the hearing, there can be no doubt that, despite claims of poverty or economy, there would be a clamor for reform that no officials could withstand.

Lowell has been providentially clear of such epidemics as smallpox or diphtheria on a large scale for some years past, but not less effective for evil has been the relentless tuberculosis that has worked ravages among our workers. Now that intelligent men and women are banded together we may hope for some constructive action that will usher in better conditions. Had Lowell not been carried away by organized insincerity and vilification we would have had an isolation hospital at the present time, and at a price that the city cannot hope to parallel, considering the advantages of site, situation and buildings. Led astray by foolish fears and personal spites, the city refused to listen to the demands of the state, and now our public is beginning to see the enormity of the neglect. We will be lucky indeed if we are not shown very soon by the power of the commonwealth that no personal machinations and no arguments of fake economy can be permitted to jeopardize the health of the people.

CONTRAST IN CAMPAIGNING

One who follows the published accounts of the campaigns being conducted by republicans, progressives and democrats in this state at the present time must come to the conclusion that the democrats are conducting the fairest and most consistent campaign. From Governor Walsh down to the least speaker, each exponent of democratic principles has something positive to offer, and all base the democratic claims on the record of recent achievement, state and national. Whatever the public opinion of their acts may be, no one can deny that they are willing to be judged on their record. They attack no principles and no party, except where compelled to do so by previous attack, but they regard as their main strength the fact that in national politics and in state politics they have kept faith with the public in a degree scarcely paralleled. They do not claim to have made no errors, but they are confident that the slighter things are far outnumbered by the reforms that have been enacted.

How very different is the campaign being waged by the other parties. The recent republican rally in this city is fairly typical of all the republican rallies, and may thus be taken as a criterion. At this rally one heard a great deal of condemnation for all democrats from President Wilson down, but little else. The harmlessly negative republican platform is being followed up by a campaign that promises little or nothing, that makes no reference to the rather melodorous republican record in national politics and the unprogressive regime in republican Massachusetts days, that contents itself merely with attacking the record of the democratic party. To be sure, the republican party is on the defensive but it would seem that it should have something to offer as a substitute for the administrations it condemns. The Massachusetts public is not apt to be favorably disposed towards a discredited party, merely because of a promise that if Mr. McCall and his followers are elected things will go in "the same old way." The interpretation given to this phrase by old time republicans and by a great many good people in Massachusetts is not quite the same.

Is it not more to the public welfare to elect men to office who have accomplished a great deal and who demand to be judged by these accomplishments than to elect a party of inactive critics who affect a dog-in-the manger attitude? President Wilson has never attempted to evade responsibility for anything he has supported or achieved; Governor Walsh is discussing his state record with entire frankness. Any promises made in national or state circles may be judged in the light of past achievement. Contrast the political tactics of the two parties, and you will not be long in deciding which is acting with the greater honesty.

In reference to this same matter, it is being circulated through republican channels that the progressives are deserting their standard in great numbers. Lowell does not bear witness to this, though one cannot tell until after the state election. If it be true, there can be no choice for the sincere progressive between the policies of the democratic party and the policies of the republican party. The only applied progressiveness of recent years has been shown by the democrats who have achieved a distinction that may be disliked but that cannot be ignored. Between a party that has been aggressive and active and that stands by its actions and one that has been passive and inactive and merely negative, real progressives will be able to choose easily, whether their progressiveness be spelled with a capital letter or not.

EXPORTS INCREASE

Whether due to the recent notes from England to the state department or not, regarding trade understandings during the war, many papers that have little to look more or less pessimistic in their discussions of business conditions are calling attention to the recent great increase in exports. According to the Boston Herald: "The trade statistics begin to show in notably favorable volume the rise in export business which has come to this country on account of the war." Evidently the increase in volume has come to such a marked degree that it can no longer be denied or discounted. Trade figures show that not only the neutral countries but the warring nations are purchasing from us and to a degree in excess of previous years. The goods exported are for the most part foodstuffs, clothing and materials of which the belligerents stand in need, and the large demand may be understood when we find that during the last three weeks our export trade has reached a total of $200,000,000.

The boom which seems to be on at last will go a great way in clearing away the stagnation from which American business has partially suffered. Our own mills and factories have shown signs of renewed activity and it is noteworthy that business leads everywhere speak cheerfully of the outlook. It behooves our merchants and manufacturers to make hay while the sun shines, for there is the danger that after a long war the nations may be poor purchasers. Still, this would lighten the competition in the other foreign markets. Regarded from any angle, it looks as though this country is on the brink of a session of unprecedented prosperity which will have beneficial effects in all our industrial centres—Lowell included.

NEWSPAPER "TIPS"

Our automobile page yesterday told how a certain individual who sold fire extinguishers saw an account of a fatal motor boat explosion at a popular lake resort and at once conceived the idea of going there and doing business among other motor boat owners. The plan worked splendidly to the advantage of the boat owners and the seller of fire extinguishers. A little reflection will convince any intelligent person that there is scarcely a line of business that would not be benefited by "tips" in the daily papers—though most persons would scan over the item unthinkingly. A representative of a Boston architectural firm came to this city to look up prospects a few weeks ago, owing to business possibilities seen in Lowell newspapers. In like manner one local salesman at least watches the papers for records of marriages, seeing business possibilities in the setting up of a new home. These are but a few instances of business aid got from newspapers even outside of the advertising columns which need no champion. It may amuse the business man occasionally to knock the newspapers, but if he aver of them fully they will prove his greatest friend.

CARRANZA'S REQUEST

That Carranza, actual president of Mexico, has more friends than most generals in that distracted country is proved by his recent request to Villa, to wit: that he will retire from the presidency in the name of peace, provided Villa also will retire from Mexican public life. Both men made common cause against Huerta, both secured a large following, both were passively, if not actually, aided by our government, and both were successful. With success came misunderstandings and Villa set out to undermine the authority he himself had set up. Villa's speeches are very noble, but his deeds belie them. He has set very difficult conditions for Carranza to accept. If he is sincere, he will receive the acquiescence of Carranza in the spirit in which it is given and help to bring a peace to Mexico in which personalities, ambitions and spites will not enter. It is apparently up to Villa whether Mexico will have war or peace.

How little we think of the dangers of the miner's life when we enjoy the steam heat of our comfortable homes or sit luxuriously in front of the blazing fire. Occasionally such things as the Royalton, Ill., disaster come to wake us from our lethargy. In the life of the miner, the explosion, cave-in or suffocation by poisonous fumes may come at any moment, and progress does little and can do little to make the life safer. The life underground is terrible at its best, but at its worst it makes a story that has more tragedy than words can tell.

It is certainly a matter for congratulation that the school department was not obliged to put the salary-cut into effect. The members of the school board cannot but know that such would have been a most unpopular policy, though the responsibility would rest with the municipal council. Being a member of the school board this last year was anything but enjoyable.

John Jacob Astor, great-great-grandson of the founder of the famous family, wounded in battle in France. What magic there is in a name, after all?

It is not so much the question "Can we afford it?" as the question "Can we still afford to ignore it?"

SEEN AND HEARD

James Junior says it is better to go to bed late than never.

When some couples approach the altar, you wonder why the groom isn't wearing the bridal veil.

It isn't the chickens in the road that cause all the automobile wrecks. It is usually the chickens in the machine.

A fellow likes a girl to act kittenish when they are engaged. But after they are married he discovers that kittens grow up.

Some of the good prohibitionists are going to find heaven a lonely, cheerless, unhappy place. There are no saloons to close up there.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to wear the Prince Albert with the velvet collar and cuffs?

Other businesses have to employ traveling representatives. But the barkeep never has to hunt you up to make a sale.

The reason why a girl always keeps the glass wind-shield up when she is driving an automobile is because the glass acts as a mirror and keeps her from worrying about her looks.

Father and the children use up a lot of time being loyal to the old flag. But it could help some if they would show more loyalty to the old flag represented by mother's apron.

Grandma used to wear a mother hubbard, a pair of Congress gaiters and a shawl over her head, and she was dressed up. But nowadays the only way you can tell grandma from her daughter is that grandma is more liberal in her use of paint and powder.

The old-fashioned man who used to drink his booze barefooted now has a son who preaches against the curse of liquor and gets away with a bottle of Jaggers Nervine (guaranteed to contain not more than 89 per cent alcohol) every three days.

THE APPLE CROP

That apples are abundant this year is a fact that is well known, but one can hardly realize what an abundance there is unless he takes a trip into the country and notes how some of the trees are still ladened with the fruit, in spite of the numbers that have fallen off. In this connection it may be interesting to note the apple prices down south. Nearly $100,000 worth of Massachusetts apples are being taken to Rio Janeiro in a Boston vessel, which sailed today to arrive in time for the Brazilian's Christmas. The bark Conway is the craft and so highly thought of are the red beauties from New England in South America that the apples will retail for 10 cents each. For upward of twenty years, Capt. John W. Balano of the schooner Margaret Thomas carried a big holiday cargo of fruit to Rio, and each year he was greeted with a popular demonstration by Brazilians. The skipper has recently died and the duty of being the apple Santa Claus has devolved on Capt. Davis. Perhaps, sometime, this southern market will be worked for what it is worth, and surplus crops will find a market there instead of in Europe.

Below is given an Andover student's view of Harvard: "I took a stroll through the new freshman dormitories out at Cambridge the other afternoon. The predominant feeling I experienced in making the four of these three big halls, with their own courtyard and board walks, was very much like that of visiting any one of the numerous colleges that make up the great universities of Oxford or Cambridge in England. There is a sense of isolation about this locality, set apart for the freshmen. Nevertheless, you fully realize that you are quite within the hallowed precincts of the great university. Although these new halls have been occupied less than a fortnight the aspect of newness and fresh paint has already vanished and their atmosphere is as homelike and snug as that of the old dormitories in the college yard. The living rooms I visited were like the typical collegiate den—simply but comfortably furnished and adorned with the usual student paraphernalia. As each of the three halls has its own dining room and reading room there is no lack of accommodations for bringing the freshmen in close touch with each other. Already a freshman debating club has been organized and other social organizations for the promotion of good fellowship are on the tapis. I asked one of the freshmen if the sophomores had included their presence here as yet, having in mind the rude and unwelcome visits the upper classmen were formerly wont to make on the neophytes. 'No,' he said. 'They haven't bothered us a bit, though they drop in occasionally for a friendly call.' Apparently the old hazing days are over. The only discordant note I found in these dormitories was the locks and other fittings of the doors of the main entrances. These all bear the name of Yale in conspicuous letters of shining brass. There was a time at Harvard when this rude intrusion would not have been tolerated beyond a single dark night."

THE APPLE TREE

When an apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat
There isn't any structure in the land that's "got it beat;"
There's nothing man has builded with the beauty or the charm
That can touch the simple grandeur of the monarch of the farm;
That has ever caught the redness of a single apple's blush.

When an apple tree's in blossom it is glorious to see,
But that's just a hint at springtime of the better things to be,
That is just a fairy promise from the Great Magician's wand
Of the wonders and the splendors that are waiting just beyond
The distant edge of summer; just a forecast of the treat
When the apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat.

Architects of splendid vision long have labored on the earth
And have raised their dreams in marble, and we've marveled at their worth;
Long the spires of costly churches have looked upward at the sky,
Rich in promise and in beauty they have cheered the passerby,
But I'm sure there's nothing finer for the eye of man to meet
Than an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

There's the promise of the blossoms, red and gleaming in the sun
Like the medals worn by mortals as rewards for labors done;
And the big arms stretched wide open, with a welcome warm and true
In a way that sets you thinking it's intended just for you
There is nothing with a beauty so entrancing, so complete
As an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

DEATH OF MONARCHIES

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal has counseled his adherents in that country to postpone their contemplated uprising for the restoration of the monarchy until the war in Europe is over. He is a wise young man, inasmuch as the outcome of that war may be the sounding of the knell of monarchical governments and it would hardly be worth while for Manuel to recover his job, even were that possible, only to be fired from it shortly after.—Fall River Globe.

NOTHING THE MATTER

There is nothing the matter with this country and there has been nothing the matter with it. We know what errors we have raised. We know that we have iron and steel and cotton and wheat and corn and manufactured goods of every description, and we know that the world wants these things.—Meriden Journal.

GOVERNMENT

When government is best it will be but a small part of the activity of society. Its principal duties will be to provide police and courts. The citizen's principal relations to government will be to pay taxes and kick. The insistence on publicity will make impossible the enormous waste on armaments. Will make financiers and gun-makers afraid to promote war as is said to have been done in the Balkans.—Lewiston Sun.

THE DIGNITY OF THE COURT

Our Maine supreme court added to its ostensible dignity years ago by borrowing the gown but not the wig of antiquity. Down south the judges are going to the other extreme. In order to increase the demand for southern cotton, the judges in some of the southern courts, notably in Jackson, Miss., appeared Monday in overalls. As a symbol of a working court, overalls are no disgrace. Excellent human beings have been known in overalls—such for example as Edison.—Lewiston Journal.

ADMINISTRATION CRITICS

If a little of the effort that has been spent in denouncing the administration and congress could have been devoted to removing dishonest men from positions in high finance, business would have been in a position to go ahead on a basis of high prosperity.—Lawrence Tribune.

UNITY MISUNDERSTOOD

Never a truer word did a democratic congressman up for re-election say than that a vote for him would be a vote of confidence in President Wilson. President Wilson was congress. The democratic congressmen took their orders from him and did his bidding in every respect. It is a question, however, whether the people of the United States are convinced that the time has arrived for uniting the legislative and the executive functions of the government and placing supreme power in the hands of the president.—Springfield Union.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of your bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative" and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy. Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other and see that yours is made by the fig syrup.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Miss BERTHA A. PELOQUIN, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

INVESTIGATION OF SING SING PRISON

Stephen P. Baldwin, Appointed by Governor Glynn, Will Conduct Sweeping Investigation Into Administration of the Famous Prison

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A sweeping investigation into the administration of Sing Sing prison will be begun tomorrow by Stephen P. Baldwin, appointed yesterday by Gov. Glynn as a special investigator. Mr. Baldwin so announced today, saying that he expected to summon witnesses to testify before him in Brooklyn tomorrow.

Mr. Baldwin said that he would not only investigate the case of David A. Sullivan, the banker convicted of wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, who is reported to have received extraordinary favors from the prison authorities, but would take up many other matters in connection with prison discipline there.

John J. Malloy, an official at Sing Sing, was taken from jail today. Malloy had spent two nights and a day a prisoner in contempt of court for his refusal to testify concerning reports that Sullivan had gone automobile riding with Warden McCormick on numerous occasions. District Attorney Cropsey said that Malloy had decided to testify at the instance of Governor Glynn.

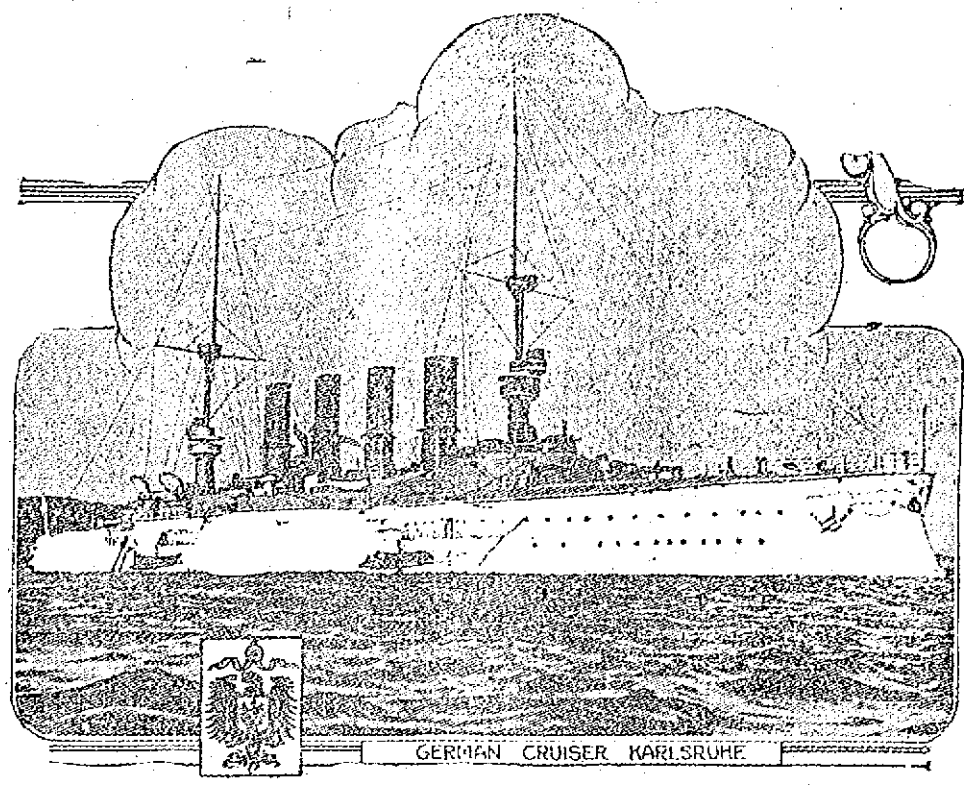
George Ford, a Yonkers policeman, was summoned before the grand jury. It is understood the district attorney planned to ask him if it were true that Sullivan had recently lost his way in Yonkers and appealed to Ford to set him right.

Mr. Cropsey's detectives were searching high and low today for Miss Louise Burkhardt of Yonkers, said to have been Sullivan's confidential clerk. Mr. Cropsey wants to question her as to the accuracy of reports that Sullivan had conferred often with her in Yonkers when he was supposed to have been in jail.

MAY SUSPEND WARDEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 28.—John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons, said today that he would probably act later in the day on Governor Glynn's request, made public last night, that Warden McCormick of Sing Sing prison be suspended pending the Brooklyn grand jury inquiry.

GERMAN CRUISER KARLSRUHE SOUGHT BY DOZENS OF BRITISH SHIPS IN ATLANTIC



The German cruiser Karlsruhe, of a trifle less than 5000 tons, has had in this war a career as eventful in the Atlantic as that of the smaller German Emden in the Indian ocean. The Karlsruhe first came into notice at the outbreak of the war when she appeared in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, apparently in wait for British merchantmen leaving New York. For a few days the British shipping hugged their piers and then came news that the Karlsruhe had been driven away by the approach of several British cruisers. On Aug. 9 the Karlsruhe appeared in the harbor of San Juan, Porto Rico, where she coaled. Soon afterward the Karlsruhe had a running fight at sea with the British cruisers Suffolk and Essex. Since then she has sunk or captured thirteen British vessels in the Atlantic, while the Emden has sunk or captured twenty-one British craft in the Indian ocean. Searching for these two German cruisers and five or six others and working in concert under various commanders in chief are upward of seventy British, Australian, Japanese, French and Russian cruisers, not including auxiliary cruisers. Among these are a number of the fastest British cruisers. According to the official announcement of the English admiralty, "the percentage of loss is much less than was reckoned on before the war. Out of 4000 British ships engaged in the foreign trade only thirty-nine have been sunk by the enemy, or less than 1 per cent. in all. Besides seven vessels are now overdue in Atlantic waters. Between 8000 and 9000 foreign voyages have been undertaken to and from United Kingdom ports, less than five per 1000 of which have been interfered with. On the other hand, German oversea trade has practically ceased to exist. Nearly all their fast ships which could have been used as auxiliary cruisers, were promptly penned into neutral harbors or have taken refuge in their own. Among the comparatively few German ships which have put to sea, 133 have been captured or nearly four times the number of those lost by the very large British mercantile marine."

33 VESSELS SUNK BY TWO GERMAN CRUISERS

Italian Newspaper Says That the German Cruisers, Emden and Karlsruhe, up to Present Time Have Sunk 33 Vessels Aggregating Tonnage of 150,000

BERLIN, Oct. 28, via wireless to Sayville, L. I.—The German cruiser Emden, according to an official announcement today, has sunk a big Japanese liner bound for Singapore.

According to the Italian newspaper Stampa the cruisers Emden and Karlsruhe up to the present time have sunk 33 vessels, aggregating a tonnage of 150,000.

NOV. 26 THANKSGIVING

President Wilson Issues Proclamation Designating Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President Wilson today issued a proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 26, as Thanksgiving day.

The president's proclamation, which refers to the efat that the United States is at peace while the rest of the world is at war, follows:

By the president of the United States of America:

A proclamation:

It long has been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since last observed our day of national thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of change which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessings for us.

It has been vouchsafed to us to remain at peace, with honor, and in some part to succor the suffering and supply the needs of those who are in want. We have been privileged by our own peace and self control in some degree to steady the counsels and shape the hopes and purposes of a day of fear and distress. Our people have looked on their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a fuller realization of their responsibilities as well as of their blessings and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to be.

The hurtful effects of foreign war in their own industrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the more fully and see the more clearly their mutual inter-dependence upon one another and has stirred them to a helpful cooperation such as they have seldom practiced before. They have been quickened by a great moral stimulation. Their unmistakable ardor for peace, their earnest pity and disinterested sympathy for those who are suffering, their readiness to help and to think of the needs of others has revealed them to themselves as well as to the world.

Our crops will feed all who need food; the self possession of our people amidst the most serious anxieties and difficulties and the steadiness and resourcefulness of our business men will serve other nations as well as our own.

The business of the country has been supplied with new instrumentalities and the commerce of the world with new channels of trade and intercourse. The Panama canal has been opened to the commerce of the nations. The two continents of America have been bound in closer ties of friendship. New instrumentalities of international trade have been created which will be also new instrumentalities of acquaintance, intercourse and mutual service. Never before have the people of the United States been so situated for their own advantage or the advantage of their neighbors or so equipped to serve themselves and mankind.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America do hereby designate Thursday, the 26th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set by hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 25th day of October in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-ninth.

(Signed) Woodrow Wilson.

By the President. Robert Lansing, Acting Secretary of State.

Health Board Permits Fowls Within 25 Feet of Neighbors, Providing Coops Are Sanitary

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Chicken lovers may now cease to be anxious for their pets. The board of health yesterday passed an amendment to the sanitary code providing that poultry may be kept within 25 feet of any inhabited building other than that of the owner. Permits will be issued only when the coops are sanitary and when a tenant in a two-family house has the consent of the other tenant to the keeping of fowl.

The board contemplated two months ago forbidding the raising of chickens within 75 feet of a dwelling, but a vigorous protest from fanciers in all the boroughs led the board to fix the present limit.

EYES TROUBLE YOU?

TRY THIS SIMPLE RECEIPT

W all know some remedy for our minor troubles, and by the use of these remedies many a doctor's bill is saved and doubtless many a life.

How few know what to do when their eyes become tired and ache, or feel dry and inflamed from abuse and overuse? In the morning your eyes feel rough or sticky, or they trouble you when you read. What do you do? Most of us rush off and get glasses (perhaps at some cheap store where no skill is used in fitting our eyes), which we very often do not need at all. Thousands are wearing misfit or unnecessary glasses which they might better discard and other thousands can, with a little care, probably so strengthen their eyes that glasses might never be necessary. Here is a free receipt that may be relied upon to give comfort and to help the eyes of some people; it is harmless and has the enthusiastic endorsement of thousands who have used it:

2 Ounces Water.

Use it as an eye wash night and morning, or oftener if possible. It makes most eyes feel fine, quickly allays irritation, brightens the eyes and sharpens the vision. Many who have used it no longer feel the need of glasses; many others have ceased to fear that they will soon be obliged to wear them. Get the Optona tablets from the Riker Jaynes store or from your nearest druggist and prepare the solution at your own home.

EDISON AT DETROIT

FAMOUS INVENTOR VISITING THE SCENE OF HIS BOYHOOD—SENDS MESSAGE TO CHILDREN

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28.—It developed today that Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, who has been visiting scenes of his boyhood in this section of the state for the last week, cast off the mantle of his years yesterday and on a trip to Port Huron once more tried his hand at the operator's key and even went so far as to take the wares from a news vendor and sell them among his friends.

As a boy, Mr. Edison sold papers and worked as an operator for the same railroad over which he traveled to Port Huron yesterday. His last trip, however, was in a special train engaged for him by his host, Henry Ford, a local manufacturer.

As the famous inventor passed through Mount Clemens he stepped into the telegraph operator's office and tapped off a message to his children in New Jersey. The message was interrupted, however, when the Mount Clemens' operator turned to Mr. Edison with a smile.

"An operator on the line is complaining. He says there is a boy on the wire whose practicing is gumming things up."

It was not reported what the operator said when he was told that Thos. A. Edison had caused the trouble.

At Port Huron Mr. Ford insisted upon equipping his guest with all the equipment of news butcher.

Mr. Edison appeared to take keen delight in the situation and he was soon selling fruit and candy to his friends. Gum brought as high as 5 cents a package and when the inventor stepped off the train he poured the proceeds of his day's business into the hat of a grinning porter.

100,000 ARE STARVING

INHABITANTS OF JERUSALEM SUFFERING BECAUSE OF THE WAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—One hundred thousand inhabitants of Jerusalem are facing starvation, according to Samuel Edelman, American vice consul in that city, who reached here today on the steamer Ancona. Two-thirds of the residents of Jerusalem are Jews. For many years they have depended upon their living from tourists and upon charity for support and the war has cut off all their sources of subsistence.

There are no industries in the city and little cultivation of the surrounding territory. The cold and rainy season is now approaching and indications are that the suffering there will soon be intense, Mr. Edelman asserted.

Mr. Champney gazed on the surrounding landscape from the tenth story of the Sun, and said in equipment the structure compares favorably with the finest in the metropolis. He had a pleasant smile and a good word for his old time acquaintances on The Sun, and left for the "big town" after a few happy hours in Lowell.

FACES BUSY YEAR

To provide for the capacity enrolment this fall at the college of St. Elizabeth, in New Jersey, it was announced today that the authorities will transform a part of the large administration building into a dormitory. This step was decided upon so that the large number of young ladies on the college waiting list might be accommodated immediately.

The renovations in the Administration building provide for a transformation of the east wing into sleeping quarters. Santa Rita Hall, the newest dormitory on the campus, was originally intended for only a hundred girls. The college authorities aim to build in the near future a new residence hall for the continually increasing numbers in the entering classes.

In the choice of curriculum work this year a striking preference has been displayed by the young women for the science departments. In the domestic science department alone the enrolment is more than doubled, and the college will add to its faculty within a few days to meet this exigency.

NEW YORKERS DRINKING LESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New Yorkers seem to be cutting out intoxicants. At any rate figures show that the number of saloons in Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn are decreasing. For instance, 236 fewer licenses were issued in these three boroughs since Oct. 1 than in the corresponding period of last year. That means a loss to the state and city of $295,000. The total receipts for the excise year ended on Sept. 30 in Manhattan and The Bronx alone were $40,000 less than in the previous year.

Figures for Manhattan and The Bronx obtained yesterday from the deputy commissioner show that in those two boroughs alone 153 fewer licenses have been issued than in the same period of last year. The total was 6213, netting $6,623,857, or $145,000 less than last year.

Various reasons are assigned for the decrease. The war is given as one; hard times is another. Motion picture theatres, which have provided places in which to spend part of the evening, are given as still another.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

Forty-Fifth Annual Report Shows Great Scope of Work of Local Institution

The 45th annual report of St. John's hospital embracing the work done by this worthy institution during the years 1912 and 1913 is at hand and contains much interesting reading and statistical matter. Upon perusing the report one is surprised at the great amount of work that is being done at the hospital, as also the great amount of work done for which no remuneration is received. The report also gives a comprehensive idea of the cosmopolitan character of the institution, within whose comforting walls representatives of about every country on earth have at one time or another received medical and surgical aid.

Dr. Huntress' Statement

Introductory to the report is a statement prepared by Dr. Leonard M. Huntress, president of the hospital faculty, which reads as follows:

In spite of the fact that there are in Lowell three hospitals of fair dimensions, it is certainly true that this city has not hospital room sufficient to accommodate all patients who seek hospital treatment in time of an epidemic. The staff hoped that before this report was printed the new wing for which we have so long waited would be built. But this was not to be, in all probability, however, this will be accomplished before another year goes by, and then we shall have approximately twice our present number of beds. Only the most careful management has enabled the institution to care so well during all these years for all our patients, and now to be in a position to promise with confidence that we shall soon have our increased accommodations which we so sorely need.

It is not pleasant to her, but hospitals are often obliged to resort to this expedient, and the public thinks no less of them for so doing. Even crusades of begging are permitted in communities. Yes, they are often applauded. Now, it is not our intention to start a crusade or even to hint at such a thing but we feel it our right to call the attention of the public to the fact that in this hospital the city of Lowell has a worthy institution which deserves much at their hands. We have just made use of the word "beg." We should have used some other word. For it is not begging to ask for fair pay for work performed or goods delivered; and this hospital would be more than satisfied if it could receive that.

We have often heard St. John's hospital spoken of as an emergency hospital. Certainly this is in a sense true, for, owing to its central location, as well as its well-earned reputation, a large percentage of the emergency cases of the city are brought here. But a careful study of the statistics of this report will show the large number of medical cases treated here with marked success, and the varied character of the surgical operations which have been followed by results of which we believe we have reason to be proud.

As a matter of fact, all of the Lowell hospitals are today showing every bit as good results as the hospitals in the larger cities, and we ask you to bear this statement in mind in studying the statistics of the laparotomies and especially of the appendectomies in this report.

Not seldom a Lowell patient goes to one of the larger cities to place himself in the hands of a surgeon of nation wide or world wide reputation, when he could receive just as skilful surgical treatment and just as good hospital care in this city.

Since our last report was printed St. John's hospital has met with a sad and serious loss in the death of Dr. Robert E. Bell, for many years a member of our surgical staff. Dr. Bell was so well known and so well beloved in Lowell that no eulogium is necessary. He was recognized as one of our ablest specialists on the eye, ear and throat, while as an all round physician and surgeon he was a credit to this hospital, to the city of Lowell and to his profession.

We are pleased to be able to endorse the management of the training school for nurses. The care and discrimination shown in the admission of candidates to the school, and the thoroughness used in their training on both medical and surgical sides of the hospital may assure the public that a diploma from this training school stands for real merit.

We can think of no more fitting motto for a hospital than "deeds not words."

So we simply desire to call attention to what is being done here. In other words, we ask you to study the statistics.

In their statement to their patrons, the Sisters of Charity, after expressing their deep appreciation of the interest taken by the public in the hospital call attention to the following facts:

During the past two years, 383 persons were given free treatment in the hospital and 247 persons were treated who only paid in part; 693 accident cases were treated free in the emergency department, and 11,102 treatments were given in the out-patient department; hence, it is evident that, with the increased cost of maintenance of today, the receipts from the board of patients must fall far short of the expenditures for them, and that a deficit is unavoidable, even with the strictest economy, while improvements are impossible without the assistance of generous contributions.

The hospital still has in reserve, as a nucleus for the building fund for the new wing, to which we are still looking forward, a portion of the legacies already received, and trust that other kind friends of St. John's will, by their gifts, enable us to see our hopes realized.

Among the many urgent needs which the contemplated new wing would supply is a department for maternity cases, the applications for such accommodations having been very numerous during the past few years; an addition of this character would obviate the necessity of sending our nurses out of the city for their obstetrical training, and would prove a great benefit to many.

Interesting Statistics

During the years 1912, 1913, there were admitted to the hospital proper 2306 patients (this does not include the out-patient department). Of these, 1466 were discharged as cured; 315 were discharged as improved; 79 discharged unimproved, while there were 186 deaths. Of the total number of deaths 66 died within 24 hours.

When one considers the fact that in a great number of cases the patient is not taken to the hospital until in a dying condition, the mortality of the institution is remarkably low. Of the total number of patients received, 383 were free cases for which the hospital received no remuneration whatever, 247 were cases paying in part, while the remaining number who paid in full received treatment for the bare cost thereof, for the institution is not run to make money.

In the emergency department there were 861 accident cases, while 346 cases were brought in by the city ambulance and 865 accident cases that returned for treatment, making a total of 2075.

In the out-patient department there were 2501 new cases treated in the dispensary and 7736 old cases, making a total of 10,237.

The surgical operations performed at the hospital during the two years numbered 1065, an average of about three per day. Those operations were classed as follows: General surgical operations, 702; gynecological, 143; eye, ear, nose and throat, 250.

The social status of the patients shows that while a majority were natives of this country, including about every state in the Union, there were several hundred foreigners among the patients representing 27 foreign countries, including Greece, Arabia, Armenia, Asia Minor, Syria, Turkey, Russia, and other remote quarters of the globe for class or creed is never considered at St. John's.

The report of the emergency department states: Much is done for the poor of Lowell in this department, since the majority of cases treated either do not pay at all or scarcely pay for material used.

In his report of the X-ray department, Dr. Joseph A. Mehan, who is the roentgenologist of the hospital, says:

Previous to June, 1913, the work was done with a portable coil and radiographs obtained after long exposure to the rays. In June we had installed a SureX transformer, which allows a much greater scope of work and reduces the time of exposure to the minimum. With a coil it took from 15 to 30 seconds' exposure for a radiograph of an elbow, but with the transformer the time of exposure is reduced to one second.

With the transformer it became possible to do "bismuth work" and 14 cases were radiographed for the purpose of showing the outline of the stomach and intestines as the bismuth passed through. This part of the work will become of greater importance and will help in the early diagnosis of disease of the digestive tract. Our next report will undoubtedly contain many cases of abnormal condition shown by bismuth.

The total number of radiographs was 436.

In his report for the St. John's Hospital society, the purpose of which is to lend moral and material assistance to the hospital, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, president of the society, says:

The officers of the society and many citizens, including well known physicians who understand the needs of the hospital and the work it is doing, asked the municipal council for a grant of money to cover at least in part the work which the hospital has been doing for a long time practically gratuitously; the request was based on the ground that the hospital relieves the city of a great burden which would naturally fall upon it otherwise, and brought out the fact that the hospital does much work for the city's needy at a cost entirely out of proportion with rates established by the industrial accident board for such work.

While it was not possible to obtain relief in this direction during the present year, it is hoped that the opinion may soon prevail that such a grant of money will not be regarded merely as a grant to a private institution, but as the partial payment for invaluable service which must be furnished the people of the city in their just needs."

GENTLY ASSISTING NATURE

Those who find their breath bad in the morning, a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, a mean feeling in the head, will do well to try Pinklets, the new laxative.

Constipation, which these symptoms denote, is dangerous because it means that poisonous materials which should have been expelled from the body are being retained. It is a condition which, if not corrected, becomes chronic.

Even chronic constipation can be corrected by care in the diet and persistent treatment with a gentle laxative.

The use of harsh laxatives, unfortunately so common, gives temporary relief but in the end aggravates constipation. Pinklets are dainty, sugar-coated pills, hardly larger than a mustard seed and they act gently, causing no nausea or griping. They aid digestion and are a good after-dinner pill, especially when more food has been taken than the needs of the body require. They clear away the waste and prevent congestion. With a little persistence, which the result is well worth, they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free sample.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Master baby must be under his doctor's orders when open air sleeping is talked about, for it is not always wise to expose a very young delicate child too much, especially in a changeable or damp climate, but most physicians and mothers advocate the daily nap in the open air.

For this purpose, various clever contrivances in the way of swinging hammocks are provided. The most extensive but not prohibitive styles have detachable canvas roofs which may be slanted at various angles to keep off sun or wind. A new kind has the hammock of a porous hemp which has a canvas sheath, the latter to be drawn up over the thinner fabric in cold weather.

The sides should be high and the pillow or mattress inside not too high so as to keep the child from falling out. It pays also to get a good, firm frame. These fold up when traveling or when stored indoors, as they should be when not in use, unless kept in a very sheltered corner, because baby's bed must always be dry. It is advisable to put a hot water bottle at a child's feet when sleeping out of doors in cold weather.

If you are looking about for gifts for a new baby there are a few simple suggestions which it will be well to bear in mind. Dainty little slips, plainly gathered into neck and sleeve bands edged with a little valenciennes lace may be made at home, but excellently wearing varieties may be bought from one dollar and a half upward.

Select something for immediate use, such as caps, bibs, flannel skirts, mittens, sweaters and the like. A set of seven little slips or night gowns makes a nice outfit—one clean for every day of the week. The newest caps have ribbon run through the material, but separate bows and rosettes are always acceptable since they sell so easily, and a baby to be attractive must be immaculate.

The newest bibs have underarm extensions tied across the back with ribbons, and these are very convenient. For two dollars and upward one can find many pretty fine bibs, and these are always needed sooner or later.

All the care possible for the cows and all the sterilizing that can be given to milk cans and bottles goes for naught if the housewife does not use precautions on her side. The housewife does her part by dipping all these bottles in boiling water and after letting them boil five minutes they are stacked in yard until, at the time the quarantine is lifted, the board of health comes and washes them all again with disinfectant.

The milk in sealed bottles is supposed to reach her in a sanitary condition, but when she pours it out does she always remember to wipe the mouth of the bottle off first with a clean cloth? Does she press the paper seal down into contact with the milk inside when opening the bottle or does she remember to remove the seal with a sharp instrument which keeps the milk from absorbing any soil from the seal?

The bottle should always be covered again quickly when not in use and kept covered in the refrigerator so that it will not absorb impurities. Do not replace the paper seal when the bottle is once opened. Cover the top with a glass tumbler or butter plate instead and never pour back into the jar any milk that has once been removed.

If we attempt to harden our children during the periods of rapid growth, the consequences may be disastrous. Those periods of rapid growth are between the fourth and fifth, and ninth and the tenth and the thirteenth and the fifteenth years.

During the first few years of a child's life it is necessary only to adapt his body to indoor temperatures, and suitably clad, to varying outdoor temperatures. The child should not be given even mildly cold baths before he is three or four years of age, and tubs in the morning.

Up to the time he is fourteen a short stimulating bath in the morning is all that is necessary. Regularity in this matter is important. Safety and comfort are the criteria, depending upon the susceptibility of the child.

Careful mothers will not give children pennies and nickles with which to purchase cakes and candies at noon, as their selection for sweets is seldom in accordance with the laws of digestion. Such fruits as bananas, oranges and apples are easily packed, and are better for a school child than rich cake and pie.

Occasionally, hard-boiled eggs, accompanied by plain bread and butter, may be substituted for cold meat sandwiches. Little jars of potato or chicken salad can easily be put into the lunch basket and sometimes pickles and olives vary the midday school meal.

A modified club sandwich, and one which comprises almost a meal in itself, is made of two slices of bread toasted on one side, the other side is buttered and lettuce, small piece of bacon, a piece of cold chicken or other fowl, a slice of pickle and a little Mayonnaise dressing constitute the filling.

The well baby needs simple guidance to see that he keeps well; the sick baby needs, and usually gets attention in the effort to make him well; but the merely delicate baby, with enfeebled powers of resistance to disease and of constant low vitality, needs both guidance and the best attention that medical science affords.

The basis of all modern medicine is prevention of disease. To keep the baby well is far easier, safer and surer than to cure him after he has once become ill. It takes very little to cause illness in the baby, and the result is often seemingly out of all proportion to the cause.

The same digestive disturbances that, in an adult, would cause at the most a passing discomfort, will result in acute illness in the baby, often with the most disastrous effect, and the infection which passes the adult by finds a quick victim in the baby.

THE SPELLBINDER

The utter lack of enthusiasm over the different republican candidates in this campaign is the best evidence of the fact that the republican party, locally at least, is badly on the rocks. Shortly after the nominations were made Hon. Horton H. Hilton, chairman of the republican city committee, with other party hustlers started a movement to revive the city committee and to get up some of the old time interest and enthusiasm that was ever on tap in the state campaigns. Whether you may agree with Mr. Hilton politically or not you must admit that he is a staunch party man, a hustler and an untiring worker for the cause, and the man to place at the head of such a movement. But the task was too big even for "Hortie," and nothing has been done to get the revival going. It was suggested that prominent republicans be seen and asked for contributions and they were seen, but again there was nothing doing. Last Saturday night the republicans had a rally with the candidate for governor and our own congressman as the principal speakers. The usual street parade was held with a band at its head. But such a parade for the republican party of Lowell to hold! Outside of the mounted contingent from Dracut, there were only a straggling few in line, while the 400 or more at the hall included nearly as many democrats as republicans and it certainly was a cold gathering. In the senatorial contests too, the usual interest in the republican candidates is not to be found. Candidate Kimball of Littleton hasn't shown up in Lowell, publicly thus far, while Candidate Marchand is obliged to make a personal canvass to hold his own party. The republican party in Lowell is in a deplorable state of decay at the present time.

On the other hand, despite the untiring efforts of the Courier-Citizen to make its readers believe that there is democratic disaffection in Lowell that condition is not evident to any material extent. While the democratic rally of last evening was held under difficulties by reason of the fact that no hall was available on that particular date, it was in every way successful and augured well for Tuesday's results.

The Senatorial Contests

It is a long time since the democrats of wards five and nine have taken such a lively interest in their senatorial candidate as is manifest in Henry P. Dunn, of Lynn, who in a comparatively short time has made himself well known and decidedly popular. His enthusiasm and optimism have proven infectious and he'll get every democratic vote in the two wards. Up to Tuesday evening Candidate Kimball was comparatively unknown even by reputation in Lowell and few were aware of the fact that he is a member of the legislature. They knew him by reputation after Mr. Dunn had finished his recital of his opponent's record, however, for the democratic candidate showed a surprising familiarity with the affairs of the state house and particularly with his opponent's legislative record. Candidate Kimball hasn't made any speeches in Lowell, as yet, and as the time is drawing close, it is doubtful that the Lowell voters will be given the pleasure of listening to him.

One progressive candidate who will get a fine vote in this city is Dr. Livingston, the senatorial candidate in the eighth district, for there is an element in the republican party which, while it would not support a democrat under any circumstances, will not vote for Candidate George E. Marchand and will throw its support to Dr. Livingston. But Dr. Livingston can hardly be elected and Senator Draper will succeed himself.

Rep. Jewett's Job

The republican legislative committee of the general court has assigned Representative Victor Jewett to co-operate with the republican candidates in all the local districts and one of his duties will be "to attempt to arouse an interest in the prominent republican citizens who may be inclined to manifest only an apathetic sympathy in the present local contests." "Apathetic," by the way, means indifferent, lacking in interest, and has no reference to that element of the party whose title is included in the first three letters of the word. It's rather rough on Victor, who has troubles of his own in the 17th district, to insist on him going forth into the bailiwick of others. The leaders must imagine that Mr. Jewett has a walkover in his own district. Why was Representative Achin ignored in the choice of this arousing committee since it is a recognized fact that "Vic and Hen" have always done their most successful work in combination. There's Eddie Killpartrick who didn't show up at Vic's love feast to the defeated candidates, yet to be squared, and there is also a significant silence relative to the "heavenly twins," Achin and Jewett, a slogan that was heard in all corners of the district in the past; an indication that there may be a split somewhere.

Rep. Kiggins' Contest

While former-Alderman Burt Crosby is a good fellow, and in every way qualified for the position of representative from the 19th district, there is no good reason why Representative John J. Kiggins, after a satisfactory record at the state house should not be given a second term. The only criticism that has been made concerning Representative Kiggins is that he missed, I believe, some few roll-calls. The critics, however, simply make the bare statement and let it go at that, while the voter if he chooses to, may draw the inference that Representative Kiggins was careless or indifferent to the duties of his position. During his term of office, Representative Kiggins was married and absented himself for a week or more while on his honeymoon. The roll-calls referred to came up during his absence and there were no measures of particular importance among them, a fact which the critics took care not to explain.

Rep. Brennan's Friends Confident

The temporary alarm of the friends of Representative Brennan over the appearance of Michael A. Lee, a former democrat and business agent of a strong labor union, as the progressive candidate in the 14th district, has abated as it would appear that the democrats and labor men alike are taking the right view of the matter, and while they admire Mr. Lee personally, will not throw down a man whose labor record is without a flaw by making possible the election of Mr. Colburn, through the medium of complimentary votes for the third candidate. Thus far Representative Brennan's opponents have offered no word of criticism as to his conduct or record, and they could not offer any did they so desire. He favored the different amendments to the workingmen's compensation bill that came up during the year and voted for the referendum on the proposition for Saturday half holidays for city laborers and for two weeks' vacation for those laborers, two matters which properly should go before the people for enactment. On the firemen's two-platoon bill so-called, which has caused much discussion throughout the state, Rep. Brennan was right, for he voted for both the initiative and the referendum on this important measure. The bill now provides that in cities of 50,000 or more if 25 per cent. of the voters desire the change; the proposition shall be placed on the ballot for action by the entire electorate. Thus the bill as at present constituted is far from being an attempt to shove unpopular legislation down the throats of the people for 25 per cent. of the voters must favor placing it on the ballot before it shall come up at all. Representative Brennan worked hard for the progress of the proposition to make the Merrimack river navigable and in fact was on the right side of all measures affecting this locality and its people. As town clerk of Dracut for eight years he was familiar with legislative procedure and had a wide acquaintance in the different state departments upon entering upon his legislative career. He is clearly entitled to a second term. The voters of Dracut will rally to his support despite the fact that the republican candidate is also a resident of that town for they are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct during the past session and believe that he should receive a second term.

Mayor Has Been Studying

Do you know what a social survey is? I read the Courier-Citizen's account of it, but all that I could make out of it was, that whatever it may be, it will cost between $5000 and $15,000. The Courier-Citizen informs us that Mayor Murphy has been studying the problem, having made some inquiries with a view to finding out the chances for a study of this city at a reasonable cost. About the time that His Honor was brushing up on what a social survey might be, the city was in such bad shape financially that the municipal council was attempting to use the cemetery trust funds to tide over the treasury and the local banks were on the verge of a panic as the result of the sudden withdrawal of those funds therefrom, while the employes of the assessors' office were writing out the largest tax bills ever presented to a long-suffering public. It would seem that His Honor, if he feels studiously inclined, could better employ his time by studying the financial problems that daily confront him as the city's executive head, with a view to running the municipality "at a reasonable cost."

But listen! Isn't the board of trade with its social survey scheme butting in upon the prerogatives of the Lowell city planning board, whoever they may be? It looks that way, and the members of the planning board should proceed to assert themselves, lest some outside experts come in and get away with the cabbage. Where does the board of trade's slogan about patronizing home industries come in, when we have a home industry known as the planning board, looking for something to do?

And anyway, what's the use of paying from $5000 to $15,000 for a social survey with the present administration on deck. If they didn't like it, they'd blame it onto last year's government, while if they did like it they wouldn't know what to do with it, as they couldn't borrow any trust funds to put it into effect.

A Frosty Debut

Commissioner Brown, after a brief sojourn in New York, opened his campaign Monday noon at the Machine Shop gate, before a large but cold and greatly disappointed audience, which included a large number of city hall employes. The crowd was there to "hear something" anent the recent sensational happenings at city hall and was disappointed, for the commissioner wasn't there with anything of a sensational nature and even "stalled" badly, on a question as to why he changed his vote on the Putnam matter. Mr. Brown devoted most of his time to the time-honored statement that the newspapers are against him and as he proceeded, "General" Shields who was an interested spectator, cried out: "Tell us why you changed your vote on the Putnam matter." But the commissioner didn't come back with the answer whereupon the crowd lost all interest in his remarks. Straws show how the wind is blowing.

"I Did; You Didn't"

This controversy between J. Joseph O'Connor and Congressman Rogers, while quite amusing to those who understand it thoroughly, is hardly worth the energy that both candidates are wasting on it. Had Mr. O'Connor in his original statement declared that Congressman Rogers "had not voted for" the proposition to appropriate money for the protection of children along the canal banks, he would have stated the absolute truth and there would have been no comeback. But he stated that the congressman voted against the proposition, which was inaccurate. Congressman Rogers in reply to Mr. O'Connor, cleverly words his denial, and says: "The records of the common council for 1911 show that the measure was unanimously passed, 24 votes being cast in favor and none against." Thus the reader is impressed with the apparent fact that as the vote was unanimous the congressman must have voted for the proposition. But on second thought he recalls the fact that under the old form of government there were nine wards, each with three members of the common council, making a total membership of 27, and hence a complete unanimous vote should total 27, instead of 24. But the statement of the congressman was correct for on this occasion there were three members absent from the meeting and one of them was John Jacob Rogers himself, who was in Europe or some other equally delightful place at the time, and thus Mr. Rogers did not vote for the proposition. Mr. Rogers in his denial says: Loose statements by a political candidate are to be deplored; false statements abhorred." How about misleading statements, Mr. Congressman? Along with the truth and nothing but the truth, the law requires a third feature, known as the "whole truth."

It was Harry W. J. Howe, then of charity board fame, who originated the idea of having ladders, life preservers, etc., along the canals for the protection of chilren, would-be suicides and all others who should wander too close to the water. Harry enlisted the co-operation of John "Nixey" Coughlin, then a member of the common council, and "Nixey" introduced an order for the appointment of a committee to look into the matter. They looked for opposition on the part of Councilman Rogers because of his father's connection with the Locks and Canals company, and were prepared to meet his opposition by calling attention to the fact that Councilman Rogers himself had spent his childhood days on the banks of the Pawtucket canal, as a resident of Pawtucket street, but had been afforded protection by means of a big fence that enclosed the lower end of the Rogers property, along the canal bank; and he would be asked to give the same protection to the children of the poor that had been given to him in the days of his childhood. But whether or not Mr. Rogers knew what was in store for him, he put the kibosh on it, by voting for the appointment of th committee to look into the canals, or rather to look into the proposition relative to making the canals less dangerous. As large bodies move slowly, it was a couple of months later when the council got around to voting an appropriation for the ladders, etc., and Mr. Rogers was out of the city.

In passing, it might be interesting to note that while Mr. Rogers is waxing eloquent over the wrongs of the mill people in the south, as yet there is nothing suggestive of velvet or clover in the lives of the operatives of the mills in his own district.

Like the Old Days

One man who probably wasn't disturbed in the least over the recent riotous proceedings in the office of the commissioner of streets was Commissioner Morse himself, for the excitement must simply have reminded him of the good old days in Arizona, where the boys lived on excitement and scalps, with the war-whoops of savage redskins to lull them to sleep and the blue canopy of heaven to keep the mosquitoes off them while they wooed the sweetness of slumber. Ah, those were the happy days, when bouncing a paving block on the enemy's head would have been considered only child's play.

As Col. Carmichael once remarked: "And were they real Indians?"
"S-s-s-s-h!"
"Oh, Gee!"

Making the Merrimack Navigable

The board of trade is having a lot of talk, some meetings and an occasional feed, relative to making the Merrimack river navigable but as yet it has overlooked the co-operation of two men who have done more in a practical way to bring about the navigability of our beloved river than all others, and they are Contractor Gow who is at present constructing something for the water department on the boulevard, and former Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett, both of whom certainly deserve places on the board's committee on navigable rivers.

Last year when Commissioner Barrett was running a pipe under the Merrimack river, it was necessary to transport sand across the Aiken street bridge and then into the river bed, by horse-power, the horses often going up to their trunks in water. The method was slow and inconvenient and one day while the commissioner was trying to think up a way to get around the difficulty his attention was attracted to a man in a dory nearby, who was fishing. Calling the boatman to the shore Commissioner Harrett asked him if he would like a job, and he replied affirmatively.

"How much will you charge me for yourself and the dory, to lug sand across the river to where the men are at work?" asked the commissioner.

"Mebbee one dollar an' a half a day," was the answer.

"Your hired," said the commissioner and immediately the boatman went to work and at the end of the day it was learned that he had transported 126 loads of sand while the horses had been delivering 80 loads. The boatman told a few friends that night and when Commissioner Barrett appeared on the scene the following day he found a fleet of dories awaiting him. He hired three of them and from that time forth all sand was transported across the Merrimack which was made navigable for the time being.

And now comes Mr. Gow from Boston, on the boulevard job, who is going to do business on even a greater scale than the former commissioner for he is going to build a scow and carry the sand across the river in wholesale lots. Thus once more is the river made navigable.

Need of Auto Ambulance

The need of an automobile ambulance was clearly and painfully demonstrated at the sad accident at the Vocational school on Monday when but for the kindness of a citizen who was passing in an automobile, the mangled Kenney boy would have been forced to remain unattended and unrelieved, until the arrival of the horse-drawn ambulance with its subsequent slow trip across the city to the hospital. The auto-ambulance is much more needed than the auto patrol-wagon or the auto of the commissioner of streets, or those of the other departments, barring the fire department, but the money for this much-needed improvement was voted by last year's government which fact in itself was sufficient to kill the proposition in the present administration.

And Still They Come

The announcement that Elias McQuade, Jr. had been held up on his own doorsteps last Saturday night, a happening that could not be kept from the public, led to the disclosure of the news of another robbery that occurred in Belvidere a week or more ago but about which nothing had been said until the McQuade incident came out. The thugs are certainly getting bold when they are operating in the mayor's own territory, but then Belvidere appears to be a fairly good place to commit a murder, anyway. On Saturday nights the patrolman who watches the Oaklands route is obliged to come way down to lower East Merrimack street, surely over a mile, during the night, and he can't spread himself over a mile of square territory at one time, not even on Saturday night. The frequency of these holdups, murders and other disquieting happenings has thoroughly alarmed many people and it is said that one of the municipal commissioners has been alarmed to such an extent that he has armed himself with a revolver though there is no record to show that he has secured the necessary permission to carry the weapon.

Westford Street Paving

The residents of Westford street are beginning to awake to the fact that the municipal council has shown poor judgment in putting down heavy and noisy stone paving blocks in a residential street when vitrified wooden blocks such as are being used in other cities would have been much better as they are almost noiseless and would have worn as well as the stone blocks. An engineer of national prominence is authority for the claim that vitrified wooden blocks properly laid will outwear granite blocks on streets of moderate travel such as prevails on Westford street. The wooden blocks are almost noiseless and are just the thing for residential streets. They are not furnished by the Hildreth or any other granite company, though that fact wouldn't necessarily operate against them. Then again, judging from recent happenings they would be a much safer block to keep around the office of the street commissioner than the granite article. It might be added, too, that there are a lot of wooden blocks walking around in Lowell, which if corralled would be of more use in the streets than on the sidewalks.

SHOOTING IN STREETS

A SERIOUS REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK OCCURRED IN PORT AU PRINCE LAST NIGHT

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 29.—A serious revolutionary outbreak occurred in Port Au Prince last night as a result of the landing of Charles Zamour, a brother of the president of the republic. There was shooting in the streets of the city throughout the night and the encounters continued today. The members of the ministry have taken refuge in the foreign consulates.

SHOOTING IN HAZING UPHELD

Grand Jury to Take No Action Against Students of St. John's

"Freshies" Can Use Weapons to Defend Themselves

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 29.—That under class men may defend themselves against hazers with deadly weapons and even take life without incurring any punishment is the principle of the unwritten law established by the grand jury for Anne Arundel county. Yesterday it notified the court that it would not present the five students of St. John's college who were concerned in the shooting of William R. Bowlus, who tried to force their door for the purpose of hazing them last May.

One of the five shot through the door, inflicting the wound upon Bowlus from which he died.

The jury was composed of 23 members and it was unanimous that no action should be taken against the under-class men, four of whom are still students at the college.

The bond of $1500 under which they were held has been released.

COMING TO LOWELL FROM WEST, BUT ACTED STRANGELY IN WORCESTER DEPOT

WORCESTER, Oct. 29.—With $840 in gold on his person, John J. De Aguiar became deranged at the Union station last night, as he was passing through the city, and is at the City hospital awaiting the arrival of Joseph De Aguiar of Lowell, his brother.

The man at the hospital was on his way from Crockett county, Calif., to Lowell, and had to make his last change of trains in Worcester. He missed his train and was wandering around the station aimlessly and complaining that a gang was after his money. The police were notified and took him in charge. He was unable to talk intelligently of himself. A leather money bag was found on the calf of each of his legs, each containing 21 $20 gold pieces.

Joseph De Aguiar, a Lowell storekeeper, called the police here seeking news of his brother and will come here after him.

CENTRALVILLE M. E. CHURCH

The harvest supper and entertainment at the Centralville M. E. church last evening was largely attended. The supper was much enjoyed. The entertainment, with Mr. Edward Leith as pianist and chairman of committee, consisted of the kitchen orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Chas. Thomas and Mr. Fred Timmins, from the Highland M. E. church. The instruments consisted of all kinds of kitchen material with the zylo attached and each member of the orchestra was gowned in the kitchen apron and cap. The music, though weird, caused much merriment among the audience. Mr. Timmins, bass xylo solo, "Asleep in the Deep," and his funny stories were the hits of the evening. Miss Grace Kendrick sang in a charming manner two beautiful solos. The orchestra played several selections during the entertainment, which ended with the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." The orchestra numbered 20 pieces. The supper was under the direction of the Ladies' Aid of the church.

HOW ARE YOUR TEETH?

Old Dame Nature did her very best to endow you with good teeth. This all-wise creature which governs all humanity fully realized that there were no more important organs in the entire system.

Possibly through illness, or possibly neglect, your teeth are gradually losing their usefulness and surely their attractiveness.

Take advantage of the situation before it is too late. Face yourself in a mirror. Be frank with yourself. Don't waver. Isn't it really embarrassing to you and surely to your friends to appear in company with foul breath and discolored teeth?

Wouldn't it be an investment that would yield a hundredfold dividend to come to me and have your teeth examined; to know the honest, unvarnished truth of the case?

At the most, the cost of putting your teeth in perfect condition would be moderate, and possibly it would be most trivial. Surely my charges would be the very lowest in this city for good work.

GARRISON URGES MASS. TO BACK PRES. WILSON

Secretary of War Says Republicans are Snipers Without Issues—Olney Says Lowering of Wilson's Prestige Would be a Calamity—Gov. Walsh Speaks

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 25.—Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, speaking with Gov. Walsh at a mammoth democratic rally in the Auditorium last night, urged Massachusetts to reelect its democratic state officials, whose defeat, he said, would be heralded as a defeat of the president and the principles for which he and the democratic party stands.

He read a letter written by Hon. Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey, in which the ex-secretary of state said that "to weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people would be a calamity."

Other speakers were Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York; Lieut. Gov. Barry and Prof. Edward M. Lewis, candidate for congress.

These, with other state and local candidates, also spoke at rallies in Holyoke, Northampton and Eastampton, and Sec. Garrison spoke in Holyoke, where the audience numbered 1000.

"Unorganized Snipers"

In his speech here, Sec. Garrison said the republican party had no definite program "and our antlered opponent has apparently gone off in search of a sequestered salt lick."

He referred to the republicans and the progressives as "unorganized snipers taking pot shots from ambush and cover."

"With respect to conditions existing in this country before the war broke out in Europe," he said, "they know that many of the things of which they complain were beyond the control of any part or of any administration in this country, and that many other conditions were those which they had created—not we—and which we, not they, were trying to correct.

"Since the war broke out they attempt to attribute the consequences which inevitably fell upon this country to the party in power. They know and you know that this charge is the product of partisan ingenuity. It is without basis or merit and need not be dwelt upon.

Sec. Garrison said that one striking result of the war was the way it had served to "cast into bold relief the masterful figure of the president. Against its lurid background his calm, patient, sagacious, self-controlled and controlling figure stands out like the Washington monument against the sky."

Referring to the critics of the president, he said:

"Their whole campaign is one of whispers and nods and innuendo. They speak slightingly of the president's handling—but do not say what would have been right. They know that it preserved peace—were they for war? Ask them, and they stand mute.

"And so with the tariff bill. If any one thing is clear and is true it is that the American people wanted the tariff duties reduced. The republican party promised to reduce them and broke its promise. The democratic party promised to reduce them and kept its promise. The republicans wink and nod and shrug, but fail to tell us what they would do."

"If by your votes," continued Sec. Garrison, "you discredit President Wilson and the democratic party you thereby publicly advertise that you don't want honest-minded, hard-working representatives, who strive to ascertain the public will and to enforce it."

Letter From Richard Olney

Sec. Garrison indorsed the local candidates, and then read a letter from Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey regarding President Wilson's administration, which was, in part, as follows:

"Personally, I have been immensely impressed with what has been done in so short a space.

"A high protective antiquated tariff, for example, full of absurdities and abuses, has been subjected to a reasonable downward revision, has been supplemented by an income tax, which puts upon wealth a larger and fairer share of the burdens of taxation, and signalizes the passing, never to return, of such legislative crudities and extravagances of the Dingley bill and the Payne-Aldrich bill.

"The federal reserve bill inaugurates a new era in the financial history of the country, and in the judgment of bankers, business men, and experts generally will gradually but surely do away with the confusion and chaos which have heretofore disgraced American finance.

"The trust legislation and the Alaska railroad bill also embody legislation which may fitly be described as essentially constructive. It is not claimed, it is not to be claimed, that these measures, or any of them, are the last words on the subjects they relate to. At this very writing the federal reserve act, studied by statesmen and experts of all parties with the utmost diligence and enacted with as much deliberation and care as any statute ever had, is before congress for amendments believed to be necessary and proper.

President a World Asset

"It is to be remembered that these measures represent a new order of things. They have been brought about in the face of fierce opposition by the lovers of the old order and no doubt embody more or less unavoidable, even is undesirable, compromises and concessions. Yet, when all is said, they at least make good beginnings, are steps in the right direction, and are faulty, if at all, rather in matter of detail than in point of sound principle.

"If the democratic party showed great sagacity in picking Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, it has shown no less in trusting itself to his leadership. It was that trust which brought about the repeal of the "Panama Canal tolls exemption" through the votes of many congressmen who honestly doubted the justice and wisdom of the repeal. They now unquestionably plume themselves upon their action.

"They now unquestionably realize that, because of that repeal of the president's Mexican policy, and because of the good faith, sincerity, disinterestedness and law-abidingness which mark the president's course in both these cases, the United States today occupies a position of supreme importance in the world. It is the one great power not party to the awful carnage which is now desolating Europe and making modern civilization seem a sham and a reproach. It acts in foreign relations through its president and is the one agency through which ending the war can be urged upon the belligerents with the best chance of a hearing.

"To weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people, would be a calamity. At this juncture, and until discredited by some overt act of the American people, the president of the United States is not a democratic asset merely, nor even an American asset, but an asset of the civilized world. It is due to ourselves, to the unhappy warring nations, and to humanity generally, that we do nothing to impair its value."

Gov. Walsh on Health Board

Gov. Walsh in his speeches here and at Northampton and Holyoke said in part:

"In our own state for five years past there has been an energetic effort by public-spirited men interested in this great problem to secure an efficient and responsible state health department.

"It ought not to be necessary to emphasize the importance of this great problem, but in this state in 1912, out of a total of 52,250 deaths, there were 10,360 deaths of children under one year. I wonder if our people realize that 117 children out of every 1000 in Massachusetts die in their first year.

"There are 6000 deaths each year in Massachusetts from tuberculosis, and the expense for the 6000 persons dying from tuberculosis every year in their sickness and loss of wages amount to more than $25,000,000, practically the whole burden being borne by the poor.

"Massachusetts has four times as many deaths from typhoid, proportionately to population, as the city of London.

"The cost of living investigation in 1910 showed that this commonwealth paid for preventable death and serious illness in the year 1908 $52,137,112, and it was shown that 120,000 are estimated constantly to be sick in the commonwealth, one-half of which illness is preventable.

"It was with a knowledge of these sad facts and with the realization that our state health administration system was inadequate to the needs of our people that I called upon the legislature in my inaugural for the enactment of legislation to provide for a paid health commissioner.

"I regret to say that some republican legislative leaders were so blind to the necessities of the situation or so narrow in their partisanship as to attempt to defeat the measure in the closing hours of the legislative session. But despite their efforts the law was placed upon the statute books and I have secured as health commissioner one of the most experienced and best known health authorities in the country, whose duty and experience are based upon years of active service, both in the United States and Europe.

"He is to assume office within a few days and I shall then name the advisory council which is to co-operate with him in this the greatest work to which the agencies of the state can be directed.

"I would be content to rest my whole claim for re-election upon the usefulness and importance of this great reform in our state health administration."

Atty.-Gen. Thomas J. Boynton said in part:

"Democrats are often taunted with the question as to what they have done to reduce the cost of living.

"At the outbreak of the great European war the monopolies in control of various food products saw in that war a ready excuse for a substantial advance in prices. Such an advance would have been as was planned, purely artificial and unjustifiable.

"But, foreseeing this move, I at once detailed Asst. Atty. Gen. Seagrave to make a thorough investigation.

BERLIN ADMITS DEFEAT BY RUSSIANS IN POLAND

London Says the Invasion of Russia Seems Definitely Checked and the Czar's Victory There is Expected to Seriously Affect the Austrian Attempt to Recapture Galicia

BERLIN, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 29.—The German and Austrian troops in Poland, according to an official announcement issued in Berlin yesterday, have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian forces advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novogeorgievsk after having repulsed all former Russian attacks.

"At first the Russians did not follow and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. The reserve troops will change their formation according to the situation."

DEFEAT OF GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN POLAND IN SEVEN DAYS' BATTLE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Defeat has overtaken the main German and Austrian army in Poland, in a struggle that approaches the magnitude of a decisive battle.

The invasion of Russia seems definitely checked and the czar's victory there is expected to seriously affect the Austrian attempt to recapture Galicia.

After days of fighting before Warsaw and Ivangorod and along the Vistula river, the teutonic allies found they had run against an impenetrable line of defense. In this situation they were assailed by overwhelming numbers of Russians. The battle lasted more than a week before the Germans gave way and began a retreat toward Silesia.

KING GEORGE'S COUSIN WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

Prince Maurice of Battenberg the First Member of British Royal Family to be Killed in Present War—Recently Commended by General French

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Maurice of Battenberg, a cousin of King George and a son of Princess Henry of Battenberg, has been killed in battle in France. He was an officer of the king's royal rifle corps.

Prince Maurice was the first member of the British royal family to be killed in the present war. It was reported that the prince was not actually killed on the field of battle, but that he died afterward from wounds received in an engagement. King George and Queen Mary visited Kensington palace yesterday afternoon to condole with Princess Henry, his mother.

Two brothers of Prince Maurice also went to the front, Lieut. Prince Alexander of the Royal Grenadier Guards and Lieut. Prince Leopold of the king's royal rifle corps. Prince Leopold was invalided home recently suffering from an injury to his knee, the result of a fall.

Prince Henry of Battenberg, father of the three princes, died from typhoid fever while on service in the Ashanti.

Prince Maurice Victor Donald of Battenberg was the youngest son of Prince Henry of Battenberg, who married Princess Beatrice, a sister of the late King Edward. The prince was the brother-in-law of the king of Spain.

He was 23 years old and since 1911 had been a second lieutenant in the king's royal rifle corps. Field Marshal Sir John French, the commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary force in France, in his report to Minister of War Kitchener, given out on Oct. 10, mentioned the prince for meritorious service in the field.

Many of the trade unionists are favorable to J. Joseph O'Connor's candidacy for congress and are working hard to put their man in.

Daniel Coughlin of the shoe department at the A. G. Pollard store has returned to work after being confined to his home for several days with a severe cold.

Walter Sidell of the wholesale department at the A. G. Pollard store recently purchased an apple orchard in Methuen and intends to spend much time next year developing it.

Eugene Dean of the Saco-Lowell shops is hard at work rehearsing for the coming St. Patrick's minstrel show to be held in Associate hall. Eugie is an end man, and they do say his witticisms will surely catch on with the crowd.

Messrs. Paul Chappelle and Harold Welcome, clerks at the Saco-Lowell shops returned last Saturday evening after having spent the day in the woods around Wilmington on a hunting expedition. They secured four pheasants, two apiece, six partridges and two grey squirrels. Pretty good for a couple of amateurs.

Mr. Glen Barstow, manager of the A. & P. store in Merrimack street, is one of Lowell's many optimistic business men who never sidestep the chance to give the fair name of the city a boost. While in Providence recently he made a remarkable impression in expressing his views on the City of Spindles.

Carpenters' Meeting

The members of the Carpenters' union, local 1610, held a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting last evening in the union headquarters in the Runels building and a grist of important business was transacted. Three new members were admitted and one application received and turned over to the investigating committee who will submit a report at the next meeting to be held next Wednesday evening. Communications from various sources were read and properly referred and committee reports of much import were favorably acted upon. Several of the members spoke interestingly and instructively on the good of the union and their remarks were listened to with much attention. The secretary's report showed the union to be in a strong financial condition, and for this time of year a good share of the members steadily employed.

Halloween Party

Tomorrow night promises to be the banner night for the employed of the J. L. Challoux store in Merrimack square, the occasion being the annual Halloween party which will be held in the North Chelmsford town hall. Every clerk will attend and the majority will dress grotesquely for the affair. Ducking for apples and other kindred games will of course hold the boards in the early part of the evening, after which dancing will be enjoyed to the strains of one of Lowell's leading orchestras. Mr. N. Walker has charge of the arrangements.

Decrease in Child Labor

Child labor is decreasing so rapidly in the United States that it soon will cease to be a matter of reproach. The census bureau, within the last week, has issued reports showing the number of children between the ages of 10 and 15 years engaged in gainful occupations in four of the great manufacturing cities of the country in the years 1900 and 1910. The cities are Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland. In 1900 there were 50,711 children between 10 and 15 years old at work in those cities. In 1910 the number had decreased to 39,810. Meantime the population of those cities had increased 731,963, or from 3,116,775 to 3,898,741. In other words, despite a gain of 23 per cent. in population there was a reduction of more than 20 per cent. in the actual number of children employed in those four cities and they probably represent the situation throughout the nation.

Mill News

The Valley Falls company, Albion, R. I., have been making various improvements around their mills in order to add to the attractiveness of their appearance. The company is running full time with a full complement of help on a line of fine lawns.

The silk mills of Cheney Brothers, South Manchester, Conn., have placed an order for a number of silk spinning machines with the H. & B. American Machine company, of Pawtucket, R. I.

The Stark mills, Manchester, N. H., have had great demands on their duck and canvas departments on account of the war. The heaviest quality of canvas manufactured, suitable for tents, stretchers, etc., is wanted. Towels and toweling are also in big demand. The company have recently shipped to New York for final manufacture three big carloads of towel material. This will be turned into single towels at that point and rushed as fast as possible to England. Meantime about 10,000 dozen more towels are being made here as fast as possible to be shipped direct to the same market. As a result of this increased demand the duck, canvas and toweling departments of the Stark company are working to their fullest capacity with the greatest quota of operatives that the machinery and buildings will accommodate, which has not been the case in this particular branch for a number of years. All the surplus stock manufactured in recent months and in the storehouses has been cleaned out. It is not altogether improbable that the increased and increasing demand for the class of goods referred to may be met in the near future by an increase in the canvas, duck and toweling machinery, with the necessary additional operatives to run it.

General Labor Notes

Of the 80,000 women workers of New York state belonging to trade unions, all but 6816 are in Greater New York.

There was $550 contributed by four residents of Connecticut, as follows: Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin, $250; Congressman Donovan, $100; Congressman Reilly, $100; Augustine Lonergan, Hartford, $100.

The total amount collected was $57,316.46, of which $20,252.67 remains on hand.

TEST CASE ON CLAM DIGGING

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—A test case involving a question of the validity of the rule of the state board of health forbidding the digging of clams in certain sections will go to the supreme court on exceptions taken yesterday in the superior criminal court at the trial of William Walsh, a clam digger, charged with violating the order of the state board.

A jury before Judge Quinn found the defendant guilty, the court having decided adversely on requests for rulings made by the defendant, who contends that the state board exceeded its powers in making such an order.

Clam diggers are anxious to have the court determine the issue. They contend that the description of the bounds of contaminated waters in which the digging of clams is prohibited is not reasonably made.

MISS CARSON SURPRISED

A very pleasant surprise party was held when Miss Ella Carson was surprised at her home, 49 Marginal street, by about 50 intimate friends. The young lady was presented a beautiful locket and chain, the presentation speech being made by Miss Charlotte Flannigan. Although taken by surprise, Miss Carson responded in a graceful manner. Refreshments were served.

BROTHER WAS DEAD

WOMAN GOES TO DOOR EXPECTING HIM, BUT IT WAS POLICEMAN WITH MESSAGE

HAVERHILL, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth Paradis of 484 Washington street expected her brother, John McDonald, to return home yesterday from an apple picking trip to New York state. When she went to the door to greet him she met Inspector Hussey of the police with a message that her brother had been killed at Rochester, N. Y., Monday night, by slipping beneath the wheels of the train upon which he intended to come back to Haverhill.

Mrs. Paradis requested Coroner Killip at Rochester to send the body back to her home. McDonald was 37 years old and unmarried.

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES FRIDAY

Tomorrow's Sun Will Contain the "Quarter Century" Article and Other Bright Special Discussions

The Old Timer holds forth on some interesting early Catholic history of Lowell, dating back to Indian days, and shows what Lowell societies were doing quarter of a century ago. Many well known people appeared in a grand bazaar in aid of the Young Women's Home, the predecessor of the present Ayer Home.

The girls who are prevented from wearing short sleeves because of unsightly arm blemishes, rough appearing elbows, scaly skin, etc., will be interested in the discussion of the "Beauty of the Arms," appearing under the caption, "The Rabbit's Foot" tomorrow in The Sun. Various means of doing away with dead skin and generally beautifying the arms will be described, as will methods of preventing arm blemishes.

"I want to fix my room over for the winter, Marie," remarked Majorie to the French Maid. Marjorie sought a change from the summer outfit. Whereupon Marie has given valuable suggestions for furnishing, decorating and generally adding to the attractiveness and cosiness of the bedroom. Marie's ideas will be given in The Sun Friday in "What the French Maid Said."

"The Last Rose" is the title of the little "Sleepytime Tale" which parents may read to the little ones from Friday's Sun. It tells how the last rose helped and cheered a poor little sick girl through the aid of the fairies.

An interesting suburban article will also be included in the list of tomorrow's Sun features.

TO INCREASE FREIGHT RATES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Oral arguments for and against the application of eastern railroads for a general advance in freight rates began today before the inter-state commerce commission. The arguments may be concluded today or tomorrow and the commission is expected to take up the case at the November conference for an early decision.

BRUSH FIRE IN PAWTUCKETVILLE

A New Principle in Complexion Treatment

Most creams are injurious when used habitually. They clog the pores and eventually form a permanent, soggy, stifling film which interferes with eliminative action and makes the skin sickly and pasty. There is an application—mercolized wax—which acts upon an entirely different principle. While perfectly harmless, it has the peculiar property of removing by absorption the dead and half-dead particles of scarf-skin, as well as unhealthy matter in the pores. Thus it takes away from instead of adding to the complexion, differing in this respect from cosmetics. The result is a perfectly natural and healthy young complexion. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

The correct principle in the treatment of wrinkles is to tighten the skin, which naturally irons out the lines. A face bath, remarkably effective in this direction, may be made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

Special Meeting to Take Action on Death of James J. Gray—Tribute by William P. Peters

A special meeting of the New England league will be called to take action on the death of James J. Gray. A delegation of baseball men attended the funeral today.

Tribute by Billy Peters

William P. Peters, sporting editor of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and official scorer of the New England league pays the following tribute to the late James J. Gray:

In the passing of James J. Gray, late manager and part owner of the Lowell baseball team, the game suffers a great loss. "Jimmy" Gray was a successful baseball manager. He showed his capabilities earlier in life when he ran a professional basketball team and it was a big winner. He wasn't long in baseball before he duplicated his basketball experience.

Gray was only a little over five seasons at the helm in Lowell, but in that time he piloted two championship ball clubs—in 1911 and 1913. Many considered his 1913 team the strongest aggregation ever gathered together in the New England league. In 1912 when Lawrence won the pennant, Gray's club was right on the heels of the locals until the last week of the season. In four of the five full seasons which Gray spent in the league, he finished in the first division in four—a most creditable performance when it is recalled that Gray was not a paying manager and neither had he experience as a player.

Gray was no tightwad. He was always willing to go the full limit for players, every one of whom have only praise for the way in which he treated them. Gray was liberal in all senses. He "dug" deep for many things which later on inflicted a sting.

He was often imposed upon on account of his open pocketbook and his good nature, but he never complained. He took his medicine like a man. "Jimmy" Gray was a good sport and on the level all the time. He liked sport for sport's sake, and he has proven time and again, when although he suffered financial losses, he kept his word with the Lowell public. Gray always refused to transfer games even though he were sure that he would gain much financially by so doing. He was loyal to the Lowell fans and the one regret is that they sometimes did not give him as much support and encouragement as he deserved.

"Jimmy" Gray was Lawrence's rival, but from our point of view we unhesitatingly say that no better, squarer or gamer opponent lived than he. He took no undue advantages, fought his hardest and then if he lost out, he was the first to extend the hand. In 1912, when Lawrence beat out Lowell in a close race, the night that the championship was settled the first telegram to reach Louis P. Pieper was from James J. Gray and it read: "Did everything to beat you but failed. Accept my congratulations." Deep in the hearts of local fandom there was a warm spot ever for Gray.

It will be a long time before the New England league replaces Jimmy Gray. The league was the better for his coming into it. His sole thought at all times was to do something that would push the league forward and if everybody did as much as he did the league would be much stronger than it is today.

"Jimmy" Gray's life was not wasted. He left behind a record which all might profitably follow. That applies not alone to baseball but to his life as a son and brother and as a citizen of Lowell. He was a dutiful son and his care of an aged father will bear testimony of this. In fact, Jimmy Gray had so many good traits that it is hard to enumerate them all. This much can be truthfully said—he had few bad traits and no enemies. None had but words of praise for him who has now been called to the great beyond. Peace to e ashes of James J. Gray—a credit to all

Deal on With Lawrence

"Allie" Moulton, the second baseman of the Lynn New England league team for the last two years, will not wear a Lynn uniform next year under Manager Louis Pieper. This is the story that comes from Lawrence.

Pieper has started work and a big trade is now in the air between the Lynn and Lawrence clubs. The new manager passed up all connections with the Lawrence team yesterday. He resigned the presidency and Dan Noonan was elected to succeed him. Noonan and Sullivan are now the only stockholders of the Lawrence club, although a certain Mr. Quinn of New York is said to own one of Noonan's shares.

"Mike" Lynch and Harry Aubrey, the star veterans who aided Lawrence to win the pennant last season, were given their unconditional releases yesterday.

Although it was impossible to verify the story of a proposed trade between the two clubs today, the chances are that the deal will go through. Three Lynn players are going to Lawrence in exchange for three of the champions. "Allie" Moulton's name is the only one mentioned thus far.

Lynch, "Larry" Mahoney and either Conley, O'Donnell or "Del" Howard will come here. The other two Lynn men have not been mentioned.

Manager Louis Pieper admitted this yesterday afternoon at Lawrence, although he would not announce the names of the players in the deal. It is a well known fact that Moulton is considered one of the premier second sackers in the circuit but it costs real money for his services and this is said to be the reason that he is to go to Lawrence.

It was impossible to get President Eugene B. Fraser this morning in an effort to verify the story to this end. Pieper is anxious to put on a winner this season, but it is impossible to state if the going of Moulton will make a hit. "Allie" is one of the most popular players who ever wore a Lynn uniform but it is a cinch that if Mahoney is brought here Moulton will have to go. It is impossible to even guess the other men who will go. Perhaps they will not go as Lynch is a free agent and can sign a Lynn contract if he wishes. In order to get Mahoney and one other man, however, Lynn will be forced to give up two men in return.

Pieper is now ready to give all his time to the Lynn club. He bid all his friends in Lawrence goodby yesterday and told them that he would be back with the best team in the New England league next season.

The Lynn manager has secured a house in Swampscott. He secured this yesterday and will bring his family, composed of his wife and three children, to Swampscott immediately, where he will spend the winter.—Lynn News.

CANNONADING HEARD

C. Cs. DEFEAT SUN ARMY

Amid the crash of duckpins and the booming of the heavy bowling artillery of Kittredge's alleys yesterday afternoon, the Sun's battalion of fusileers strove desperately to withstand the onslaught of the Courier-Citizen phalans, but—like the allies in the early set-tos across the pond—were obliged to give ground. After the last subaltern had left the trenches and the ambulance corps had completed its ministrations, it was found that the Courier-Citizen forces had battered down twelve hundred and ninety pins; while the volunteers from across the Meuse, pardon, the square, had dented the wooden phalanx for a total of twelve hundred and fifty hickerites.

Throughout the engagement, Sharpshooter Woodies of the C. Cs. delivered a withering fire, dropping 290 of the wooden boys. For The Sun, Colonel McCurdy had the accuracy of a Kentucky marksman, leading his team with an aggregate of 266.

This was the only scoring of the game, and the final score stood 6 to 0.

LOWELL BOXER AWARDED VERDICT OVER YOUNG CHAKAS AT MANCHESTER, N. H.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Young Chakas of Manchester lost to Phinney Boyle of Lowell in the feature bout of 12 rounds before the McElwain A. C. last night. The decision was not a popular one, a majority being of the opinion that the local boxer had a shade the better of the bout. In the semifinals Young Labore of Manchester knocked out Young Lorenzo of Boston in the second round and in the preliminary, Young Nelson of Manchester won from Young Burns of Hillsboro.

ARE READY FOR BATTLE

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN TEAM IN BOSTON TO PLAY HARVARD SATURDAY

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 29.—The university of Michigan football team ready to tackle Harvard Saturday in the first big game of the season in the stadium was due to arrive in Boston this noon. It was planned to have the players go at once to Auburndale, where they will have their headquarters. Although an offer of the use of the Waltham high school grounds for practice this afternoon awaited them it was expected that Coach Yost would give his men no work today other than a tramp and run over the suburban roads and field.

Crimson supporters encouraged by the return to practice of several of the regulars recently injured expressed enthusiasm over the drop kicking ability shown by Mahan yesterday. They were hopeful that his work Saturday would partly atone for the absence of Captain Brickley.

The first mass meeting for the Harvard team will be held tonight, when the students will practice songs and cheers.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

A few of Gilmore's promised four surprises are expected to develop during the meeting in Chicago, says a New York paper. Smart baseball men among them some of the major league club owners, have diagnosed one surprise as the desertion of Walter Johnson.

It has been learned that Johnson has exhausted the patience of Clark Griffith. In spite of the fact that the peerless Walter had his first poor season in 1914 he evidently wishes the earth as terms for a 1915 contract. Griffith came to a parting of the ways with the big fellow at the close of the season, it is said. The Old Fox offered Walter $15,000 for next year and was laughed at for his generosity. Griffith says he will go no higher. The Wards are said to have offered Johnson $75,000 for three years.

Organized ball will not countenance such salaries, which would mean bankruptcy. It would not be surprising if men of Walter Johnson's renown are allowed to go to the Federals if the outlaws are willing to pay such fabulous salaries. There would be no surer way of discouraging the independent enterprise than saddling it with such heavy financial burdens. The major league club presidents, it is said, have determined not to go far beyond the safety zone even to retain those few idols who are free from all obligations save the reserve clause.

A story from St. Louis said that Fielder Jones had taken a pocketful of Fed cash and set out for Coffeyville, Kan., Johnson's home, to sign the big pitcher.

Jack Doyle, now scouting for the White Sox, was a catcher before he was a first baseman and he caught the renowned Amos Rusie. He therefore spoke with authority when he descanted on the relative ability of Rusie and the greatest modern speed merchant, Walter Johnson.

"Johnson's fast ball is faster than Rusie's," said Doyle, "yet Amos had a faster and wickeder curve. But in holding Rusie and Johnson up to view as the speediest pitchers, there's one bygone pitcher who is overlooked. I mean Charley Nichols. Though not as fast as Rusie or Johnson he was good and fast, and his speed was all the more effective because sent up with an easy motion.

"Nichols was the best pitcher I ever saw to take another pitcher's game, and for that reason there never was another pitcher who was more valuable to his team than he was to the Bostons. By taking over another pitcher's game I mean going in when that other pitcher was in bad, and he could do that effectively even if he had pitched the day before. There haven't been any more useful pitchers than Nick."

One of the oddities of the present baseball season arose in a Federal league game between the St. Louis and Pittsburgh teams. Larue Kirby of St. Louis batted out of turn. The bases were filled and Kirby cleared them with a long hit. The opposing captain was "wise," and when he appealed to the umpire the official called out the man who should have batted, which is according to rule. The runners had to go back and Kirby had to bat over. All he did was to make another solid hit, drive in runs again and win the game.

The boxers will appear in gymnasium suits and show the women just what a real boxing match is like. An orchestra will be engaged for the afternoon.

WOOL INDUSTRY

Adams Firm's Receivers See Bright Future Ahead

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Edwin K. McPeek and George B. Holden, receivers of the Adams Woolen company of Adams, filed a report in the United States court yesterday. The indebtedness amounts to $14,915.23, of which $10,076.79 is accounts payable to 130 creditors and $5828.41 bills payable.

The receivers believe that it is possible with the present condition of the woolen business, and the bright outlook for the immediate future, to pay eventually the creditors dollar for dollar. They have been running the plant four and a half months, having taken it without any cash on hand and made a profit of $7625.29.

WITH ROGER SULLIVAN

Candidacy of Illinois Man Endorsed By the Administration at Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson considers the endorsement given to the candidacy of Roger Sullivan in Illinois by Postmaster-General Burleson as sufficient and will not write a letter endorsing Mr. Sullivan as he has to some other candidates. That was stated today authoritatively. Mr. Burleson, with the consent of the president, said in a speech at Peoria, Ill., recently that the administration was for Mr. Sullivan. Secretary Bryan was opposed to the nomination of Sullivan.

Chairman McCombs, chairman of the democratic national committee, and some other leaders have come out openly for him.

CANNOT REMOVE BODY

COURT DECIDES DANIEL E. WATSON CANNOT TAKE BODY OF WIFE FROM HER FATHER'S LOT

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Daniel E. Watson loses his suit against his father-in-law, Charles E. Colbert, for an injunction to restrain the latter from interfering with his removing the body of his wife from a lot owned by the father to one recently purchased by him in Holyhood cemetery.

Both families are well known and the controversy over the remains of Mrs. Watson has excited interest among their acquaintances.

Judge Jenney, in the equity session of the superior court, yesterday dismissed the bill brought by Watson. He heard the case last week. Watson alleged he arranged, at the urgent request of his father-in-law, to allow the body to be buried temporarily in the Colbert family lot. The defendant contended that no suggestion of temporary burial was made.

"The funeral arrangements were made immediately after the death and under grief," said Judge Jenney in his decision. "I do not believe either side has intended to mislead the court. I am inclined to believe the plaintiff did not understand the legal effect of what he did.

"However, taking all the evidence into consideration and considering also the fact that when a temporary interment is intended the body is usually deposited in a receiving tomb, I find that the arrangements for the burial were not of a temporary character, and that the plaintiff surrendered the privilege of her burial to her father."

DESTROYER ON SANDBAR

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 29.—The destroyer Paulding ran on a sandbar at Lambert's Point channel early today. Her crew is said aboard but they will soon be transferred to the naval station here. The vessel is not badly hurt and the ship is said to be in no danger.

SWISS AMERICANS LOYALLY ANSWER CALL FOR AID OF FELLOW COUNTRYMEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Swiss Americans in the United States have loyally answered the call for aid of their fellow countrymen who are innocent sufferers from the effects of the war. Eighty-one thousand dollars already has been contributed to the relief fund collected by the Swiss minister, Dr. Paul Ritter.

The money has been deposited in New York banks to the credit of the Swiss bundesrat (federal council) to be drawn upon by them and administered as they see fit.

Trade in Switzerland is naturally affected by the war but conditions are steadily improving, it was stated at the legation today, and there seems little possibility that the neutrality of that country will be violated.

NASHUA HAS DEMOCRATIC RALLY

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 29.—Congressman Raymond B. Stevens of New Hampshire and United States Senator Charles F. Johnson of Maine were the chief speakers at a democratic rally which filled city hall last night. Albert W. Noone, candidate for governor, and Timothy F. O'Connor, candidate for county solicitor, gave brief talks.

Congressman Stevens devoted much of his time to the record of Senator Gallinger, whom he declared had voted on the side of the special interests on every measure during his 28 years in the senate.

REINFORCEMENTS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Several carloads of reinforcements for Governor Maytorena at Nogales, Sonora, are expected hourly to arrive from Ensenada, according to a report to the war department today from Brigadier General Bliss. The reinforcements are understood to include 170 men, 37 mules and 16 mountain guns. The situation at Naco is reported unchanged. The Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta is being reinforced from Naco.

BANKS WARNED

To Pay in Gold in Making Transfer to the Federal System

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Notices from the federal reserve board were going forward today to member banks in the new system to use gold or lawful money in making transfers of reserve deposits to the regional institutions. The order also will apply to capital stock subscriptions to reserve banks to be made by the member institutions.

It is aimed to provide the regional banks immediately with money and will permit the ready issue of reserve notes to member institutions. The transfer of reserves will be begun after the secretary of the treasury gives formal notification of the opening of the regional banks, Nov. 16.

"It is the desire of the board, the notice to the banks stated, to arrange for the actual physical transfer of the first instalment in such a manner as to create the least possible disturbance to business conditions in any city or section."

FIFTY MEN SACRIFICED

AIR PUMPS REVERSED IN ROYALTON MINE DISASTER TO SAVE THREE HUNDRED LIVES

ROYALTON, Ill., Oct. 29.—The disaster at the mine of the Franklin Coal and Coke company near here Tuesday from the workings of which 50 bodies have been recovered, was caused by the explosion by a miner's lamp of a pocket of gas located the night before by a mine inspector and marked dangerous.

A large proportion of the dead were sacrificed, it was said yesterday, in order to save the lives of nearly 300 others in more distant workings. Reversal of the air pumps saved 250 miners scattered among the galleries, at the expense of dooming to death those in the zone of the explosion who had escaped being disabled and were trying to reach the air shaft.

Reversal of the pumps kept the main workings free of afterdamp, but most of the dead, it is thought, were thereby forced to become its victims.

These facts were brought out yesterday when the near completion of the work of rescue made investigation possible. The facts regarding the cause of the gas explosion were brought out by members of the state mining board.

Street Work Report

The first definite statement relative to street, sidewalk and sewer work for the year was given out by Mayor Murphy today. The figures did not come from the street department office, but were obtained by the mayor from the city engineer's office. Mayor Murphy said that later on he would prepare a statement including the names of streets operated upon. The streets named in the various appropriations, the amounts appropriated for the different jobs, comparing the work of this year with that of last year.

Amount of Sewer Work

The amount of sewer work done this year, up to Oct. 17, measured 11,093 linear feet, or 2.1 miles. This is exclusive of the Mt. Washington, Upham street, South Wilder street and Lawrence street sewers. The mayor could not state just how much of the total amount appropriated for sewers had been expended, but he said there is no reason why the street department cannot live within its appropriations in all cases.

Graveling and Macadamizing

The number of linear feet of street graveled up to Oct. 19 was 18,217, or 54,651 square yards. The amount of macadamizing done up to Oct. 10 was 47,752.4 square yards. The number of square yards covered with oil up to Oct. 1 was 1,024,966. Four coats were applied, though in the beginning it was stated by Mr. Morse that only one coat a year would be necessary. The first coat covered 533,161.6 square yds.; the second coat, 370,450; the third, 52,556.4, and the fourth, 8168.8 square yds.

Street Paving Work

The amount of paving work done in which grouted paving blocks were used, was as follows: Main street, 996.45 square yards; Gorham street, $977.75, and Westford street, 7304.55 square yards. This amount of work was done up to Oct. 10, and since that time considerable work has been done, of course, in Gorham and Westford streets.

Edgestones and Concrete

The amount of curved edgestone laid up to Oct. 10 was 266 linear feet. The amount of straight edgestone was 2982.2 ft. The number of square yards of concrete sidewalks laid up to Oct. 19 was as follows: Hard concrete, 3367.1 yards; hard topdressing, 1928.6; concrete, 692.8; topdressing, 964.6.

Granolithic Sidewalks

The number of yards of granolithic sidewalks laid up to Oct. 16, was as follows: West side of Wilder street near normal school, 265.2 yards; south side of Broadway near normal school 259.1 yards; south side of Merrimack street, opposite the Y. M. C. A. building, 648.2 square yards.

Registrar of Labor

John C. Gilbert, state registrar of labor, was a caller at city hall this forenoon. The system for the registration of laborers and mechanics in the employ of the city will be installed by Mr. Gilbert in the board of registrars headquarters in the city hall basement on Monday. All of the necessary paraphernalia for the installation of the system is now at city hall. The system includes a great many forms and the mayor's private office is piled high with literature. Some of the forms were printed in Boston, but most of them were printed here. Patrick J. Reynolds will have charge of the bureau in this city and he will let the public know, through the press, when he is ready for business. Mr. Reynolds, though paid by the city, will be in every other sense a state officer.

Bates.

Mr. Bates today announced that he will move for sentence at the January term of the superior court. He sent a letter to Gov. Haines, remonstrating against the granting of the pardon petition, he said.

"A Nautical Knot" will be repeated tomorrow evening so those unable to attend tonight should secure tickets for the second performance.

SING SING INVESTIGATION

SUSPENDED WARDEN NOTIFIES DISTRICT ATTORNEY THAT HE WILL ANSWER QUESTIONS

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 29.—T. J. McCormick, the suspended warden of Sing Sing prison, admitted today that David A. Sullivan, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing prison for the part he played in wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, had frequently been outside the prison on automobile rides. Mr. McCormick's admission was made on the witness stand in the investigation started today by Stephen C. Baldwin of Brooklyn, Gov. Glynn's special commissioner.

McCormick was the first witness called. He testified that Sullivan had been detailed to drive the automobile and that the detail was in line with McCormick's policy of having all work done by prisoners wherever possible.

Only a few questions were asked the witness before the hearing was deferred until this afternoon to await the arrival of District Attorney Cropsey of King's county.

WILLING TO TALK

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—T. J. McCormick, the suspended warden of Sing Sing prison, sent word today to District Attorney Cropsey that he was willing to come down to Brooklyn and answer any questions that the district attorney might ask him. Mr. Cropsey so announced, adding that John J. Molloy, auditor at Sing Sing, now in prison in contempt of court for failure to testify before the grand jury had been instructed by John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons, to tell all he knows.

Before leaving this forenoon for Sing Sing, where he will attend the investigation of prison affairs conducted there by Stephen C. Baldwin, Governor Glynn's special commissioner, District Attorney Cropsey said that the October grand jury would be discharged today as had been anticipated but would continue to take further testimony along the lines of its present investigation. This investigation, Mr. Cropsey said, was undertaken to ascertain if David A. Sullivan, serving a prison sentence in Sing Sing for wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, had been in Kings county recently, and while there had participated in an alleged larceny in connection with the bank's affairs.

Gov. Walsh Will Hold a Public Hearing at the State House Saturday

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—In order to sift the pheasant question in Massachusetts to the bottom, Gov. Walsh has called a special public hearing on the matter at the state house next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The governor states that he has received many communications on both sides of the question and that on Saturday morning he will gladly hear both sides in order that he may be guided in taking proper action.

The opening of the present hunting season on pheasants on Columbus day resulted in 3000 of the birds being killed on that day and since that time the continued killing of the birds has resulted in wide protest.

Claims are made that hundreds of men are shooting illegally in the state and that the pheasant is threatened with extermination. Prominent sportsmen and men high in public life and prominent club women are working hard to put a stop to the slaughter. The hearing should be largely attended.

RENOUNCES JEWISH FAITH

DAUGHTER OF RABBI ELOPES WITH CHAUFFEUR AFTER LEAVING UNUSUAL NOTE FOR FATHER

HAVERHILL, Oct. 29.—Rabbi Samuel Segal, leader of the Jewish congregation in this city, has appealed in vain to the police and the courts to save his eldest daughter, Eva, from a matrimonial alliance with a Gentile. The girl disappeared from her home on Mt. Washington, leaving a note that she will not return and that she has renounced the religion of her people.

John Ryan, a youthful chauffeur, is said to have been concerned in the disappearance of the girl, having driven to her home in an automobile last Friday night.

The Segal girl went to a nearby store and then returned to her home, passing quickly through the house and leaving by the front door, it was said. She gathered up a bundle of clothing, but because she was bareheaded and not dressed for the street her family paid little heed to her. Later they discovered she was not in her room and she has not been heard from since.

No marriage license has been applied for at the city clerk's office, but information came to the police that the girl is still in the city. She was betrothed to her cousin and plans for a betrothal feast have been cancelled.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE

FOR THE LITTLE READERS OF THE SUN

CLEVER KITTIE

Once upon a time Grace's father brought her home a small kitten. "Something for you to play with," he said as he tossed it into her arms. All that day Grace spent with her new pet. She gave it more milk than the kitten could drink and petted it so much that it grew cross and was not good natured again until Grace tied a string on a spool and hung it where the kitty could play.

First the kitten would hit the spool with its paw and it would swing away and then it would swing again. The kitten never seemed tired of playing with the spool and Grace kept it tied where she could always find it.

One afternoon the kitten could not be found, although Grace looked for it in every place she could think of and she had to go to bed that night without seeing her pet sleeping snugly in her basket.

Early the next morning there was a rap at the door and a man called to her father and said: "Did you know that the electric light in your front room was burning all night and is burning now?"

Her father said: "Why that is funny. No one slept there and I am sure no one has been in lately." Grace said: "I went in yesterday but I didn't light the light and I came right out again."

They opened the door and looked in and what do you think they saw? The light was burning brightly and Grace's kitten was playing with the long swing light, just as she played with the spool Grace had fixed for her.

"Why," said the father, "the kitten must have been playing with the light last night and in doing so turned it on. A pretty expensive kitten for us, isn't it Grace?"

They were all so glad to see the kitten that they forgave her this time and whenever the kitten could not be found after that one of the family would say: "Better look and see if she has turned on the light again," but she never did.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

PULLED FROM BURNING HOUSE BY STRANGER BUT DIED LATER FROM INJURIES

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Little Rose Thomas was dragged from a fire in her home at 14 Chadwick street, Roxbury, yesterday afternoon, by a passing stranger, but not in time to prevent her receiving burns which proved fatal.

The fire was discovered by Miss Hazel Horne of Adams street, who was passing the house. She shouted to Jacob Lewis, who was also passing, and both rushed in, Miss Horne carrying out a baby boy, and Lewis the little girl, whose clothes were afire when he reached her.

The children were playing in the kitchen, when the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Thomas, left the room for a few minutes. It is thought the youngsters started the fire by playing with matches.

SLAYER GETS 20 YEARS

ASSASSIN OF ARCHDUKE AND HIS WIFE SENTENCED—FOUR PLOTTERS TO BE HANGED

SARAJEVO, Bosnia, Oct. 29, via Amsterdam to London.—Judgment was passed yesterday on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg.

Gavrilo Prinzip, the actual assassin, escaped with a sentence of imprisonment for 20 years. Four of the conspirators were sentenced to death by hanging, one to life imprisonment, two, including Medelja Gabrinovic, who threw at the archduke a bomb which did not explode, to 20 years, one to 16 years, one to 13 years, two to 10 years, one to seven years and two to three years.

The other defendants were acquitted.

MOTHER JONES SEES PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson was asked yesterday by "Mother" Jones, the mine strike leader, and James Lord, of the mining department of the American Federation of Labor, to close down the Colorado coal mines, if the operators continue to refuse the federal plan of mediation already accepted by the miners. They also asked the president not to withdraw federal troops until some solution of the labor trouble had been found.

The president listened attentively and said he was earnestly looking for a solution. He is said to be doubtful of his authority to close the mines, but was told that in the opinion of the labor leaders he had the authority to do so.

MATHEWS TO HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

VICE PRES. MARSHALL

SAYS ROOSEVELT SUED THE REPUBLICAN PARTY FOR A DIVORCE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 29.—The only two things in American life today that really count are the right to the pursuit of happiness and the keeping the democratic party in power as the surest safeguard of that happiness," said Vice-President Marshall in an address here last night.

The vice-president referred jocularly to both the republican and the progressive parties.

"I know of the founding of the progressive party," he said. "Theodore Roosevelt sued the republican party of the United States for a divorce on the grounds of non-support. I never was interested in the suit, but I am interested in the welfare of the children—the people of this country."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

Court Wannalancit, M. C. O. F., held their regular meeting last Tuesday evening in St. John's hall, and it is safe to say that seldom has there been such a large gathering of members present at an ordinary session of the court. One of the reasons was that this took the form of a roll call and identification meeting. A large number of members of Court Westford were present as well as some of the officers, including Chief Ranger Clarence Sullivan and Treasurer John A. Healy. Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, chaplain of Court Wannalancit, and Chief Ranger Robert McCarthy of Graniteville and most of the older members of the organization were included in the gathering.

Chief Ranger James P. Daley presided, and a grist of important business was transacted in a very short time. While the court was in session all members present had to respond to their names which were read by the recording secretary, Miss Charlotte Lowe, after which prayers were offered by the chaplain for the deceased members.

After the business session a musical and literary program was enjoyed. Rev. Fr. Schofield gave a very interesting address on the advantages of holding membership in such an organization as the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters and made a decided impression. The program included piano selections by Miss Mary Donnelly and Miss Mary Tucke, and several reading by Miss Veronica Lowe.

A luncheon was also served by the following ladies: Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Henry Miner, Miss Lorrie Ward, Miss Mary Tucke and Miss Margaret Welsh.

The proceedings came to a close shortly after 11 o'clock to enable the Graniteville visitors to leave for their destination on a late car which had been provided through the courtesy of the superintendent of the Lowell & Fitchburg street railway.

The members of the Church Aid society of the Congregational church held their regular weekly meeting in the church parlors this afternoon.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS FOR WINTER LUNCHEONS IN COLONIAL HALL

The preliminary arrangements are now complete for the first of a series of winter luncheons to be held by the Lowell board of trade. The first will be held Wednesday, November 4th, at Colonial hall, Palmer street, beginning at 6:30 p. m., when a buffet luncheon will be served and the speaking will begin about 7:15 p. m.

The topic for the first meeting will be "The War Question and Its Effects Upon This Country."

The principal speaker will be Edwin D. Mead, director-in-chief of the world's peace foundation, who will talk for his subject "War and Peace in 1914." Mr. Mead is probably better qualified to discuss this topic from first hand information than any man in America today. He has just returned from the war zone and is well qualified to discuss the matter in a very interesting and instructive way.

Mr. Roger W. Babson, chief economic engineer of the Babson statistical organization, which furnishes information to the business concerns of the country concerning business prospects will take for his subject "The European Situation and the Results For Which We Should All Hope."

Mr. Babson will discuss this topic from a business standpoint.

Both speakers are known in their respective lines and the meeting is restricted to members only.

The success of this meeting will determine the course of the executive committee in arranging other meetings. It is expected there will be a large attendance of members.

FIGHTING IN EAST AND WEST FAVORS ALLIES

Berlin Admits Defeat in Russian Poland—Pause in German Attacks on Left Wing of Allies While Re-enforcements Rush to Strengthen Lines — Kaiser Orders Troops From East and West to March on Calais

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The German host that so confidently rushed against Warsaw has been smashed by the Russian hordes.

Slowly, but certainly, the last desperate attempts of the Germans and Austrians to hold their lines in southern Poland have been overcome by the tremendous new army corps that have been hurled against them.

Hopeful despatches from Petrograd were at first believed to be over-optimistic, but when the official statement came from Berlin that confirmed the retirement of the Germans and Austrians, it was no longer possible to doubt the Russian messages.

PAUSE IN GERMAN ATTACK ON LEFT WING OF THE ALLIES

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The pause in the German attacks on the left wing of the allies where the Germans have fought furiously in their efforts to march on the French ports of Dunkirk and Calais, is considered here to be only momentary.

Reliable reports are to the effect that heavy reinforcements are on their way and that when the German lines are strengthened by these forces, which are said to aggregate more than 200,000 men, the fighting will go on with renewed fierceness. The reinforcements, it is declared, have been drawn from all the other battle-lines, both in the east and west, in pursuance of the order of Emperor William to his officers that the French ports, particularly Calais, must be taken at all costs.

Although the operations in Flanders have been temporarily at a standstill, the allies on the center and in the south have, according to the official communications, not only resisted the Germans, but have made slight gains.

There was a resumption today of interest in the operations of the Woevre, at least in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, where the French offensive is said to have met with fresh successes.

14TH DAY OF DESPERATE BATTLE OF WEST FLANDERS—LULL YESTERDAY

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The 14th day of the battle of West Flanders, which is being fought over an area hardly greater than a good sized farm in the state of Iowa, found the allies holding their ground to the west of the Yser and the Germans apparently bringing up more reinforcements to repeat their furious attempts to break through and reach the coast of France.

All despatches seem to agree that there was a temporary lull yesterday in the fighting between Nieuport and Ypres, but the reports are far from unanimous as to whether this was due to an armistice to bury the dead and remove the wounded which must thickly cover the field or whether it was caused by the exhaustion of the contending forces or the lack of German ammunition.

The London press hazards all three guesses and contends that at any rate the position of the allies is satisfactory. The public is warned, however, that the struggle in this quarter is not yet over for the Germans if they find the northern route to Dunkirk and Calais impassable may shift to the south with Boulogne as an objective.

It was at Boulogne that Napoleon waited in vain for his troops to embark for England and the taking of this city by the Germans would stir the German people as nothing else could.

Berlin claims that there had been no recent progress in the struggle in Flanders and as if explaining this, says 16 British warships are operating on the coast. This number never has been confirmed from British sources.

There are recurring reports that the Germans are constructing sheds on the Belgian coast for the housing of Zeppelin airships. A local newspaper is offering free insurance against Zeppelins to its subscribers. There is no official confirmation of the reported German invasion of Portuguese West Africa. Holland is still on edge as regards a possible violation of her neutrality. The first boatload of food for Belgium under American supervision left London today.

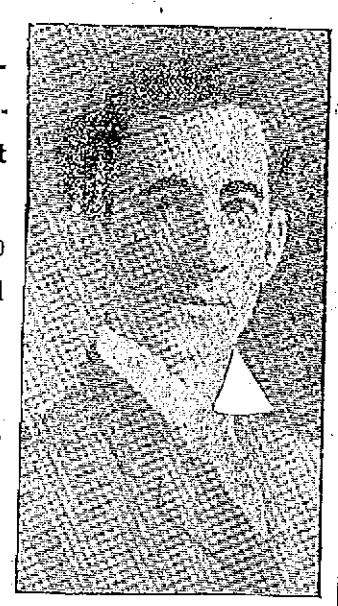
BIG OPEN AIR DEMOCRATIC RALLY

MR. HUMPHREY O'SULLIVAN
Chairman

Greatest Local Demonstration in State Campaign Held Last Night

Crowd of Over 2000 Gathered at City Hall Steps

Lots of Old Time Democratic Enthusiasm—O'Sullivan Presided



HON. JAMES H. VAHEY
One of the Speakers

Despite the fact that a hall was unobtainable, and the night a wee bit chilly, the democratic rally in Lowell last night was a great big success from start to finish. It was held at city hall, with the front steps as the rostrum and over 2000 people listened to the speakers, all of whom presented spirited and logical arguments for the democratic ticket. It was the first democratic rally of the state campaign and the cold night air did not chill the enthusiasm characteristic of old-time democratic rallies. Rallies by republicans and progressives, as witness the recent rally by republicans at Associate hall, may lack steam and enthusiasm, but not so with that of the democrats. They always manage to throw in the political spices that give to the rally the proper flavor.

The speakers last night included State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Hon. Charles F. McCarthy, of Marlboro, candidate for county commissioner; Hon. James H. Vahey of Watertown; Peter F. Tague of Boston, who represented ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, and Michael O'Sullivan of Lawrence. The crowd suffered some disappointment when it was announced that a death in his family made it impossible for the ex-mayor of Boston to be present.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, who presided, expressed regrets because of the fact that it was necessary to hold an open air rally. He explained that Associate hall had been engaged before the rally had been arranged for and it was impossible, he said, to rescind action in either case. The hall could not be taken away from the parties who had engaged it and to change the date of the rally would be out of the question. "We are all right here," shouted one of the enthusiastic auditors, who had joined in giving Mr. O'Sullivan a splendid ovation as he opened the meeting.

Mr. O'Sullivan made a plea for harmony. He said he would like to discuss national questions but he did not want to take up the time of the speakers who would follow and who would deal with national affairs. He asked his auditors to bear in mind the fact that the democratic party is the party that fought the battles of the working man; the party that the rank and file has always had to lean upon, and it never failed them of support. Referring to the administration of Governor Walsh, Mr. O'Sullivan said Lowell people should consider his administration impartially. Before Mr. Walsh has finished as governor, said the chairman, he will have convinced the state that his was a good administration. "Of course they may criticise the governor on personal questions," said Mr. O'Sullivan, "but the personal element must be subordinated in considering a man's worth to the public at large. A public servant should be measured by what he does in the aggregate. The democratic party is closer to the people than any other party. It has made more genuine progress for the country as a whole than any political institution the world has ever seen. It is the duty of every good democrat to stand by President Wilson and the democratic administration from top to bottom. We have the world's greatest leader at Washington and we must assist him to carry out the great improvements he has planned." To do this effectively Mr. O'Sullivan said it was necessary and in every way desirable to reelect Governor Walsh.

State Treasurer Mansfield

In introducing State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Mr. O'Sullivan referred to him as one of the best democrats in Massachusetts and a man of sterling worth and quality. Mr. Mansfield spoke in part as follows:

"Whenever the commonwealth needs money to carry on its great enterprises it gets it just as an individual does when he needs money. If an individual wants money, he generally gets it on his promissory note, if the bank is satisfied with the security. The state gets its money in exactly the same way. It borrows on its promissory notes only it calls those notes bonds. They are called bonds merely because the state binds itself to pay the money when it is due.

"It had been a custom for over 125 years to sell those bonds to a syndicate of bond dealers and bankers. One year ago, when I was campaigning for election as state treasurer, I pledged to the people, that if elected, I would not sell bonds to the syndicate, but would give the people a chance to buy them. This year we had the largest bond sale in the history of the state—over $5,325,000. I advertised for bids, because the law provides that this must be done. I received about a dozen different bids, the highest being by a large and powerful combination of bankers in Boston, and was $1042.72. This meant that the syndicate was willing to pay $1042.72 for every $1000 bond, and of course if I sold to the syndicate, the ordinary person could not buy a bond without dealing with the syndicate, and inasmuch as they would have control of the entire issue, the purchaser would be entirely at their mercy, and would be compelled to pay whatever rate they wanted to charge.

"I rejected all those bids, and offered the bonds for sale to the public at the same rate that the syndicate had bid to me. All of the bonds were sold 'over the counter' in exactly 21 working days, although one year ago, when the syndicate bought an entire issue of 5,000,000 from my republican predecessor, it took that syndicate 10 months to dispose of them. The profit which the syndicate would have made is the money that I saved to the purchaser, and I estimate it at about $65,000.

"But the saving of this money was not what I desired most to accomplish. I wanted to bring the government of this state nearer to the people, and disseminate the bonds over a larger area, and to place them in the hands of more of the ordinary people. If this could be accomplished, civic pride and patriotism would be increased. If I could place a Massachusetts bond in the hands of every anarchist, every socialist, and every enemy of government, I would convert that man immediately into a friend of government, because then he would realize that whatever word or act of his which would tend to injure his government or his state, would injure his own bond.

"I also tried to bring the bonds nearer to the reach of the ordinary people by reducing their denomination. Before 1914, it was impossible for a poor man to buy a Massachusetts bond because they were $1000 each. There is no statute which compels the fixing of the denomination at this price. It is entirely discretionary with the treasurer, and it didn't seem to me to be fair to the poor to fix the price so high as to be prohibitive. Therefore, I reduced the denomination of Massachusetts bonds from $1000 down to $100, to give the poor man and the smaller investor a chance which he never had before.

Burden of Taxation

"In addition to popularizing the bonds, I have tried to lighten the burden of taxation for the poor man. Much of our state debt is in the form of taxable bonds. A taxable bond is one upon which the person who owns it is supposed to pay taxes. The only person from whom a list of names and addresses of taxable bonds may be obtained, is the state treasurer. After taking office, I found that it had been the custom for over 100 years, for the state treasurer not to divulge the names of the taxable bond holders, and the result of this pernicious custom, is that a great many wealthy people who ought to be in better business were dodging their taxes. They relied in many instances upon this custom, and bought taxable bonds, knowing in advance that their names would not be disclosed, and of course in this way they escaped paying their taxes. For the first time in the history of this state, I gave the names and addresses of all taxable bond holders to the commissioner, and for the first time, these wealthy tax dodgers have been compelled to pay their share of the tax burden. The poor man cannot escape his taxes, because the property he usually owns is not of a kind that can be hidden. If a poor man owns an equity in a house, or a little farm, he cannot hide this kind of property behind the skirts of an obliging state treasurer, and he is compelled to pay not only his own share, but that of the wealthy man as well.

"I now pledge myself to the people of this state that as long as I remain state treasurer, the wealthy taxable bond holders will have to pay their share of the taxes, as well as the poor man.

"It is a significant fact that the last three republican state treasurers who preceded me, Elmer A. Stevens, Arthur B. Chapin and Ed. S. Branford, after serving as state treasurer, each for a period of five years, were each made vice-presidents of banks, and it is also significant that in the contest of the republican primaries for nominees for this position, the two gentlemen who aspired to the nomination, were both bank officers. Does the republican party think that the office of state treasurer belongs to bankers? I do not wish to make any unfair criticism, but I think it is, to say the least, improper. It does not look well for men to go directly into banks, after leaving the state treasurer's office. Again I wish to pledge myself that while I am treasurer, I will endeavor so to conduct my duties of that office, as to win the approval of the citizens and tax payers, and not so as to win a vice-presidency of a bank.

Saving of $40,000,000

"I have also inaugurated a plan, by which $40,000,000 can be saved to the people of this state in 40 years. I have recommended that the old sinking fund bonds be retired, and replaced by serial bonds. As everyone knows, the sinking fund bonds cannot be paid until the end of the time for which they have to run, whereas serial bonds are paid off yearly, and the interest and principal is constantly diminishing. The difference in interest alone, in the 40 year term, would be over $1,000,000 a year, and His Excellency, Governor Walsh, thought so well of the plan, that he sent a special message to the legislature about it, and the board of efficiency and economy is now considering it, and a public hearing was held today at the state house.

"I have also reduced about 40 per cent. of the sinking fund requirement for the 40 cities and towns in the Metropolitan district. This requirement is ascertained, by computing the sinking fund with their earnings at 3 per cent. to the end of the time the loan has to run, and subtracting this amount from the total that is to be paid, and the difference is divided proportionately between those cities and towns. As a matter of fact, the funds have been earning more than 4 per cent., and by reckoning this as low as 3 per cent. those various cities and towns have been compelled to pay more than they ought to, and many of the funds will be filled years before the loan matures. In other words, this generation has suffered from an over-taxation, part of which belongs to the next generation to pay.

"This year I have computed the funds at 4 per cent. as I see no reason for computing them at 3 per cent. when they are earning 4 per cent., the result of a reduction of about 40 per cent. in the yearly requirements, dropping for example, $812,000 in 1913 to $492,000 in 1914.

"My only object as state treasurer has been to do the best I could for all of the people of the commonwealth, and especially to alleviate the condition of the poor man, and I shall continue this policy as long as I am state treasurer, and it is upon this record that I ask for re-election."

Hon. Charles F. McCarthy

Senator Charles F. McCarthy proved eloquent and energetic. He is a candidate for county commissioner. Mr. McCarthy as a legislator, introduced the bill known as the McCarthy bill, compelling mill owners to pay taxes on property where the property is located instead of where the owners of the mills live. This bill became law and the working of it means over $60,000 a year to the city of Lowell. This amount was formerly paid in rich towns where the mill owners lived, instead of being paid in Lowell and other cities and towns where the mills are located. In the course of his speech Senator McCarthy said:

"I stand for election as county commissioner on my record as a public official and upon the experience gained as a city official of the city of Marlborough, and in the Massachusetts senate and house of representatives.

"I believe a candidate's public record is the truest test of his fitness for office and I believe that experience in legislation will prove one of the best and most useful assets in administering the affairs of this great county during the next three years.

"I have been elected three times to the Massachusetts senate and four times to the house of representatives by the rank and file of the people, irrespective of party, on my record as a public official and upon my promise to represent them honestly, faithfully and fairly.

"During my public service I have striven earnestly to merit the trust and confidence of my constituency by my every vote and action. I have endeavored at all times to place the interests of all the people above everything else, and to give my voice and vote in support of all legislation for their welfare.

"With this in mind, and being firmly of the opinion that there is a sincere and wide-spread desire on the part of the voters of Middlesex county for a change in the present method of administering the affairs of the county which has prevailed for the past twenty years, I desire to respectfully submit myself as the candidate for county commissioner.

"I stand first, last and always for Massachusetts—for its interests and its industries, and for the advancement of the welfare of the great mass of its people.

"I believe in the industries, institutions and people of Middlesex county, and if elected commissioner will be guided always by their best interests.

"I believe a large majority of the voters of Middlesex county are dissatisfied with conditions as they exist in the conduct of the affairs of the county, and if elected commissioner, I promise to give the best that is in me for a faithful and impartial administration of the people's business in the office."

In referring to Commissioner Levi Gould, up for reelection, Mr. McCarthy said he didn't want to attack him on account of his age, but he declared Middlesex county interests demanded the election of another man. He said, and very truly too, that the average man knows nothing about the doings of the county commission, and if elected, he said, he would arrange it so that every man interested in the work of the commission would have an opportunity to know all about it. Every man, he said, should know what the county commissioners is doing. The county commissioners have been holding their meetings at times and places where it was impossible for the rank and file to attend and in this way their movements have been covered up, more or less. "If I am elected county commissioner," said Mr. McCarthy, "I will see to it that the meetings of the county commissioners are held at night in order that the man who works all day in the mill and other places of industry will have an opportunity to see for himself what is going on." Mr. McCarthy referred to Lowell as the greatest city in the county, and said it had not been fairly treated by the county commission. In mentioning Mr. Gould, the speaker took occasion to remark that Mr. Gould was diametrically opposed to the election of Erson Harlow of Lowell as county commissioner.

Hon. James H. Vahey

Hon. James H. Vahey was given a warm welcome when introduced by Mr. O'Sullivan. Mr. Vahey bore down on the fact that democratic unity spelled democratic success. He said that democratic success would mean an indorsement of President Wilson's administration, which he regarded as the best since that of Abraham Lincoln. He said that if a man like Lincoln were a candidate today he would gladly vote for him, irrespective of party, and he asked his hearers to do the same, no matter what party ties in the coming election. Mr. Vahey spoke in part as follows:

"Lowell is now entering upon a campaign of education. The people are to be informed as to the issues of the campaign, and they are to be asked to vote for men who represent their views and principles. Referring to present conditions in America, Mr. Vahey said that only for the most conservative and safe management, war would be upon the people of this country—war with Mexico, and possibly other countries. Get out and get your party, think of your country and vote for men who will be in sympathy with and support President Wilson. Express your confidence," concluded Mr. Vahey, the speaker.

Fitzgerald Not Present

Peter F. Tague, congressional candidate in the 10th district, came as the representative of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston. The ex-mayor's brother, George F. Fitzgerald, died at his home in Mt. Vernon street, Dorchester yesterday morning, and that was the reason the ex-mayor did not make the personal appearance in Lowell last night. The following brother had been ill for a year from a nervous breakdown brought on by an attack of grippe. Mr. Tague, Hon. P. F. Reyes, Mayor Fitzgerald and Edward Howard, a very entertaining singer, were from Boston.

The last speaker was Michael O'Sullivan, a well known lawyer.

SAYS LOSS OF LIFE WILL REACH 4,000,000

And Property Loss $35,000,000,000 if War is Maintained for 18 Months

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 29.—"If the European war is maintained with its violence for 18 months the loss of life will be 4,000,000 and the property loss $35,000,000,000." E. H. Gary, president of the American Steel and Iron Institute, said today in addressing the annual meeting of that organization. Mr. Gary admitted the present depressed state of the steel trade but was optimistic of the future.

"Without particularizing, it would seem safe to predict that in many important respects business conditions in the United States for the next three months at least will be better than they have been for the last three months," he declared. "I do not hesitate to say, with emphasis, that the opportunity for success and progress in this country is greater than ever before."

TRIAL OF JARED FLAGG

ACTING AS HIS OWN LAWYER, SPOKE FOR OVER AN HOUR TO JURY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Jared Flagg, on trial for using the mails in a scheme to defraud stock investors by holding out to them alluring promises of profit, acting as his own lawyer, spoke for over an hour to the jury today which is trying his case in the United States district court. The government closed its case yesterday and Flagg's address of today marked the opening of the defense. Daniel N. Morgan, former treasurer of the United States, and six others indicted with Flagg are to be given a separate trial.

Flagg told the jury that he intended to prove that he had made a legitimate profit of 50 per cent a year for his customers; that he had turned over to them $700,000 in profits in three years, every penny of which was made in Wall street operations; that he had been sparing in his expenses; and that not a cent of his clients' funds had been diverted to improper uses.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A Halloween party was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McCrann, 185 Pleasant street. The house was decorated in seasonable colors and the soft glow of the halloween lanterns produced a very pretty effect. The hostess, Mrs. McCrann, impersonated a witch, and her sister, Miss Katherine O'Brien, a ghost. The hostess proved herself a "witch" at entertaining, and the party was one not soon to be forgotten by those fortunate enough to be present. As a ghost Miss O'Brien was a great success. Games of various kinds were indulged in, spirits from the other world danced to grotesque music and the witch of witches served dainty luncheon.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS ON WHOLE BATTLE LINE

Kaiser's Forces Suffer Crushing Defeat in Russian Poland and are Driven Back in Flanders —Allies Expect to Crush Germans as Grant Did the South by Overwhelming Numerical Superiority—British Training 1,500,000 Men—Emden Sinks Russian Cruiser and French Destroyer—Another Steamer Sunk Off Coast of Ireland—Kaiser Orders Calais Taken at any Cost

From the west and east German reverses are reported. Germany acknowledges a check in Russian Poland but concerning the great battle in Flanders she preserves her silence. The only official word received by midday today was from the French, who again made indefinite claims to further progress. Not since the struggle along the North sea began a fortnight ago has Germany made a statement upon which may be based judgment as to the course of events. The best information available indicates that notwithstanding their dauntless attacks and heavy sacrifices of life the Germans are further from the coast than when the battle began.

The one great factor upon which the allies build their hopes of an eventful triumph apparently is beginning to tell. It is the almost inexhaustible supply of men that may be drawn from the vast reaches of the British and Russian empires which are relied upon in time to crush the Germans as Grant did the south by overwhelming numerical superiority. In the east this influence seemingly is already being felt and to it is ascribed the German reverse in Russian Poland.

The secret of the Russian victory, writes a British correspondent, at Petrograd, lies in the vastness of the Russian army which he estimates at 8,000,000 men. This enabled the Russians to keep an immense reserve for every army, changing regiments frequently and never leaving the same men on the firing line long enough to become stale.

Meanwhile the British, who declare their forces now on the continent as merely an advance guard, are training at home an army of 1,500,000 men, of whom 600,000 are territorials.

Today's French statement, while again optimistic in tone, gave little specific information. On the extreme western end of the battle line, where the fighting has been fiercest there is "nothing new." London ascribes the lull of the past few days to the fact that the opposing armies have been utterly exhausted by incessant fighting by day and night and perforce relaxed their efforts. There is no indication, however, that Germany intends to abandon the fight for the possession of the North sea coast.

To the south and east, along the battle line across France, successes are reported by the French to the south of Arras between the Aisne and the Argonne and in the forest of Apremont. None of the German attacks, it is said, has been successful.

The German cruiser Emden, whose remarkable exploits have fairly earned a place in history, is reported to have performed the most daring feat of all. Disguised with a fourth smokestack, presumably taken from some captured vessel, and flying the Japanese flag the Emden is said to have sailed boldly into the waters of Penang, a British possession in the straits settlements and to have sunk a Russian cruiser and a French destroyer. The Emden was reported yesterday to have sent to the bottom a small Japanese passenger steamer.

The long list of losses on the sea continues to grow. Another steamer is reported to have been sunk off the north coast of Ireland.

With impressive services, largely attended by relatives and friends of deceased, the funeral of James J. Gray, the popular baseball manager, was held this forenoon from St. Columba's church. The cortege, including over fifty hacks and many automobiles, left the home, 13 Tolman avenue, about 9 o'clock, moving slowly to the church where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. ARMIES IN DEADLOCK IN BELGIAN MARSH LANDS

Onslaughts of Gladiators Battering for Mastery Lack Force Necessary to Score a Victory

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The onslaughts of the gladiators battering for mastery in the Belgian marsh lands still lack the force necessary to score a victory. Neither side has yet accomplished its purpose. The Germans have not reached the French coast nor have the allies frustrated their determination to attain this goal. Nevertheless such scraps of reliable information as reach London are taken by British observers to indicate that the advantage at least rests with the allies' troops.

The German assent to this, is of course only negative in character and takes the shape of a confession of failure to achieve their object to break through the defense of their opponents. That the reported lull in the fighting in this region is only momentary is taken for granted but up to the present time no news of a renewal of the German offensive has come to hand. Both sides seem to be endeavoring to line up afresh and accounts from all sources agree that the Germans are only awaiting additional troops to resume the hold stroke which insufficiency of forces has thus far prevented them from carrying through.

In the meanwhile the allied commanders are informing their world-wide audience that their forces are always taking a little more the offensive and they indicate that it won't be long before they substitute an attack on the German positions in Belgium for the German attack on the allied positions in the north of France. When this occurs there will recommence a series of siege battles for the German entrenchments which gridiron Belgium from its southern boundary to the Luxemburg frontier.

The German retirement on Poland and the resumption of the offensive by Russia all along the eastern battle front is generally ascribed in London to the enormous reserves brought up by the Russian commanders. Instead of two completely exhausted armies facing each other along the Vistula, as has happened frequently on the banks of the Aisne, the Russians make daily changes, bringing regiments from the rear and thus allowing the fighters in the trenches to retire and rest. This operation is said to have been repeated so often that virtually every Russian soldier within striking distance of the invaders is now a veteran. While this German retirement may not be the rout pictured in Petrograd, it is nevertheless held here to be true that the retreat has progressed so far that Warsaw is today free from the menace of the investment and with the pressure on their center relieved the Russians are now devoting more attention to the campaign in Galicia.

Petrograd reports that the garrison of Przemysl is defending this fortress with extraordinary obstinacy. The forts are well armed and tens of thousands of workmen are employed in strengthening the fortifications. In anticipation of an investment, the supplies of ammunition are large. The weakness of the fortress is reported to be found in the scarcity of provisions. Enormous quantities had been collected by the Austrians in outlying villages but the unexpectedly speedy advance of the Russians resulted in the seizure of these supplies.

WARNED OF GERMAN MINES

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The steamer Olympic, which left New York Oct. 21 for Warsaw, warned by wireless that there were German mines off Tory Island, on the north coast of Ireland, put into Lough Swilly. Here her passengers were landed and sent by special train to Londonderry. Lough Swilly is in county Donegal.

ANNUAL PARISH REUNION

PAUL R. CLARK
Floor Director

JOSEPH A. PRESTON
General Manager

Of the Immaculate Conception Church Held at Associate Hall Last Night

The 11th annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church, held in Associate hall last evening was as usual a grand success, and in some respects it proved even more successful than some of its predecessors. From a financial standpoint the results were most gratifying, and the social features of the affair eclipsed any previous efforts along this line. Nearly every family in the parish was represented during the evening by one or more members, while the children held forth in the afternoon.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the orange and black of the Halloween season prevailing in the color schemes. The stage was set with greenery, potted plants and palms, which completely hid the orchestra, and the gallery front and side walls were banked with bunting. Long streamers of orange were caught at the centre chandelier and swung to all corners of the hall. The booths situated in all parts of the hall were also tastefully decorated in contrast with the draperies of the hall proper, while hundreds of incandescent lights added brilliancy to the scene.

In the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves as only children can. A special program had been prepared for them, including games, dancing and a "beauty baby contest." In the last named there were several entrants, but Baby Gertrude Shavin won favor with the judges and was awarded first prize. Little Mary Joyce was the second prize winner and all the other contestants were given honorable mention. Mr. John X. Payne, had charge of the afternoon's festivities, and it can truly be stated he enjoyed himself fully as much as the children.

Carlin's novelty orchestra formally opened the affair in the evening with several selections from "Sari," and this was followed by a solo by William P. Goodin, who sang in pleading voice, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Edward P. Shea and John Dalton favored with solos and for an encore they responded with the ever popular "Killarney's Lakes." William Marren and Frank McCartin, two popular comedians of the parish, delighted the large gathering with their witticisms and they were both forced to respond to many encores. Through the courtesy of the Keith theatre management Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, one of the most popular teams on the vaudeville stage today, entertained in a short sketch which proved very amusing. Jim Toney and Miss Norman, also from Keith's proved their worth in a delightful sketch.

At the conclusion of the program general dancing started and continued till midnight. Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, together with the other clergymen of the parish were in attendance and mingled freely with their parishioners.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

EYEGLASSES AND BEAUTY

Careless or wrong adjustment of eye glasses is not only harmful but in many cases actually disfiguring. The woman whose wish it is to look well-groomed, will not neglect this detail of correct dressing.

The woman that who does not wish to acquire several unnecessary wrinkles had best take care that her glasses are set upon her face at the correct angle and at the necessary distance or nearness to the eyes. If too near, the eyelashes brush them, this is uncomfortable and irritating and after awhile years the eyelashes go and they look short and stubby, and are not longer a becoming fringe to the eye.

The string or chain sometimes annexed to the right eyeglass often serves as a sort of weight to pull it down or warp the frame of the glass out of place. This should be noticed and only the lightest kind of string or chain be used.

Glasses, of course, which are worn only occasionally are not so apt to fall into error. On the other hand, the glass which is put on and taken off frequently is sometimes put on carelessly, and often becomes bent and twisted from much handling. Care should be taken to avoid both conditions.

The sometimes decried lorgnette has its uses for this matter to temporary need. It is convenient for what it is intended and should be called into play rather than run any risk of eyestrain.

MRS. H.L. CHAMBRE DEAD

WIDOW OF FORMER RECTOR OF ST. ANNE'S CHURCH OF LOWELL

It was with deep sorrow that the many friends of Mrs. Harriet Lancaster Chambre, widow of the late Rev. A. St. John Chambre, D. D., learned of her demise which occurred yesterday at her home, 61 Nesmith street, after a long illness.

Deceased was born in Acworth, N. H., Aug. 19, 1828, her parents being William Lancaster and Fanny Davidson, both of Scottish descent. The young woman was educated by an aunt in Boston and later she studied art in Paris and Dresden and became quite proficient as a painter. She was an accomplished French linguist; she also had talent as a writer, a little volume, "Nellie Gay," being the work of her pen.

Mrs. Chambre was very generous to the church and community and it was she who some years ago when an effort was being made to clear the church debt, gave nearly $900 for that purpose. She was deeply interested in the work of the Theodore Edson orphanage and also took great interest in all parish work. She was president of the Girls' Friendly society and honorary president of the Beneficial society, positions she held until her death. Deceased had no near relatives. She is survived by two nieces living in the west.

HEALTHY HAIR SOFT, FLUFFY AND RADIANT

Beautiful hair does not just happen to be so, but is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. No matter if your hair is falling out, stringy, lifeless and full of dandruff, Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic sold by all druggists, is all that is ever needed. It nourishes the hair roots and stimulates the growth of new hair. Even dandruff is entirely removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; your hair will be bright, vigorous, soft and fluffy.

Whether your hair is oily, dry or brittle, Parisian Sage immediately removes the cause, and by toning up the scalp quickly restores the hair to its original brilliancy and vigor.

Parisian Sage can always be had from any drug counter, and is a delightful and easily applied treatment that will never fail to act as a real and lasting benefit to your hair and scalp.

SEC. DONAHUE IN HUB HOSPITAL

Thos. Riley Recovering Rapidly—Others Hurt in Accident Improving

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary of State Frank J. Donahue, who was injured in an automobile accident Monday night at North Adams, arrived in Boston last night and was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital. His injuries may be more serious than first examination indicated, and an X-ray examination will be made of the fractured left arm and his injured shoulder and foot.

Secretary Donahue, who was accompanied on the trip to Boston by his family physician, Dr. T. W. Green, stood the long train journey well. At the North station he was met by Dr. John W. Lane, chief surgeon of St. Elizabeth's hospital; Dr. M. J. Cronin, Timothy Burner, who is managing his campaign, and several other friends. His left arm was in splints and his injured jaw was encased in a bandage that extended from his right ear around to his chin, making it difficult for him to speak.

"Hello, Tim, how are things going?" is the way he greeted his campaign manager as he was assisted from the train. He held an impromptu reception and then walked slowly out of the train shed to a waiting automobile in which he was driven to the hospital.

Thomas Riley of Pittsfield, who was believed to be the most seriously injured of the party in the accident, is coming out better than expected. An examination at the North Adams hospital failed to reveal any fracture of the skull, as at first feared, and his injury may be only a severe bruise. Senator Mack and J. B. O'Hearn, a Pittsfield newspaperman, are resting comfortably and may be able to leave the hospital today or tomorrow.

WOMEN IN CONFERENCE

DISCUSSED FOREIGN MISSIONS AT THE CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH YESTERDAY

The Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission society, New England district, held a meeting at the Calvary Baptist church of this city yesterday. The affair was largely attended and proved very interesting.

The forenoon session opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. H. C. Fuller of the First Baptist church. The speakers were Miss Helen W. Munroe of Cambridge, vice president of the New England district, and Miss Grace T. Colburn of Newton Centre, home vice president. Miss Munroe spoke of her visit to Japan and the work being conducted there by the society, while Miss Colburn was very interesting with her campaign talk.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Mrs. H. W. Peabody, who spoke of India and what is being done there by the society. She told of the many institutions and the good they are doing. Between the afternoon and evening sessions supper was enjoyed in the vestry of the church and at 7 o'clock the evening service was started, the presiding officer being Mrs. Asa Reed Dilts, while the speaker was Miss Melissa Morrow, who has been doing wonderful work in India. She was followed by Mrs. Peabody who spoke on Burmah.

A vigorous campaign in the interest of the society was started on Sept 23 and when it is ended meetings will have been held in 34 important centres of New England.

MR. DODGE INJURED

Mr. Cecil Dodge of The Sun staff met with a slight mishap on the 6.22 train to Boston Wednesday evening. While the train was stopped at Winchester it was suddenly bumped by another train. Mr. Dodge was thrown over a seat and against the side of the car in such a manner that the ligaments of his left shoulder were torn while the muscles of his arm were wrenched. He was treated by Dr. F. M. Pillsbury.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young People's society of the Worthen Street Baptist church held a Halloween party in the church vestry last evening with a large attendance. The scene of the party was appropriately decorated with Japanese lanterns and other Halloween effects. A pleasing entertainment was given by several young ladies after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Everybody in the city is invited to take a guess at the number of seeds in the smashing big pumpkin placed in the lobby of the B. F. Keith theatre. Those who make a guess should leave their names and addresses at the box office. To the one who guesses the correct number, or who more nearly gets it, five box seats for any performance next week will be given. Also to the nine others who most nearly approximate the real number two orchestra seats for any performance during the week will be presented. The winners will be announced from the stage on Saturday night. Also on that night the theatre will be in real Hallowe'en dress, and the big feature will be an apple eating contest on the stage for boys only. Rosy apples will be strung and the contestants will have their hands tied behind them. To those who devour the apples first cash prizes will be given. Entrants should leave their name at the box office. This week's show is excellent in character, being headed by the Five Annapolis Boys, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy and others. 'Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Cosmo Hamilton's wholesome and stirring play, "The Blindness of Virtue," which is being given so capably at the Merrimack Square Theatre this week, has ever been a reigning favorite with stock audiences the country over, probably because its story is so universal, probably because of the delicate love story which it contains, perhaps for any one of the 101 other good reasons, but anyway the fact still remains, folks like it. They come to see it, and it never fails to please.

Next week a play that perhaps is as well known as any which has ever been seen locally will be "Tess of the Storm Country." It has been seen in Lowell on the moving picture screen but the coming week will be the first opportunity that local playgoers have ever had to see it in play form. Seats are now on sale for all performances.

THE OWL THEATRE

The second Paramount picture to be released is shown at the Owl theatre, for the last three days of the week. This release is a Frohman Famous Players' film with Marguerite Clark, the dainty, magnetic star in "Wildflower," a drama of sunlights and shadows of the sun-kissed forests, and of the depths and shallows of the human life. It is a delightful tale of sweet innocence and eternal youth, written by Mary Germaine and produced in an extravagant manner in four parts of motion pictures. Miss Clark gives the role of "Wildflower," a most bewitching characterization, and her good acting tends to soften the hearts of the most pessimistic. The scenery is very well chosen, the woodland scenes being especially adaptable to the screen. It is doubtful if the Famous Players have produced such an elaborate motion picture before. It will prove a delight from beginning to end. You'll heave a sigh at the finish, wishing there was more of it. Next week will bring two other big Paramount pictures, with Macklyn Arbuckle the first part of the week, and Max Figman in "What's His Name?" for the last part of the week. Five other Mutual movies complete today's program, all of the better variety.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty marriage took place at 6.30 o'clock last night when James Percival Butler of Malden and Miss Katherine Eleanor O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. O'Donnell, and a sister to Former Mayor James E. O'Donnell, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed by Rev. James J. Kerrigan at St. Patrick's rectory. The bride was attended by a cousin, Miss Marie O'Donnell, while the best man was Dr. Arthur White of Boston. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, 220 Branch street, where a brief reception was held. The ushers were Thomas D. Lavelle of Boston and Edward J. O'Donnell of this city. Lavigueur's orchestra delighted the guests with a fine concert. HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interefer with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. Inall such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

"Oh dear, we use so much butter I am just awfully discouraged," complained Marjorie. "My butter expense is enormous."

"You perhaps waste a lot in cutting," suggested Marie. "Butter is a very important item in the family menu. Food should be served as attractively as possible because that which appeals to the eye generally appeals to the appetite. Butter, on account of its consistency and the manner of serving, is often not only unattractive in appearance, but is cut in such a manner that it is actually wasted.

"By careful forethought in providing the proper utensils butter can be used more economically and served more attractively. Individual molds, pats or balls of butter generally supply the wants of each member of the family, with the advantage of being economical, by eliminating left-over butter on the plate.

"When a pound of butter is to be used for table service it is a very good plan to cut it first into halves, then into quarters and eighths before cutting it crosswise so as to form neat little squares.

"A very neat butter cutter can be purchased for a comparatively small sum. It consists of a white enamel base, on which the pound of butter is placed.

"Copper wires are so adjusted that by pulling a lever the butter can be cut lengthwise into the desired number of squares. Another set of wires cuts the butter crosswise, thus accomplishing the work in about two seconds of time.

"However, you need not expend more than thirty-five or fifty cents for instruments that will always make butter attractive. Little wooden molds may be purchased for twenty cents. These make the small pieces of butter into imitation pats of a pound.

"Butter ballmakers, consisting of two wooden spoons, are quite inexpensive. The butter curler is perhaps one of the most convenient of contrivances on the market. This little device was first imported from Germany to this country. It consists of a knife-like curl that may be scraped across the top of a pound of butter, forming the butter taken up in the curve into a small attractive roll.

"These small rolls if dropped into ice water will harden nicely. They may be placed on a plate and served with a butter fork or on individual bread and butter plates.

"A little attention to so small a matter as butter cutting and serving may effect quite a saving in the family purse. Little things are always worth while. We are all familiar with the poem about the little drops of water making the mighty ocean. It is often the little savings that make the bank account."

MASS NOTICE

A month's mind mass will be sung at St. Peter's church, Friday morning at 8 o'clock for the repose of the soul of the late John F. Roark.

Rheumasalts Insures Quick and Safe Relief

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all the misery and ills that go with it, is to dissolve a little Rheumasalts in water and drink it while it is effervescing.

Rheumasalts is a scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, sallow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then you need Rheumasalts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "doping" yourself with drug-forming, heart-depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumasalts. It is delicious to the taste and acts quickly without griping or nausea. Rheumasalts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

The next time you need a laxative, ask your druggist for about five ounces of Rheumasalts. If he hasn't the original Rheumasalts, write to the Rheumabath Company, Minneapolis, Minn., who will be glad to see that you are supplied.

O'CONNOR AT WOBURN

Congressional Candidate Addressed Two Big Democratic Rallies Last Evening

J. Joseph O'Connor, candidate for congress, addressed large and enthusiastic audiences in Woburn and Andover last evening. He severely arraigned his opponent for straddling on the prohibition resolution now before congress, his deliberate aim to deceive the voters as to his vote and speech on the currency bill so important to the country, and his cunning in trying to make the people believe he delivered on the floor of the house of representatives his "Out Heralding Herod" speech, when as a matter of truth he got permission to print in the Congressional Record, and then by use of his franking privilege had thousands of copies distributed throughout the country.

MAP SHOWING APPROXIMATE POSITION OF TROOPS IN EASTERN WAR THEATRE

In this map the present position of the German line after the retreat from Warsaw is shown as well as the Vistula valley and also the lines of defenses upon which the Germans are reported to be falling back. The German advance into Russian Poland began Sept. 25. On Oct. 13 a German column was within eight miles of Warsaw. After four days of hard fighting, in which the German infantry vainly assaulted the Russian positions and the Russian infantry was unable to gain in counter attacks, the Russians began their flanking movement, sending ten divisions of cavalry, from Novo Georgievsk, as indicated in the above map, around the extreme German left to strike at the German rear. The suddenness of the attack produced a panic, and the German retreat on Lowisez and Skiniewicz degenerated into flight. The Russians are continuing the pursuit, evidently intending to give the Germans no opportunity to make a stand and resume the defensive short of their previously prepared positions along the Silesian frontier, which are also indicated on the map.

TO ENFORCE LAW

Harvard College Men Face Arrest if They Carry Red Flags

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Cambridge police officials will arrest the first student who carries the Harvard crimson banner in any parade or demonstration. The world-known university flag comes under the ban of the red flag law in this state, according to Acting Chief J. E. Murray of the police, and he will forbid the proposed parade of crimson flags from the college to the Stadium on Saturday.

Gov. Walsh and Assistant Attorney-General Thomas P. Riley came to the defense of Harvard yesterday, but despite their opinion that the supreme court ruling on red flags ought not to interfere with the flaunting of the crimson, Chief Murray declared emphatically that the decision of Chief Justice Rugg includes the Harvard boys as well as the socialists.

The governor said that it is not so much the red flag as what it symbolizes that caused the statute to be placed on the books. "I don't think that the ruling of Chief Justice Rugg will mean interference with either the red pennant of the National Lancers or the crimson banner of Harvard," he added.

The assistant attorney general stated: "The statute as it reads would debar Harvard from carrying its distinctive flag. The letter of that statute is directed against any red banner."

BEST NONE TOO GOOD FOR ENLISTED MEN

EFFORT TO SECURE MOST WHOLESOME FOOD FOR THE ENLISTED MEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Efforts of purchasing officers of the navy to secure only the most wholesome food for enlisted men are revealed in a special order which Paymaster-General McGowan has just issued to the officers and chiefs in his bureau. In it he declares that our men are "no prison squad" but human beings and American citizens, "for whom we stand in the relation of trustee insofar as relates to the question of food."

He announces that "every effort to try on the navy any experiments or tests of any food product whatever shall be promptly suppressed" as the enlisted men have no choice as what they shall eat and because adequate and satisfactory subsistence is the very foundation not only of real efficiency but of discipline itself there is no class of purchases for the naval serve, he says, that need to be more constantly watched than provisions.

Another order by the paymaster-general advises the contract requisition and supply sections to go slow on waiving competition, even in cases where it is permissible and to stand by the lowest bidder wherever possible. He declares that "government's red tape is never objectionable to honest men except when it is needlessly wound up so tight and so long that it results in obstruction."

TO PREVENT INSANITY

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Dr. L. Vernon Briggs of the state board of insanity yesterday explained a new plan for the prevention of insanity and the treatment of incipient cases. Publicclinics will be established in the principal cities of the commonwealth for advice and treatment. Dr. Briggs said:

"The hospitals will reach out into the community and give an opportunity for those on the verge of a mental or nervous breakdown to receive treatment and in this day more serious consequences will be avoided. Last month clinics were held in Haverhill, Lawrence, Lynn, Gloucester, Worcester, Taunton and the Psychopathic Hospital in Boston. The clinics will be advertised and held this month in Haverhill, Lawrence, Lynn, Gloucester, Worcester, Newburyport, Salem, Springfield, New Bedford, Fall River and Boston."

WHISKEY GOES TO STATE

ATHOL, Oct. 29.—Chief of Police D. J. Murphy yesterday shipped to district police headquarters in Boston five barrels of whiskey that have been stored at the Athol police station since Nov. 15, 1913, when the liquor was seized from an auto truck near the Athol fair grounds on a claim that it was being illegally transported into Athol, then a no-license town.

This liquor was valued at the time at about $500. Through a recent decision of the supreme court the whiskey has now been forfeited to the state.

David L. Bardo of Fitchburg claimed the liquor.

ANOTHER FINE IMPOSED IN A MILK CASE—MAN WISHED TO GO TO JAIL

A pitiful case was brought to the attention of Judge Enright in police court this forenoon when Thomas Duffy, a Merrimack square newsboy, was arraigned for assault and battery upon a competitor, Thomas Riley, aged 15 years. The defendant, who is nearly 20 years of age, did not understand the charge and was unable to plead so the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Young Riley testified that both he and Duffy were stationed in the square early yesterday morning when an autoist signalled for a newsboy. The witness said that he reached the auto first and was about to pass over a paper when Duffy struck him, knocking him to the street. This was corroborated by Patrolman Considine, who stated that the autoist was a Boston lawyer who complained of the defendant's treatment to Riley.

Duffy, when called to the witness stand, admitted hitting Riley but said he did not do it intentionally. He did not understand Judge Enright's questions relative to the assault so was unable to give a clear explanation.

His Honor suggested that Duffy be committed to an institution for treatment but his father strenuously objected to this and it was finally decided to place the case on file on payment of costs. The court instructed the father to keep the boy from Merrimack square hereafter, fearing that harm might be done to some of the young boys.

Frank L. Peabody pleaded not guilty to having in his possession milk which was below the standard. He was represented by Lawyer Daniel J. Donahue.

Collector of Milk Samples John J. Coughlin took three samples from Peabody's wagon a few days ago and turned them over to Milk Inspector Master. When questioned by Mr. Donahue, Inspector Master said that none of the samples indicated that water had been added but a part of the milk was below the standard required by law. Mr. Master said the milk was undoubtedly in the same condition as it came from the farm. Judge Enright adjudged the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $100, it being his second offence.

Asked to Be Sent Away

Bartholomew O'Neil, who has been rather unfortunate relative to securing work, asked to be sent to jail for the winter, so he was placed in the care of Sheriff Eveleth until the last of next February. One of the drunken offenders was sent to jail for ten days to sober off.

MAGENIS RAPS CUSHING

WESTBORO, Oct. 29.—The progressive party had a rally last evening in the town hall. William R. Clark presided. There was music by an orchestra and singing by Miss Rebecca Andrews of Boston.

The speakers were: James P. Magenis, candidate for lieutenant governor; Dr. Frederick P. Glazier of Hudson, candidate for state auditor; Willard J. Mayberry of Westboro and Stephen H. Marshall of Clinton, candidates for representative.

Mr. Magenis said in part:

"Mr. Cushing does not believe in the abolition of party enrollment. It is surprising. Judging by his public record, he does not believe in real democracy. He fought the primary, he opposed every device to bring the government closer to the people, is now opposed to the initiative and referendum and is firm believer in rule by a representative part of the people of which part he firmly believes he is.

"He is a consistent reactionary, and if the voters of this commonwealth believe in his ideas he should be elected. If not, then Mr. Cushing should be snowed under so deeply that the warmth of his disposition will never be able to thaw him out."

LOWELL PASSENGERS HELD U

(Aside from the "wet" and "dry" issue in Ohio at the election No. 3, the gubernatorial fight is arousing red hot interest in that state. Governor James M. Cox, democrat, is a candidate for reelection and is being opposed by Congressman Frank B. Willis, republican. The campaign has been extremely bitter and personal. Cox has accused Willis of standing in with trust interests, particularly the Standard Oil company, and Willis has attacked Cox's record as chief executive of the state. Not in many years has a gubernatorial fight been so bitter.)

DARING RESCUE IN HUB

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—John Doherty of 151 Meridian street, East Boston and ex-Representative McCarthy of that district were the heroes of a fire early this morning in the four-story brick building at 155 Meridian street. The ground floor is occupied by the shoe shop of J. Saperstein; the upper floors by the lodging house of Mrs. James Crouse. When, at 12.45 this morning fire was discovered around the back stairs of the building, Mrs. Crouse was there with her six children and two lodgers, Mrs. Mary Shannon and Mrs. Mary Shea, elderly women.

Doherty and McCarthy ran into the house before the firemen arrived and helped the occupants out. The former having taken out several Crouse children, had returned to carry Mrs. Shannon down from the third floor. Stumbling through the dense smoke, he was half-way down the last flight of stairs when he slipped. He and Mrs. Crouse fell to the bottom. Both were injured by the fall, but not seriously.

Except in the rear, the firemen kept the flames from the upper floors, so that the loss will not exceed $2000. The principal danger was from a hardware and paint shop which adjoins the building. The police will be asked to investigate the fire, as there is a suspicion that it was incendiary.

In a fire in the same building some six years ago two men were killed, one by the flames and the other by jumping from an upper window.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCann of 95 London street are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl.

LAWRENCE, Oct. 29.—Bethany commandery, K. T., observed its 50th anniversary yesterday. In the afternoon appropriate exercises were held in Masonic temple, with grand officers as guests, and in the evening a banquet, concert and ball took place in the State armory.

The grand officers present included GC Rt Em Sir William W. Johnson of Worcester, PGC Rt Em Sir William H. H. Soule of Brookline, Very Em Sir Walter F. Medding of Malden, GSW Em Sir William H. Emerson of Brockton, GSB Em Sir Everett C. Benton of Belmont, GSB Em Sir Harry G. Pollard of Lowell, GW Em Sir Charles A. Harrington of Worcester, GCG Em Sir Issaac Chase of Cambridge and PGSB Em Sir Charles E. Pierce of Boston.

They were escorted from the station to Masonic temple by the commandery, headed by a band, about 200 being in line. A reception to the visiting officers was followed by the reading of the records of the first conclave by Recorder Charles H. Littlefield.

A banquet and ball were held last evening in the state armory which was brilliantly decorated for the occasion.

FUNERAL OF J. J. GRAY

Continued

Dracut as deacon and Rev. Timothy Walsh of Reading, subdeacon.

The choir was augmented for the occasion with Miss Catherine Wholey presiding at the organ. The solos were sustained by Miss Lulu Ginty, John J. Dalton, Edward Shea and Mrs. Leahy.

The church was crowded and many were forced to return to their homes on account of lack of room. The bearers were John Cull, John H. Donnelly, James E. Donnelly, John H. Keane of Boston, Andrew F. Roach, J. J. Dineen of Lawrence and Hon James E. O'Donnell. The ushers at the house and church were Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Albert J. Blazon, M. Mahoney of Lawrence and James Dineen of Lawrence.

Among the delegations attending the funeral were the following: New England Baseball league, Timothy Murnane, president of the league of Boston; Louis Pieper, manager of the Lynn team; Hugh Duffy, manager of the Portland team, and Fred Lake, manager of the Manchester team. This delegation rode in an automobile. Lowell lodge of Elks, Exalted Ruler John Farrell, Warren P. Riordan, James Walker and Eugene F. Hart; Lowell Aerie of Eagles, Hon. John T. Sparks, James J. Kennedy, George A. Campbell and John J. Regan.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, showing the esteem in which deceased was held. The long cortege was preceded by two automobiles and a large carriage well filled with floral tributes from the following: Mr. and Mrs. John Dineen, Terrence Gray, father of deceased, and family, Patrick Dineen, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunfey and family, Andrew F. Roach, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tryon, Mr. Andrews and family, Dr. William Collins, John J. Healey, William J. Collins, E. L. Keane of Boston, Timothy Murnane, Boston; Secretary Arthur Cooper of the New England league, Boston; President Dooley of the Boston Winter club, Mr. and Mrs. John Conley, Boston; John Smith, manager of an independent team, Manchester, N. H., Hugh Duffy, Portland, Me., Louis Pieper, Lawrence, Mass.; Patrick Dineen, Lawrence; Miss Mary Dineen, Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. James Butterbury, Lawrence and Harold Fahey of Lynn.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. John J. Degan. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

A touching scene in connection with the funeral was the arrival of Patrick Gray of Philadelphia, a brother of deceased, as the casket was being borne from the church. He met his aged father, Terrence Gray bowed in grief just inside the church door and embraced him in an outburst of grief. Although no word was spoken, the scene brought tears to the eyes of all who witnessed it.

250 GERMANS KILLED

BY ONE OF THEIR OWN GUNS—ENORMOUS 16-INCH HOWITZER EXPLODED

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 29.—According to a report received in this city today, 250 German artillerymen were killed by one of their own guns, when an enormous 16-inch howitzer exploded. The accident is ascribed to over-charging. The gun had been used with exceeding effectiveness on the German right wing. Not one of the entire artillery corps escaped with his life; while it is reported that many some distance from the scene were killed or severely wounded by the concussion.

SEEK AMERICAN VESSELS

BUSINESS HEADS PREPARING TO SHIP COTTON ABROAD—DAWN OF PROSPERITY FOR INDUSTRIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The British government having assured the state department at Washington that cotton, not being contraband, would be allowed to go through to Germany and Austria, American vessels are being sought in this port to carry abroad the first shipments.

Robert F. Rose, foreign trade adviser of the state department, in making this announcement here yesterday said that the cotton would either be landed at ports in Holland and transported into Germany by rail, or would be shipped direct to Germany.

Germany will take 50,000 bales of American cotton each month, while Austria will need 25,000 bales a month, in Mr. Rose's opinion.

It is planned to have the vessels bring back dyestuffs, cyanide, chemicals, medicines, sugar beet seed and potash on their return trips. Although Germany has lifted the embargo upon these products it has been stipulated that they must be carried in American bottoms. For that reason American vessels only are being sought to carry cotton abroad.

The Matanzas, the first steamship laden with dyestuffs from Germany since the embargo was lifted, left Rotterdam for New York yesterday, and the Sun, an American steamer, will leave Rotterdam Nov. 1 with the first cargo of cyanide.

It is estimated that the prosperity of 500,000 American textile workers depends upon a free movement of German dyestuffs, and it is stated that the owners of American gold and silver mines depend upon German cyanide to extract these metals.

WAR FOR 18 MONTHS

English Author Says It May Go on For Three Years and Will End When Allied Troops March Into Berlin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Jerome K. Jerome, English author and playwright, said here yesterday that the war in Europe will continue for at least 18 months and perhaps three years. It will end when allied troops march into Berlin. He declares that it is a war of resources, including man and money, and when it is over the world will have peace for from three to six centuries.

"We shall not get to Berlin in less than 18 months, nor later than three years from the beginning of the war," said Mr. Jerome. "Berlin, of course, is our objective and the British will never stop until the goal is reached.

"It is not impossible that we shall meet the Russians in Berlin in 1915 as we did our allies in Paris in 1815. But we shall meet them; there is not the slightest doubt about that.

"As for the Belgians, they certainly have done their share of the work."

STATE LAWS IGNORED

Lowell should not be surprised to hear—as it has heard through the meeting held Tuesday evening in the board of trade rooms—that Assistant Attorney-General Roger Sherman Hoar is preparing to bring suit against the city for its failure to construct the isolation hospital required by state law. Unless our legislature is a joke and our state laws ridiculous, the city will be compelled to do as the legislature has specified. When such action is taken, it will not do to say we cannot afford such a hospital, for some things we must have whether our city council thinks we can afford them or not. Possibly after bringing suit the state may collect the heavy penalties provided for neglect of the statute. Can the city afford that?

The meeting held under the auspices of the Middlesex Women's club, the Lowell guild, and the board of trade, acting through their combined committees, served to emphasize one most important point, viz.: that the fight against contagious disease in general and against tuberculosis in particular is a nation-wide as well as a state-wide fight. Before the law regarding the erection of isolation hospitals was placed on the statute books, active interests from one end of the country worked might and main to attack the insidious evil of tuberculosis which stalks over the land more silently but more deadly than any of the armies of Europe. The eyes of the nation were on Massachusetts, for this state has gained a reputation for advanced health laws and many states waited to see the effect here before adopting similar precautions. Lowell, however, has ignored and scorned the state demand, attracting in turn the scorn of advanced and intelligent men and women in all parts of the country. Where human life is concerned, as was remarked by Dr. Livingston at the hearing, economy, real or pretended, is no excuse.

In his address at the hearing the secretary of the state league testified that Lowell has 123 deaths annually from tuberculosis and that 20 are affected annually for every one who dies. He stated that Fall River has three times as much tuberculosis among the women who work in the textile industry as among those working elsewhere, a statement which confirms the oft-mentioned connection between the textile industry and the terrible disease. It is plain, consequently, that Lowell stands in dire need of intelligent activity towards the stamping out of this plague, and nothing can be done very satisfactorily until an up-to-date isolation hospital is erected. If the state will not admit to its hospitals any more advanced cases of the disease from Lowell, as Mr. Stone stated, the situation here will be serious in the extreme. If the city realized the facts as they were presented at the hearing, there can be no doubt that, despite claims of poverty or economy, there would be a clamor for reform that no officials could withstand.

Lowell has been providentially clear of such epidemics as smallpox or diphtheria on a large scale for some years past, but not less effective for evil has been the relentless tuberculosis that has worked ravages among our workers. Now that intelligent men and women are banded together we may hope for some constructive action that will usher in better conditions. Had Lowell not been carried away by organized insincerity and vilification we would have had an isolation hospital at the present time, and at a price that the city cannot hope to parallel, considering the advantages of site, situation and buildings. Led astray by foolish fears and personal spites, the city refused to listen to the demands of the state, and now our public is beginning to see the enormity of the neglect. We will be lucky indeed if we are not shown very soon by the power of the commonwealth that no personal machinations and no arguments of fake economy can be permitted to jeopardize the health of the people.

CONTRAST IN CAMPAIGNING

One who follows the published accounts of the campaigns being conducted by republicans, progressives and democrats in this state at the present time must come to the conclusion that the democrats are conducting the fairest and most consistent campaign. From Governor Walsh down to the least speaker, each exponent of democratic principles has something positive to offer, and all base the democratic claims on the record of recent achievement, state and national. Whatever the public opinion of their acts may be, no one can deny that they are willing to be judged on their record. They attack no principles and no party, except where compelled to do so by previous attack, but they regard as their main strength the fact that in national politics and in state politics they have kept faith with the public in a degree scarcely paralleled. They do not claim to have made no errors, but they are confident that the slighter things are far outnumbered by the reforms that have been enacted.

How very different is the campaign being waged by the other parties. The recent republican rally in this city is fairly typical of all the republican rallies, and may thus be taken as a criterion. At this rally one heard a great deal of condemnation for all democrats from President Wilson down, but little else. The harmlessly negative republican platform is being followed up by a campaign that promises little or nothing, that makes no reference to the rather unglorious republican record in national politics and the unprogressive regime in republican Massachusetts days. Our contents itself merely with attacking the record of the democratic party. To be sure, the republican party is on the defensive but it would seem that it should have something to offer as a substitute for the administrations it condemns. The Massachusetts public is not apt to be favorably disposed towards a discredited party, merely because of a promise that if Mr. McCall and his followers are elected things will go in "the same old way." The interpretation given to this phrase by old time republicans and by a great many good people in Massachusetts is not quite the same.

Is it not more to the public welfare to elect men to office who have accomplished a great deal and who demand to be judged by these accomplishments than to elect a party of inactive critics who affect a dog-in-the manger attitude? President Wilson has never attempted to evade responsibility for anything he has supported or achieved; Governor Walsh is discussing his state record with entire frankness. Any promises made in national or state circles may be judged in the light of past achievement. Contrast the political tactics of the two parties, and you will not be long in deciding which is acting with the greater honesty.

In reference to this same matter, it is being circulated through republican channels that the progressives are deserting their standard in great numbers. Lowell does not bear witness to this, though one cannot tell until after the state election. If it be true, there can be no choice for the sincere progressive between the policies of the democratic party and the policies of the republican party. The only applied progressiveness of recent years has been shown by the democrats who have achieved a distinction that may be disliked but that cannot be ignored. Between a party that has been aggressive and active and that stands by its actions and one that has been passive and inactive and merely negative, real progressives will be able to choose easily, whether their progressiveness be spelled with a capital letter or not.

EXPORTS INCREASE

Whether due to the recent notes from England to the state department or not, regarding trade understandings during the war, many papers that have hitherto been more or less pessimistic in their discussions of business conditions are calling attention to the recent great increase in exports. According to the Boston Herald: "The trade statistics begin to show in notably favorable volume the rise in export business which has come to this country on account of the war." Evidently the increase in volume has come to such a marked degree that it can no longer be denied or discounted. Trade figures show that not only the neutral countries but the warring nations are purchasing from us and to a degree in excess of previous years. The goods exported are for the most part foodstuffs, clothing and materials of which the belligerents stand in need, and the large demand may be understood when we find that during the last three weeks our export trade has reached a total of $200,000,000.

The boom which seems to be on at last will go a great way in clearing away the stagnation from which American business has partially suffered. Our own mills and factories have shown signs of renewed activity and it is noteworthy that business heads everywhere speak cheerfully of the outlook. It behooves our merchants and manufacturers to make hay while the sun shines, for there is the danger that after a long war the nations may be poor purchasers. Still, this would lighten the competition in the other foreign markets. Regarded from any angle, it looks as though this country is on the brink of a session of unprecedented prosperity which will have beneficial effects in all our industrial centres—Lowell included.

NEWSPAPER "TIPS"

Our automobile page yesterday told how a certain individual who sold fire extinguishers saw an account of a fatal motor boat explosion at a popular lake resort and at once conceived the idea of going there and doing business among other motor boat owners. The plan worked splendidly to the advantage of the boat owners and the seller of fire extinguishers. A little reflection will convince any intelligent person that there is scarcely a line of business that would not be benefited by "tips" in the daily papers—though most persons would scan over the item unthinkingly. A representative of a Boston architectural firm came to this city to look up prospects a few weeks ago, owing to business possibilities seen in Lowell newspapers. In like manner one local salesman at least watches the papers for records of marriages, seeing business possibilities in the setting up of a new home. These are but a few instances of business aid got from newspapers even outside of the advertising columns which need no champion. It may amuse the business man occasionally to knock the newspapers, but if he avails of them fully they will prove his greatest friend.

CARRANZA'S REQUEST

That Carranza, almost president of Mexico, has more ideals than most generals in that distracted country is proved by his recent request to Villa, to wit: that he will retire from the presidency in the name of peace, provided Villa also will retire from Mexican public life. Both men made common cause against Huerta, both secured a large following, both were passively, if not actually, aided by our government, and both were successful. With success came misunderstandings and Villa set out to undermine the authority he himself had set up. Villa's speeches are very noble, but his deeds belie them. He has set very difficult conditions for Carranza to accept. If he is sincere, he will receive the acquiescence of Carranza in the spirit in which it is given and help to bring a peace to Mexico in which personalities, ambitions and spites will not enter. It is apparently up to Villa whether Mexico will have war or peace.

How little we think of the dangers of the miner's life when we enjoy the steam heat of our comfortable homes or sit luxuriously in front of the blazing fire. Occasionally such things as the Royalton, Ill., disaster come to wake us from our lethargy. In the life of the miner, the explosion, cave-in or suffocation by poisonous fumes may come at any moment, and progress does little and can do little to make the life safer. The life underground is terrible at its best, but at its worst it makes a story that has more tragedy than words can tell.

It is certainly a matter for congratulation that the school department was not obliged to put the salary-cut into effect. The members of the school board cannot but know that such would have been a most unpopular policy, though the responsibility would rest with the municipal council. Being a member of the school board this last year was anything but enjoyable.

John Jacob Astor, great-great-grandson of the founder of the famous family, wounded in battle in France. What magic there is in a name, after all?

It is not so much the question "Can we afford it?" as the question "Can we still afford to ignore it?"

Wait till the snow falls; then we can track him.

SEEN AND HEARD

James Junior says it is better to go to bed late than never.

When some couples approach the altar, you wonder why the groom isn't wearing the bridal veil.

It isn't the chickens in the road that cause all the automobile wrecks. It is usually the chickens in the machine.

A fellow likes a girl to act kittenish when they are engaged. But after they are married he discovers that kittens grow up.

Some of the good prohibitionists are going to find heaven a lonely, cheerless, unhappy place. There are no saloons to close up there.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to wear the Prince Albert with the velvet collar and cuffs?

Other businesses have to employ traveling representatives. But the barkeep never has to hunt you up to make a sale.

The reason why a girl always keeps the glass wind-shield up when she is driving an automobile is because the glass acts as a mirror and keeps her from worrying about her looks.

Father and the children use up a lot of time being loyal to the old flag. But it could help some if they would show more loyalty to the old flag represented by mother's apron.

Grandma used to wear a mother hubbard, a pair of Congress gaiters and a shawl over her head, and she was dressed up. But nowadays the only way you can tell grandma from her daughter is that grandma is more liberal in her use of paint and powder.

The old-fashioned man who used to drink his booze barefooted now has a son who preaches against the curse of liquor and gets away with a bottle of Jangers Nervine (guaranteed to contain not more than 8½ per cent alcohol) every three days.

THE APPLE CROP

That apples are abundant this year is a fact that is well known, but one can hardly realize what an abundance there is unless he takes a trip into the country and notes how some of the trees are still laden with the fruit, in spite of the bushels that have fallen off. In this connection it may be interesting to note the apple prices down south. Nearly $163,000 worth of Massachusetts apples are being taken to Rio Janeiro in a Boston vessel, which sailed today to arrive in time for the Brazilian's Christmas. The bark Conway is the craft, and so highly thought of are the red beauties from New England in South America that the apples will retail for 10 cents each. For upward of twenty years, Capt. John W. Balano of the schooner Margaret Thomas carried a big holiday cargo of fruit to Rio, and each year he was greeted with a popular demonstration by Brazilians. The skipper has recently died and the duty of being the apple Santa Claus has devolved on Capt. Davis. Perhaps, sometime, this southern market will be worked for what it is worth, and surplus crops will find a market there instead of in Europe.

Below is given an Andover student's view of Harvard: "I took a stroll through the new freshman dormitories out at Cambridge the other afternoon. The predominant feeling I experienced in making the tour of these three big halls, with their own courtyard and board walks, was very much like that of visiting any one of the numerous colleges that make up the great universities of Oxford or Cambridge in England. There is a sense of isolation about this locality, set apart for the freshmen. Nevertheless, you fully realize that you are quite within the hallowed precincts of the great university. Although these new halls have been occupied less than a fortnight the aspect of newness and fresh paint has already vanished and their atmosphere is as homelike and snug as that of the old dormitories in the college yard. The living rooms I visited were like the typical collegiate den—simply but comfortably furnished and adorned with the usual student paraphernalia. As each of the three halls has its own dining room and reading room there is no lack of accommodations for bringing the freshmen in close touch with each other. Already a freshman debating club has been organized and other social organizations for the promotion of good fellowship are on the tapis. I asked one of the freshmen if the sophomores had included their presence here as yet, having in mind the rude and unwelcome visits the upper classmen were formerly wont to make on the neophytes. 'No,' he said, 'they haven't bothered us a bit, though they drop in occasionally for a friendly call.' Apparently the old hazing days are over. The only discordant note I found in these dormitories was the locks and other fittings of the doors of the main entrances. These all bear the name of Yale in conspicuous letters of shining brass. There was a time at Harvard when this rude intrusion would not have been tolerated beyond a single dark night."

THE APPLE TREE

When an apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat
There isn't any structure in the land that's "got it beat;"
There's nothing man has builded with the beauty or the charm
That can touch the simple grandeur of the monarch of the farm;
There's never any picture from a human being's brush
That has ever caught the radness of a single apple's blush.

When an apple tree's in blossom it is glorious to see,
But that's just a hint at springtime of the better things to be,
That is just a fairy promise from the Great Magician's wand
Of the wonders and the splendors that are waiting just beyond
The distant edge of summer; just a forecast of the treat
When the apple tree is ready for the world to come and eat.

Architects of splendid vision long have labored on the earth
And have raised their dreams in marble, and we've marveled at their worth;
Long the spires of costly churches have looked upward at the sky,
Rich in promise and in beauty they have cheered the passerby,
But I'm sure there's nothing finer for the eye of man to meet
Than an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

There's the promise of the blossoms, red and gleaming in the sun
Like the medals worn by mortals as rewards for labors done;
And the life arms stretched wide open, with a welcome warm and true
In a way that sets you thinking it's intended just for you
There is nothing with a beauty so entrancing, so complete
As an apple tree that's ready for the world to come and eat.

DEATH OF MONARCHIES

Ex-King Manuel of Portugal has counseled his adherents in that country to postpone their contemplated uprising for the restoration of the monarchy until the war in Europe is over. He is a wise young man, inasmuch as the outcome of that war may be the sounding of the knell of monarchical governments and it would hardly be worth while for Manuel to recover his job, even were that possible, only to be fired from it shortly after.—Fall River Globe.

NOTHING THE MATTER

There is nothing the matter with this country and there has been nothing the matter with it. We know what crops we have raised. We know that we have iron and steel and cotton and wheat and corn and manufactured goods of every description, and we know that the world wants these things.—Meriden Journal.

GOVERNMENT

When government is best it will be but a small part of the activity of society. Its principal duties will be to provide police and courts. The citizen's principal relations to government will be to pay taxes and kick. The insistence on publicity will make impossible the enormous waste on armaments. Will make financiers and gun-makers afraid to promote war as is said to have been done in the Balkans.—Lewiston Sun.

THE DIGNITY OF THE COURT

Our Maine supreme court added to its ostensible dignity years ago by borrowing the gown but not the wig of antiquity. Down south the judges are going to the other extreme. In order to increase the demand for southern cotton, the judges in some of the southern courts, notably in Jackson, Miss., appeared Monday in overalls. As a symbol of a working court, overalls are no disgrace. Excellent human beings have been known in overalls—such for example as Edison.—Lewiston Journal.

ADMINISTRATION CRITICS

If a little of the effort that has been spent in denouncing the administration and congress could have been devoted to removing dishonest men from positions in high finance, business would have been in a position to go ahead on a basis of high prosperity.—Lawrence Tribune.

UNITY MISUNDERSTOOD

Never a truer word did a democratic congressman up for re-election say than that a vote for him would be a vote of confidence in President Wilson. President Wilson was congress. The democratic congressmen took their orders from him and did his bidding in every respect. It is a question, however, whether the people of the United States are convinced that the time has arrived for uniting the legislative and the executive functions of the government and placing supreme power in the hands of the president.—Springfield Union.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A Hallowe'en party was held last evening in connection with the regular meeting of Echo lodge, 41, N. E. O. P. Whist was then played the winners being as follows: Carrie L. Mountain, first; Richard A. Curtin, second; Margaret B. McLaren, third; Agnes C. Porter, booby. It was announced that roll would be called at the next meeting. Past Warden Katherine L. Curtin, Margaret B. Bertrand, John J. Riley, Catherine Riley, Richard A. Curtin and Oswald J. Bertrand will have charge of the program at the next meeting.

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F.

At the regular meeting of Centralville lodge, No. 215, I. O. O. F., held last evening in its hall on Bridge street it was voted to hold a "Billerica night" on January 19, 1915, when an invitation will be extended to all Odd Fellows connected with the Boston & Maine repair shops and to all members of Shawsheen lodge, No. 64, of Billerica to be present. Two applications for membership were read and committees were appointed to arrange for socials during the winter months.

S. H. Hines Lodge, K. of P.

The following from the Pythian Gleam was read at the meeting of S. H. Hines lodge, K. of P. last evening: "The lodges of Lowell will unite in a grand patriotic mass meeting in Associate hall in that city on Wednesday evening, November 4. The speakers will include Col. A. P. Donnell of the Massachusetts brigade, U. S., who will give an address on some neglected points in the history of the star spangled banner; Lieut. Colonel Richard Skane, who served in the United States army in Cuba and the Philippines; Captain Percy B. Dakyn, an honor man in the British army in the Boer war; Sergeant Frank G. Thompson, who was an officer on the battleship Maine when it was blown up in Havana harbor, and Captain Charles Remsen, who was an officer in Carranza's army in Mexico. Faulkner company, U. S., of Boston, under the command of Captain Palmer, will also give an exhibition drill."

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of your bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy. Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other and see that yours is made by the fig syrup.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. COL. AND MRS. HEERY DIE

Well Known Aged Couple Passed Away Within a Few Hours of Each Other

A double burial will take place Saturday morning, when the bodies of the late Col. Luke M. Heery and his wife will be laid side by side in St. Patrick's cemetery, the wife having passed away last night, while the husband's demise occurred this morning.

Colonel Heery and his wife had been ill for a long time and it was a question as to which would pass away first, for the attending physicians had given up all hope for the recovery of either.

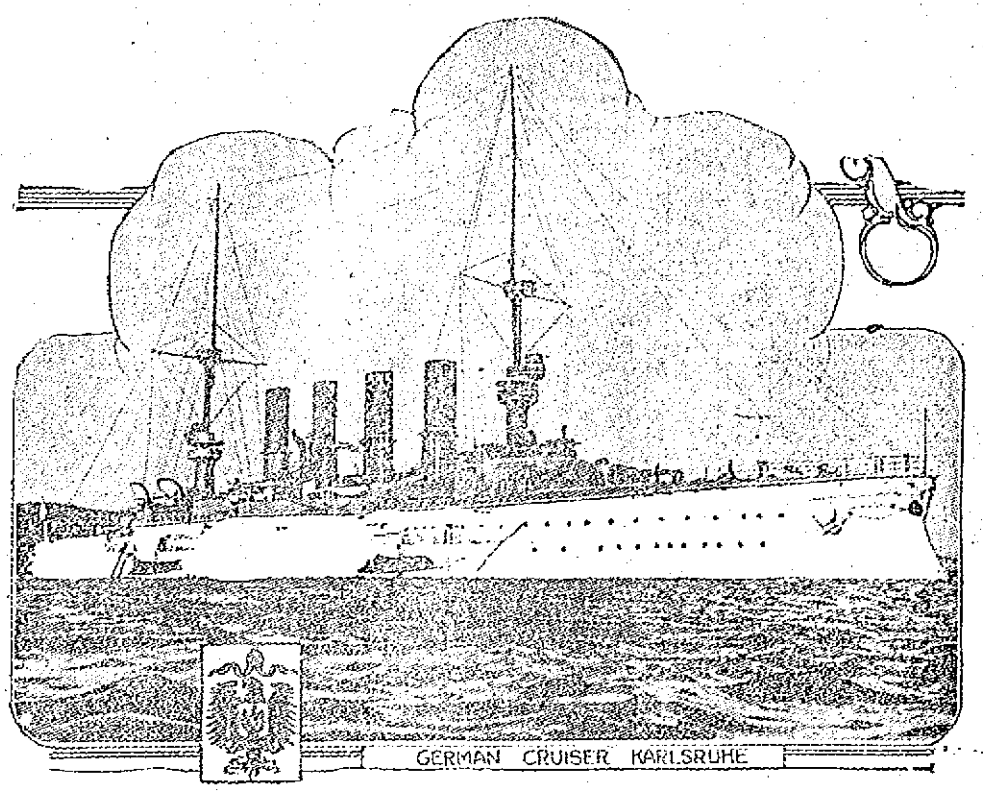
The couple had been residents of this city for many years and they made their home at 8 Shaffer street. Colonel Heery had been one of the best known manufacturers in New England in his younger days and he was quite prominent in political and social circles. For a number of years he conducted a woolen factory in West Chelmsford, with his two brothers, John and James, the firm being known as Heery Bros. After conducting a very successful business in West Chelmsford, the factory was gutted by fire and shortly afterward the brothers removed their business to Versailles, Conn., where success also crowned their efforts.

James Heery married a daughter of the late Thomas Carolin, Miss Elizabeth, while a few years later Luke M. was married to another daughter of Mr. Carolin, Miss Margaret. James died a few years ago and Luke continued the business. Later he gave up the woolen industry and started other enterprises in this city, which he conducted successfully until illness forced him to retire.

Col. Heery was interested in politics in days gone by and at one time he served on Gov. Waller's staff in Connecticut, where he secured the title of colonel. His death will be deeply mourned by his many friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Heery is survived by a brother, Dr. William T. Carolin, while the couple leave a son, Thomas Heery, who is expected in this city today. The two bodies were removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

GERMAN CRUISER KARLSRUHE SOUGHT BY DOZENS OF BRITISH SHIPS IN ATLANTIC



The German cruiser Karlsruhe, of a trifle less than 5000 tons, has had in this war a career as eventful in the Atlantic as that of the smaller German Emden in the Indian ocean. The Karlsruhe first came into notice at the outbreak of the war when she appeared in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, apparently in wait for British merchantmen leaving New York. For a few days the British shipping hugged their piers and then came news that the Karlsruhe had been driven away by the approach of several British cruisers. On Aug. 9 the Karlsruhe appeared in the harbor of San Juan, Porto Rico, where she coaled. Soon afterward the Karlsruhe had a running fight at sea with the British cruisers Suffolk and Essex. Since then she has sunk or captured thirteen British vessels in the Atlantic, while the Emden has sunk or captured twenty-one British craft in the Indian ocean. Searching for these two German cruisers and five or six others and working in concert under various commanders in chief are upward of seventy British, Australian, Japanese, French and Russian cruisers, not including auxiliary cruisers. Among these are a number of the fastest British cruisers. According to the official announcement of the English admiralty, "the percentage of loss is much less than was reckoned on before the war. Out of 4000 British ships engaged in the foreign trade only thirty-nine have been sunk by the enemy, or less than 1 per cent. in all. Besides seven vessels are now overdue in Atlantic waters. Between 8000 and 9000 foreign voyages have been undertaken to and from United Kingdom ports, less than five per 1000 of which have been interfered with. On the other hand, German oversea trade has practically ceased to exist. Nearly all their fast ships which could have been used as auxiliary cruisers, were promptly penned into neutral harbors or have taken refuge in their own. Among the comparatively few German ships which have put to sea, 133 have been captured or nearly four times the number of those lost by the very large British mercantile marine."

BOY DYING AT HOSPITAL

MYSTERY IN STABBING AT CAMBRIDGE—THOMAS J. MAHONEY ATTACKED ON WAY HOME

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Thomas J. Mahoney, 17, of 185 Spring street, East Cambridge, was stabbed in the stomach and groin last night, while on his way from the Cambridge evening high school, shortly after 9:30, and is at the Cambridge Relief hospital, where little hope is held for his recovery.

Frank Perilla, 20, of 417 Otis street, East Cambridge, is under arrest at station 3, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. A jack-knife, with a three-inch blade, sharpened to a fine edge, was found on the mantlepiece at his home when he was arrested.

At midnight the police had not cleared up the mystery. According to the story told by Mahoney, he, Michael Buckley of 45 9th street, Joseph Field of 12 Parnell street and Daniel Herlihy of 16 Winter street, all about 17, were on their way home from the high school building on Broadway.

As they neared Parnell street Perilla suddenly appeared and, it is charged, made a lunge with the knife, striking Mahoney.

Field followed the assailant to Otis street and later pointed out to Special Officer Coady and Patrolman John Walsh the house where he went. The two officers entered and placed Perilla under arrest. He declined to talk.

Manuel Perilla, the young man's father, told the police that his son two weeks ago was assaulted by lads. He added that he supposed the son was on the watch last night for his assailants.

Mahoney was under ether at midnight, with the surgeons still working over him. Ugly gashes were found in the groin and stomach and his chances are thought slight.

The police are inclined to believe that Mahoney was the victim of revenge for someone else's acts.

WRECK GERMAN ARSENAL

BELGIAN TROOPS SUCCEED IN DANGEROUS TASK—CAVALRY OF ALLIES PERFORMING MARVELS

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The vigor of the German attacks on the north was diminished greatly today after they had carried out two surprise assaults during the night which cost both sides dear.

Real success has been attained by the allies, who have not only prevented a breach in their lines but have made considerable progress and now firmly hold the lines from Nieuport to Dixmunde on to the neighborhood of Lille.

Officers who have returned from the front describe a difficult and dangerous task performed by the native troops during the night along the Belgian coast. They surprised and destroyed a German ammunition park, thus putting out of action several German batteries which had caused great annoyance to the allies, who could not reach them with their artillery.

In absolute darkness several natives crept up stealthily and killed the German sentries. They then set fire to a thicket where the ammunition wagons were sheltered, causing all the shells to explode.

The German lines have been visibly thined to the south of Lille and St. Quentin and along the lines of trenches leading to the eastern frontier, but in the neighborhood of Craonne and Berry-au-Bac, on the Aisne, where Gen. Von Kluck is commanding, the German forces are in great strength.

It is believed that the German troops who captured Antwerp are now massed near the Belgian coast, and that they are being assisted by additional divisions which have been brought from the long front where the siege has progressed for so many weeks.

A recurrence of the German offensive was expected near Craonne, where Gen. Von Kluck started a sharp diversion to test the strength of the allies' lines, and was thrown back. Further east, in the Argonne region, and on the frontier, severe fighting continues incessantly, as the result of which the French troops are reported to have made constant progress.

The cavalry of the allies are performing marvels of endurance. One regiment took part in 10 encounters in a single day, at the same time covering more than 40 miles of ground. The other detachments are doing equally well. Their orders are to hold the Germans back and worry them night and day, but they have also developed an offensive movement of their own and have succeeded in driving the Germans on to the reserves.

The allies' artillerymen have successfully adopted a ruse to prevent the German aviators from discovering the positions of their batteries. They keep piles of brushwood near their guns and when a German aeroplane is signalled the brushwood is placed over the guns and the men lie down beneath it, or take shelter in the trees, where they remain immovable until the airman has passed out of sight.

Eight French cannon put 18 German three-inch guns out of action in half an hour between the Aisne and the Oise, and prevented the Germans from effecting a plan to cut communications.

Prior to this French and German cavalry fought to a minor action in which the Germans were repulsed.

GRECIAN TROOPS MOVE TO ASSIST IN OCCUPATION OF SOUTHERN ALBANIA

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A despatch from Athens to the Havas Agency says that the forward march of the Grecian troops who are going to assist in the occupation of southern Albania proceeded in perfect order but amid great enthusiasm by the people. Queen Sophie has been named as honorary commander of the First Regiment of the National Guard.

STUBBORN STRUGGLE NEAR ST. MIHIEL GOING ON FOR SIX WEEKS

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Countess De Chambrun, formerly Miss Clara Longworth of Cincinnati and a sister of ex-Congressman Nicholas Longworth, has received a letter from her husband, who was at one time the French military attache at Washington and is now an officer of an artillery company at the front. In his letter Count De Chambrun says:

"I am now having the great pleasure of directing the artillery fire against our own chateau and I take great enjoyment in seeing piece after piece come down.

"The De Chambrun chateau is near St. Mihiel, where a stubborn struggle has been going on for six weeks since that point has been occupied by the Germans."

CZAR'S ARMY OF 5,000,000 MEN ENGAGED IN BATTLE WITH GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Mail sends the following regarding the fighting in Russia.

"The Germans are astonished and disheartened to always find themselves pitted against fresh troops, full of energy. The secret of this lies in the Russian plan of keeping an immense reserve for every army, changing regiments frequently and never leaving the same men on the firing line long enough to become stale.

"In this way the vastness of the Russian emperor's army of 5,000,000 men is beginning to show a marked influence on the campaign."

GERMAN POLICE TO TAKE DRASTIC OPPRESSIVE MEASURES AGAINST BRITISH

LONDON, Oct. 29.—What the London press describes as reprisals in Berlin in the matter of vigorous handling of the English there are related in a Reuter's Telegram Co. despatch from Berlin by way of The Hague under date of Wednesday.

"The German police authorities," the message says, "are preparing to take even more drastic oppressive measures against the British. The authorities are taking a revised census of British residents with a view to facilitating arrests. Word has gone forth that a clear sweep will be made and it is considered possible that every Englishman in the German capital will be under arrest in a short time.

"The Germans, it is stated, are taking additional precautions against spies and are curtailing the provisions of the English civilians already interned. In some of the concentration camps in Germany the Englishmen are forced to sleep on straw."

GERMAN CRUISER SUNK BY SQUADRON OF BRITISH DESTROYERS

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A squadron of British torpedo boat destroyers has sunk in the Adriatic a German steamer which had been converted into a cruiser, according to a despatch from Barcelona to the Havas news agency.

The Barcelona correspondent explains that this news appears in Publicidades, a Spanish newspaper published at Gibraltar.

The British destroyers rescued 56 members of the crew of the German vessel.

LONDON DENIES REPORT OF FIGHTING BETWEEN BRITISH AND INDIAN TROOPS

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Official denial was given in London today to the report sent out from Berlin, Oct. 27, saying there had been sanguinary encounters between the British garrison and Indian troops at Alexandria, Egypt, and that a court martial held at Alexandria had sentenced 30 men to death.

This German report was from official sources. It was declared today to be an entire fabrication, the best proof of which was found in the fact that no Indian troops are stationed at Alexandria.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Following a conference with President Wilson, Private Sec. Tumulty and Thomas J. Pence, Col. George Harvey said last night: "For the first time in our political history, the opposition is on the defensive. Therefore, my guess is that the democrats will have a majority of between 50 and 100 in the next house of representatives."

Also, he predicted Neeley would beat Curtis and Murdock in Kansas for the senate; that Hogan would beat Harding and Garford in Ohio; Sullivan would beat Sherman and Robbins in Illinois, Gerard would beat Wadsworth in New York.

He thought Husting had an even chance with McGovern for the senate from Wisconsin and that Glynn would be elected governor of New York.

FOR BELGIAN REFUGEES

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 29.—With holds filled to the hatches with food and clothing for Belgian refugees, the British steamer Tremorevah, Nova Scotia's ship of mercy, sailed today for London. The cargo valued at a million dollars was made up of 48 carloads of clothing and 152 carloads of food, all contributed by the people of Nova Scotia.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

QUESTION OF CARRANZA'S RESIGNATION WILL NOT BE DISPOSED OF TILL SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Despatches to the state department late today from the Mexican convention at Aguas Calientes, dated last night, said that many of the delegates were making long speeches and that the question of Carranza's resignation will probably not be disposed of until Saturday or Sunday.

For three days the state department has had no advices from its agents at Aguas Calientes, where the Mexican national convention is discussing Gen. Carranza's resignation as first chief.

Reports from Mexico City that the delegates favor the plan of Ayala as a basis of agrarian reform rather than the plan of Guadalupe were in line with previous indications that the Zapata-Villa coalition was in complete control of the convention as the first of the two plans was adopted by the Zapata chieftain more than a year ago.

FOR RECEIVING REBATES

INDICTMENTS AGAINST SHIPPERS AND RAILROAD FOR ALLOWING INDIRECT REBATES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Although indictments charging the Simmons Manufacturing Co. of Kenosha, Wis., and the Western Pacific railroad with receiving and allowing indirect rebates were voted and drawn ten days ago by the federal grand jury they were not returned when that body met again today.

Learning of the action taken, counsel for the two companies produced witnesses who presented the relations of the railroad and shipper in such a light that the grand jury consented to reconsider its decision and on a second ballot the vote stood ten to indict and ten not to indict. Twelve votes are necessary to indict.

In view of the grand jury's action, the United States attorney's office here announced today that it would try to bring suit on the strength of information laid before the court.

GREEKS LAND TROOPS

NOW HOLD POSSESSION OF SOUTHERN PART OF ALBANIA—WAS OPPOSED BY LONDON

ROME, Oct. 29.—The report that Greece has landed 1200 soldiers at Santiquari, thus taking possession of the southern part of Albania, which gives them entire control of the Corfu channel, is causing a profound impression in Rome as this step on the part of Greece was strongly opposed by the London conference.

"LIBERTY OR DEATH"

Men Who Carried Flag With Above Words Fined in the Superior Court Today

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Joseph Merovitz, business manager of a socialist publication, and William B. Henry of Lynn paid fines in the superior court today for violating the recently enacted red flag law.

The men were arrested last October for carrying a flag in a Boston parade upon which were the words: "Liberty or Death."

These are the first fines yet imposed for this offense.

FEDS MEET JOHNSON

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Federals, and Phil Ball, one of the owners of the local club, are in Tulsa, Okla., today for a conference with Walter Johnson, the Washington pitcher, and it is reported that they went there at Johnson's request.

It is stated here that Manager Jones has set $20,000 as the salary limit, beyond which he will not go to get Johnson.

MEXICANS ARRESTED

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 29.—Three Mexicans charged with organizing a filibustering expedition against Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican town opposite here, were arrested here today by Deputy United States Marshal Allen Walker and United States army officers. Papers found on the prisoners caused suspicion that they had recruited about 1000 men for a raid planned Nov. 8.

There has been a noticeable increase in the number of Mexicans here recently. Carranza sympathizers now hold Nuevo Laredo.

TEDDY OFF FOR NEW YORK

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 29.—Colonel Roosevelt today completed his four days' campaign tour of Pennsylvania in the interest of progressive candidates and left for New York. He spent the night at Huntingdon, Pa., and made half a dozen speeches while traveling to this city.

EYES TROUBLE YOU?

TRY THIS SIMPLE RECEIPT

We all know some remedy for our minor troubles, and by the use of these remedies many a doctor's bill is saved and doubtless many a life.

How few know what to do when their eyes become tired and ache, or feel dry and inflamed from abuse and overuse? In the morning your eyes feel rough or sticky, or they trouble you when you read. What do you do? Most of us rush off and get glasses (perhaps at some cheap store where no skill is used in fitting our eyes), which we very often do not need at all. Thousands are wearing misfit or unnecessary glasses which they might better discard and other thousands can, with a little care, probably so strengthen their eyes that glasses might never be necessary. Here is a free receipt that may be relied upon to give comfort and to help the eyes of some people; it is harmless and has the enthusiastic endorsement of thousands who have used it:

2 Ounces Water.

Use it as an eye wash night and morning, or oftener if possible. It makes most eyes feel fine, quickly allays irritation, brightens the eyes and sharpens the vision. Many who have used it no longer feel the need of glasses; many others have ceased to fear that they will soon be obliged to wear them. Get the Optona tablets from the Riker Jaynes store or from your nearest druggist and prepare the solution at your own home.

TO RECALL MAYOR HURLEY

SIGNATURES OF 2000 VOTERS OBTAINED—SPECIAL MEETING WAS HELD TO NAME OPPONENT

SALEM, Oct. 29.—On petition of the Better Government association a special meeting of the city council was held last evening to fix a date for a caucus to nominate a candidate to oppose the reelection of John F. Hurley as mayor.

Papers purporting to contain the signatures of nearly 2000 voters favoring the recall of Mayor Hurley were filed in the office of the city clerk yesterday morning. The board of registrars began the work of verification at 3 p. m. City Clerk Eatwhistle last evening informed the city council that it would probably be Friday before official findings as to the verification were made public, since a reverification was planned.

Under the provision of the charter the signatures of 1793 voters will be necessary to bring about a recall. The Better Government association, before filing about 200 petitions, checked the names thereon after comparison with the official voting list, and claims more than enough were enrolled to warrant presentation to the city clerk. Consequently the association desires that the "recall" caucuses and finals be held on the same date as the regular city election, which will mean a saving of $1600 in election expenses.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

Forty-Fifth Annual Report Shows Great Scope of Work of Local Institution

The 45th annual report of St. John's hospital embracing the work done by this worthy institution during the years 1912 and 1913 is at hand and contains much interesting reading and statistical matter. Upon perusing the report one is surprised at the great amount of work that is being done at the hospital, as also the great amount of work done for which no remuneration is received. The report also gives a comprehensive idea of the cosmopolitan character of the institution, within whose comforting walls representatives of about every country on earth have at one time or another received medical and surgical aid.

Dr. Huntress' Statement

Introductory to the report is a statement prepared by Dr. Leonard M. Huntress, president of the hospital faculty, which reads as follows:

"In spite of the fact that there are in Lowell three hospitals of fair dimensions, it is certainly true that this city has not hospital room sufficient to accommodate all patients who seek hospital treatment in time of an epidemic. The staff hoped that before this report was printed the new wing for which we have so long waited would be built. But this was not to be. In all probability, however, this will be accomplished before another year goes by, and then we shall have approximately twice our present number of beds. Only the most careful management has enabled the institution to care so well during all these years for all our patients, and now to be in a position to promise with confidence that we shall soon have our increased accommodations which we so sorely need.

It is not pleasant to beg, but hospitals are often obliged to resort to this expedient, and the public thinks no less of them for so doing. Even crusades of begging are permitted in communities. Yes, they are often applauded. Now, it is not our intention to start a crusade or even to hint at such a thing but we feel it our right to call the attention of the public to the fact that in this hospital the city of Lowell has a worthy institution which deserves much at their hands. We have just made use of the word "beg." We should have used some other word. For it is not begging to ask for fair pay for work performed or goods delivered; and this hospital would be more than satisfied if it could receive that.

We have often heard St. John's hospital spoken of as an emergency hospital. Certainly this is in a sense true, for, owing to its central location, as well as its well-earned reputation, a large percentage of the emergency cases of the city are brought here. But a careful study of the statistics of this report will show the large number of medical cases treated here with marked success, and the varied character of the surgical operations which have been followed by results of which we believe we have reason to be proud.

As a matter of fact, all of the Lowell hospitals are today showing every bit as good results as the hospitals in the larger cities, and we ask you to bear this statement in mind in studying the statistics of the laparotomies and especially of the appendectomies in this report.

Not seldom a Lowell patient goes to one of the larger cities to place himself in the hands of a surgeon of nation wide or world wide reputation, when he could receive just as skilful surgical treatment and just as good hospital care in this city.

Since our last report was printed St. John's hospital has met with a sad and serious loss in the death of Dr. Robert E. Bell, for many years a member of our surgical staff. Dr. Bell was so well known and so well beloved in Lowell that no eulogium is necessary. He was recognized as one of our ablest specialists on the eye, ear and throat, while as an all round physician and surgeon he was a credit to this hospital, to the city of Lowell and to his profession.

We are pleased to be able to endorse the management of the training school for nurses. The care and discrimination shown in the admission of candidates to the school, and the thoroughness used in their training on both medical and surgical sides of the hospital may assure the public that a diploma from this training school stands for real merit.

We can think of no more fitting motto for a hospital than "deeds not words."

So we simply desire to call attention to what is being done here. In other words, we ask you to study the statistics.

In their statement to their patrons, the Sisters of Charity, after expressing their deep appreciation of the interest taken by the public in the hospital call attention to the following facts:

During the past two years, 253 persons were given free treatment in the hospital and 247 persons were treated who only paid in part; 693 accident cases were treated free in the emergency department, and 11,102 treatments were given in the out-patient department; hence, it is evident that, with the increased cost of maintenance of today, the receipts from the board of patients must fall far short of the expenditures for them, and that a deficit is unavoidable, even with the strictest economy, while improvements are impossible without the assistance of generous contributions.

The hospital still has in reserve, as a nucleus for the building fund for the new wing, to which we are still looking forward, a portion of the legacies already received, and trust that other kind friends of St. John's will, by their gifts, enable us to see our hopes realized.

Among the many urgent needs which the contemplated new wing would supply is a department for maternity cases, the applications for such accommodations having been very numerous during the past few years; an addition of this character would obviate the necessity of sending our nurses out of the city for their obstetrical training, and would prove a great benefit to many.

Interesting Statistics

During the years 1912, 1913, there were admitted to the hospital proper 2100 patients (this does not include the out-patient department). Of these, 1406 were discharged as cured; 345 were discharged as improved; 79 discharged unimproved, while there were 180 deaths. Of the total number of deaths 66 died within 24 hours.

When one considers the fact that in a great number of cases the patient is not taken to the hospital until in a dying condition, the mortality of the institution is remarkably low. Of the total number of patients received, 353 were free cases for which the hospital received no remuneration whatever, 247 were cases paying in part, while the remaining number who paid in full received treatment for the bare cost thereof, for the institution is not run to make money.

In the emergency department there were 894 accident cases, while 346 cases were brought in by the city ambulance and 865 accident cases that returned for treatment, making a total of 2075.

In the out-patient department there were 2501 new cases treated in the dispensary and 7736 old cases, making a total of 10,237.

The surgical operations performed at the hospital during the two years numbered 1055, an average of about three per day. These operations were classed as follows: General surgical operations, 702; gynecological, 143; eye, ear, nose and throat, 250.

The social status of the patients shows that while a majority were natives of this country, including about every state in the Union, there were several hundred foreigners among the patients representing 27 foreign countries, including Greece, Arabia, Armenia, Asia Minor, Syria, Turkey, Russia, and other remote quarters of the globe for class or creed is never considered at St. John's.

The report of the emergency department states: Much is done for the poor of Lowell in this department, since the majority of cases treated either do not pay at all or scarcely pay for material used.

In his report of the X-ray department, Dr. Joseph A. Mehan, who is the roentgenologist of the hospital, says:

Previous to June, 1913, the work was done with a portable coil and radiographs obtained after long exposure to the rays. In June we had installed a SureX transformer, which allows a much greater scope of work and reduces the time of exposure to the minimum. With a coil it took from 15 to 30 seconds' exposure for a radiograph of an elbow, but with the transformer the time of exposure is reduced to one second.

With the transformer it became possible to do "bismuth work" and 11 cases were radiographed for the purpose of showing the outline of the stomach and intestines as the bismuth passed through. This part of the work will become of greater importance and will help in the early diagnosis of disease of the digestive tract. Our next report will undoubtedly contain many cases of abnormal condition shown by bismuth.

The total number of radiographs was 436.

In his report for the St. John's Hospital society, the purpose of which is to lend moral and material assistance to the hospital, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, president of the society, says:

The officers of the society and many citizens, including well known physicians who understand the needs of the hospital and the work it is doing, asked the municipal council for a grant of money to cover at least in part the work which the hospital has been doing for a long time practically gratuitously; the request was based on the ground that the hospital relieves the city of a great burden which would naturally fall upon it otherwise, and brought out the fact that the hospital does much work for the city's needy at a cost entirely out of proportion with rates established by the industrial accident board for such work.

While it was not possible to obtain relief in this direction during the present year, it is hoped that the opinion may soon prevail that such a grant of money will not be regarded merely as a grant to a private institution, but as the partial payment for invaluable service which must be furnished the people of the city in their just needs."

GENTLY ASSISTING NATURE

Those who find their breath bad in the morning, a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, a mean feeling in the head, will do well to try Pinklets, the new laxative.

Constipation, which these symptoms denote, is dangerous because it means that poisonous materials which should have been expelled from the body are being retained. It is a condition which, if not corrected, becomes chronic.

Even chronic constipation can be corrected by care in the diet and persistent treatment with a gentle laxative.

The use of harsh laxatives, unfortunately so common, gives temporary relief but in the end aggravates constipation. Pinklets are dainty, sugar-coated pills, hardly larger than a mustard seed and they act gently, causing no nausea or griping. They aid digestion and are a good after-dinner pill especially when more food has been taken than the needs of the body require. They clear away the waste and prevent congestion. With a little persistence, which the result is well worth, they really correct chronic constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free sample.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Master baby must be under his doctor's orders when open air sleeping is talked about, for it is not always wise to expose a very young delicate child too much, especially in a changeable or damp climate, but most physicians and mothers advocate the daily nap in the open air.

For this purpose, various clever contrivances in the way of swinging hammocks are provided. The most extensive but not prohibitive styles have detachable canvas roofs which may be slanted at various angles to keep off sun or wind. A new kind has the hammock of a porous hemp which has a canvas sheath, the latter to be drawn up over the thinner fabric in cold weather.

The sides should be high and the pillow or mattress inside not too high so as to keep the child from falling out. It pays also to get a good, firm frame. These fold up when traveling or when stored indoors, as they should be when not in use, unless kept in a very sheltered corner, because baby's bed must always be dry. It is advisable to put a hot water bottle at a child's feet when sleeping out of doors in cold weather.

If you are looking about for gifts for a new baby there are a few simple suggestions which it will be well to bear in mind. Dainty little slips, plainly gathered into neck and sleeve bands edged with a little valenciennes lace may be made at home, but excellently wearing varieties may be bought from one dollar and a half upward.

Select something for immediate use, such as caps, bibs, flannel skirts, mittens, sweaters and the like. A set of seven little slips or night gowns makes a nice outfit—one clean for every day of the week. The newest caps have ribbon run through the material, but separate bows and rosettes are always acceptable since they soil so easily, and a baby to be attractive must be immaculate.

The newest bibs have underarm extensions tied across the back with ribbons, and these are very convenient. For two dollars and upward one can find many pretty the bibs, and these are always needed sooner or later.

All the care possible for the cows and all the sterilizing that can be given to milk cans and bottles goes for naught if the housewife does not use precautions on her side. The housewife does her part by dipping all these bottles in boiling water and after letting them boil five minutes they are stacked in yard until, at the time the quarantine is lifted, the board of health comes and washes them all again with disinfectant.

The milk in sealed bottles is supposed to reach her in a sanitary condition, but when she pours it out does she always remember to wipe the mouth of the bottle off first with a clean cloth? Does she press the paper seal down into contact with the milk inside when opening the bottle or does she remember to remove the seal with a sharp instrument which keeps the milk from absorbing any soil from the seal?

The bottle should always be covered again quickly when not in use and kept covered in the refrigerator, so that it will not absorb impurities. Do not replace the paper seal when the bottle is once opened. Cover the top with a glass tumbler or butter plate instead and never pour back into the jar any milk that has once been removed.

If we attempt to harden our children during the periods of rapid growth, the consequences may be disastrous. These periods of rapid growth are between the fourth and fifth, and ninth and the tenth and the thirteenth and the fifteenth years.

During the first few years of a child's life it is necessary only to adapt his body to indoor temperatures, and suitably clad, to varying outdoor temperatures. The child should not be given even mildly cold baths before he is three or four years of age, and this in the morning.

Up to the time he is fourteen a short stimulating bath in the morning is all that is necessary. Regularity in this matter is important. Safety and comfort are the criteria, depending upon the susceptibility of the child.

Careful mothers will not give children pennies and nickles with which to purchase cakes and candies at noon, as their selection for sweets is seldom in accordance with the laws of digestion. Such fruits as bananas, oranges and apples are easily packed, and are better for a school child than rich cake and pie.

Occasionally, hard-boiled eggs, accompanied by plain bread and butter, may be substituted for cold meat sandwiches. Little jars of potato or chicken salad can easily be put into the lunch basket and sometimes pickles and olives vary the midday school meal.

A modified club sandwich, and one which comprises almost a meal in itself, is made of two slices of bread toasted on one side, the other side is buttered and lettuce, small piece of bacon, a piece of cold chicken or other fowl, a slice of pickle and a little Mayonnaise dressing constitute the filling.

The well baby needs simple guidance to see that he keeps well; the sick baby needs, and usually gets attention in the effort to make him well; but the merely delicate baby, with enfeebled powers of resistance to disease and of constant low vitality, needs both guidance and the best attention that medical science affords.

The basis of all modern medicine is prevention of disease. To keep the baby well is far easier, safer and surer than to cure him after he has once become ill. It takes very little to cause illness in the baby, and the result is often seemingly out of all proportion to the cause.

The same digestive disturbances that, in an adult, would cause at the most a passing discomfort, will result in acute illness in the baby, often with the most disastrous effect, and the infection which passes the adult by finds a quick victim in the baby.

THE SPELLBINDER

The utter lack of enthusiasm over the different republican candidates in this campaign is the best evidence of the fact that the republican party, locally at least, is badly on the rocks. Shortly after the nominations were made Hon. Horton H. Hilton, chairman of the republican city committee, with other party hustlers started a movement to revive the city committee and to get up some of the old time interest and enthusiasm that was ever on tap in the state campaigns. Whether you may agree with Mr. Hilton politically or not you must admit that he is a staunch party man, a hustler and an untiring worker for the cause, and the man to place at the head of such a movement. But the task was too big even for "Hortie," and nothing has been done to get the revival going. It was suggested that prominent republicans be seen and asked for contributions and they were seen, but again there was nothing doing. Last Saturday night the republicans had a rally with the candidate for governor and our own congressman as the principal speakers. The usual street parade was held with a band at its head. But such a parade for the republican party of Lowell to hold! Outside of the mounted contingent from Dracut, there were only a straggling few in line, while the 400 or more at the hall included nearly as many democrats as republicans and it certainly was a cold gathering. In the senatorial contests too, the usual interest in the republican candidates is not to be found. Candidate Kimball of Littleton hasn't shown up in Lowell, publicly thus far, while Candidate Marchand is obliged to make a personal canvass to hold his own party. The republican party in Lowell is in a deplorable state of decay at the present time.

On the other hand, despite the untiring efforts of the Courier-Citizen to make its readers believe that there is democratic disaffection in Lowell that condition is not evident to any material extent. While the democratic rally of last evening was held under difficulties by reason of the fact that no hall was available on that particular date, it was in every way successful and augured well for Tuesday's results.

The Senatorial Contests

It is a long time since the democrats of wards five and nine have taken such a lively interest in their senatorial candidate as is manifest in Henry F. Dunn, of Lynn, who in a comparatively short time has made himself well known and decidedly popular. His enthusiasm and optimism have proven infectious and he'll get every democratic vote in the two wards. Up to Tuesday evening Candidate Kimball was comparatively unknown even by reputation in Lowell and few were aware of the fact that he is a member of the legislature. They knew him by reputation after Mr. Dunn had finished his recital of his opponent's record, however, for the democratic candidate showed a surprising familiarity with the affairs of the state house and particularly with his opponent's legislative record. Candidate Kimball hasn't made any speeches in Lowell, as yet, and as the time is drawing close, it is doubtful that the Lowell voters will be given the pleasure of listening to him.

One progressive candidate who will get a fine vote in this city is Dr. Livingston, the senatorial candidate in the eighth district, for there is an element in the republican party which, while it would not support a democrat under any circumstances, will not vote for Candidate George E. Marchand and will throw its support to Dr. Livingston. But Dr. Livingston can hardly be elected and Senator Draper will succeed himself.

Rep. Jewett's Job

The republican legislative committee of the general court has assigned Representative Victor Jewett to cooperate with the republican candidates in all the local districts and one of his duties will be "to attempt to arouse an interest in the prominent republican citizens who may be inclined to manifest only an apathetic sympathy in the present local contests." "Apathetic," by the way, means indifferent, lacking in interest, and has no reference to that element of the party whose title is included in the first three letters of the word. It's rather rough on Victor, who has troubles of his own in the 17th district, to insist on him going forth into the bailiwick of others. The leaders must imagine that Mr. Jewett has a walkover in his own district. Why was Representative Achin ignored in the choice of this arousing committee since it is a recognized fact that "Vic and Hen" have always done their most successful work in combination. There's Eddie Killpatrick who didn't show up at Vic's love feast to the defeated candidates, yet to be squared, and there is also a significant silence relative to the "heavenly twins," Achin and Jewett, a slogan that was heard in all corners of the district in the past; an indication that there may be a split somewhere.

Rep. Kiggins' Contest

While former-Alderman Burt Crosby is a good fellow, and in every way qualified for the position of representative from the 15th district, there is no good reason why Representative John J. Kiggins, after a satisfactory record at the state house should not be given a second term. The only criticism that has been made concerning Representative Kiggins is that he missed, I believe, some few roll-calls. The critics, however, simply make the bare statement and let it go at that, while the voter if he chooses to, may draw the inference that Representative Kiggins was careless or indifferent to the duties of his position. During his term of office, Representative Kiggins was married and absented himself for a week or more while on his honeymoon. The roll-calls referred to came up during his absence and there were no measures of particular importance among them, a fact which the critics took care not to explain.

Rep. Brennan's Friends Confident

The temporary alarm of the friends of Representative Brennan over the appearance of Michael A. Lee, a former democrat and business agent of a strong labor union, as the progressive candidate in the 15th district, has abated as it would appear that the democrats and labor men alike are taking the right view of the matter, and while they admire Mr. Lee personally, will not throw down a man whose labor record is without a flaw by making possible the election of Mr. Colburn, through the medium of complimentary votes for the third candidate. Thus far Representative Brennan's opponents have offered no word of criticism as to his conduct or record, and they could not offer any did they so desire. He favored the different amendments to the workingmen's compensation bill that came up during the year and voted for the referendum on the proposition for Saturday half holidays for city laborers and for two weeks' vacation for those laborers, two matters which properly should go before the people for enactment. On the firemen's two-platoon bill so-called, which has caused much discussion throughout the state, Rep. Brennan was right, for he voted for both the initiative and the referendum on this important measure. The bill now provides that in cities of 50,000 or more if 25 per cent. of the voters desire the change; the proposition shall be placed on the ballot for action by the entire electorate. Thus the bill as at present constituted is far from being an attempt to shove unpopular legislation down the throats of the people for 25 per cent. of the voters must favor placing it on the ballot before it shall come up at all. Representative Brennan worked hard for the progress of the proposition to make the Merrimack river navigable and in fact was on the right side of all measures affecting this locality and its people. As town clerk of Dracut for eight years he was familiar with legislative procedure and had a wide acquaintance in the different state departments upon entering upon his legislative career. He is clearly entitled to a second term. The voters of Dracut will rally to his support despite the fact that the republican candidate is also a resident of that town for they are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct during the past session and believe that he should receive a second term.

Mayor Has Been Studying

Do you know what a social survey is? I read the Courier-Citizen's account of it, but all that I could make out of it was, that whatever it may be, it will cost between $5000 and $15,000. The Courier-Citizen informs us that Mayor Murphy has been studying the problem, having made some inquiries with a view to finding out the chances for a study of this city at a reasonable cost. About the time that His Honor was brushing up on what a social survey might be, the city was in such bad shape financially that the municipal council was attempting to use the cemetery trust funds to tide over the treasury and the local banks were on the verge of a panic as the result of the sudden withdrawal of those funds therefrom, while the employes of the assessors' office were writing out the largest tax bills ever presented to a long-suffering public. It would seem that His Honor, if he feels studiously inclined, could better employ his time by studying the financial problems that daily confront him as the city's executive head, with a view to running the municipality "at a reasonable cost."

But listen! Isn't the board of trade with its social survey scheme butting in upon the prerogatives of the Lowell city planning board, whoever they may be? It looks that way, and the members of the planning board should proceed to assert themselves, lest some outside experts come in and get away with the cabbage. Where does the board of trade's slogan about patronizing home industries come in, when we have a home industry known as the planning board, looking for something to do?

And anyway, what's the use of paying from $5000 to $15,000 for a social survey with the present administration on deck. If they didn't like it, they'd blame it onto last year's government, while if they did like it they wouldn't know what to do with it, as they couldn't borrow any trust funds to put it into effect.

A Frosty Debut

Commissioner Brown, after a brief sojourn in New York, opened his campaign Monday noon at the Machine Shop gate, before a large but cold and greatly disappointed audience, which included a large number of city hall employes. The crowd was there to "hear something" anent the recent sensational happenings at city hall and was disappointed, for the commissioner wasn't there with anything of a sensational nature and even "stalled" badly, on a question as to why he changed his vote on the Putnam matter. Mr. Brown devoted most of his time to the time-honored statement that the newspapers are against him and as he proceeded, "General" Shields who was an interested spectator, cried out: "Tell us why you changed your vote on the Putnam matter." But the commissioner didn't come back with the answer whereupon the crowd lost all interest in his remarks. Straws show how the wind is blowing.

"I Did; You Didn't"

This controversy between J. Joseph O'Connor and Congressman Rogers, while quite amusing to those who understand it thoroughly, is hardly worth the energy that both candidates are wasting on it. Had Mr. O'Connor in his original statement declared that Congressman Rogers "had not voted for" the proposition to appropriate money for the protection of children along the canal banks, he would have stated the absolute truth and there would have been no comeback. But he stated that the congressman voted against the proposition, which was inaccurate. Congressman Rogers in reply to Mr. O'Connor, cleverly words his denial, and says: "The records of the common council for 1911 show that the measure was unanimously passed, 24 votes being cast in favor and none against." Thus the reader is impressed with the apparent fact that as the vote was unanimous the congressman must have voted for the proposition. But on second thought he recalls the fact that under the old form of government there were nine wards, each with three members of the common council, making a total membership of 27, and hence a complete unanimous vote should total 27, instead of 24. But the statement of the congressman was correct for on this occasion there were three members absent from the meeting and one of them was John Jacob Rogers himself, who was in Europe or some other equally delightful place at the time, and thus Mr. Rogers did not vote for the proposition. Mr. Rogers in his denial says: Loose statements by a political candidate are to be deplored; false statements abhorred." How about misleading statements, Mr. Congressman? Along with the truth and nothing but the truth, the law requires a third feature, known as the "whole truth."

It was Harry W. J. Howe, then of charity board fame, who originated the idea of having ladders, life preservers, etc., along the canals for the protection of children, would-be suicides and all others who should wander too close to the water. Harry enlisted the co-operation of John "Nixey" Coughlin, then a member of the common council, and "Nixey" introduced an order for the appointment of a committee to look into the matter. They looked for opposition on the part of Councilman Rogers because of his father's connection with the Locks and Canals company, and were prepared to meet his opposition by calling attention to the fact that Councilman Rogers himself had spent his childhood days on the banks of the Pawtucket canal, as a resident of Pawtucket street, but had been afforded protection by means of a big fence that enclosed the lower end of the Rogers property, along the canal bank; and he would be asked to give the same protection to the children of the poor that had been given to him in the days of his childhood. But whether or not Mr. Rogers knew what was in store for him, he put the kibosh on it, by voting for the appointment of the committee to look into the canals, or rather to look into the proposition relative to making the canals less dangerous. As large bodies move slowly, it was a couple of months later when the council got around to voting an appropriation for the ladders, etc., and Mr. Rogers was out of the city.

In passing, it might be interesting to note that while Mr. Rogers is waxing eloquent over the wrongs of the mill people in the south, as yet there is nothing suggestive of velvet or clover in the lives of the operatives of the mills in his own district.

Like the Old Days

One man who probably wasn't disturbed in the least over the recent riotous proceedings in the office of the commissioner of streets was Commissioner Morse himself, for the excitement must simply have reminded him of the good old days in Arizona, where the boys lived on excitement and scalps, with the war-whoops of savage redskins to lull them to sleep and the blue canopy of heaven to keep the mosquitoes off them while they wooed the goddess of slumber. Ah, those were the happy days, when bouncing a paving block on the enemy's bean would have been considered only child's play.

As Col. Carmichael once remarked:
"And were they real Indians?"
"S-u-r-e!"
"Oh, Gee!"

Making the Merrimack Navigable

The board of trade is having a lot of talk, some meetings and an occasional feed, relative to making the Merrimack river navigable but as yet it has overlooked the co-operation of two men who have done more in a practical way to bring about the navigability of our beloved river than all others, and they are Contractor Gow who is at present constructing something for the water department on the boulevard, and former Commissioner Andrew B. Barrett, both of whom certainly deserve places on the board's committee on navigable rivers.

Last year when Commissioner Barrett was running a pipe under the Merrimack river, it was necessary to transport sand across the Aiken street bridge and then into the river bed, by horse-power, the horses often going up to their trunks in water. The method was slow and inconvenient and one day while the commissioner was trying to think up a way to get around the difficulty his attention was attracted to a man in a dory nearby, who was fishing. Calling the boatman to the shore Commissioner Barrett asked him if he would like a job, and he replied affirmatively.

"How much will you charge me for yourself and the dory, to lug sand across the river to where the men are at work?" asked the commissioner.

"Mebbee one dollar an' a half a day," was the answer.

"Your hired," said the commissioner and immediately the boatman went to work and at the end of the day it was learned that he had transported 126 loads of sand while the horses had been delivering 89 loads. The boatman told a few friends that night and when Commissioner Barrett appeared on the scene the following day he found a fleet of dories awaiting him. He hired three of them and from that time forth all sand was transported across the Merrimack which was made navigable for the time being.

And now comes Mr. Gow from Boston, on the boulevard job, who is going to do business on even a greater scale than the former commissioner for he is going to build a scow and carry the sand across the river in wholesale lots. Thus once more is the river made navigable.

Need of Auto Ambulance

The need of an automobile ambulance was clearly and painfully demonstrated at the sad accident at the Vocational school on Monday when but for the kindness of a citizen who was passing in an automobile, the mangled Kenney boy would have been forced to remain unattended and unrelieved, until the arrival of the horse-drawn ambulance with its subsequent slow trip across the city to the hospital. The auto-ambulance is much more needed than the auto patrol-wagon or the auto of the commissioner of streets, or those of the other departments, barring the fire department, but the money for this much-needed improvement was voted by last year's government which fact in itself was sufficient to kill the proposition in the present administration.

And Still They Come

The announcement that Elias McQuade, Jr. had been held up on his own doorsteps last Saturday night, a happening that could not be kept from the public, led to the disclosure of the news of another robbery that occurred in Belvidere a week or more ago but about which nothing had been said until the McQuade incident came out. The thugs are certainly getting bold when they are operating in the mayor's own territory, but then Belvidere appears to be a fairly good place to commit a murder, anyway. On Saturday nights the patrolman who watches the Oaklands route is obliged to come way down to lower East Merrimack street, surely over a mile, during the night, and he can't spread himself over a mile of square territory at one time, not even on Saturday night. The frequency of these holdups, murders and other disquieting happenings has thoroughly alarmed many people and it is said that one of the municipal commissioners has been alarmed to such an extent that he has armed himself with a revolver though there is no record to show that he has secured the necessary permission to carry the weapon.

Westford Street Paving

The residents of Westford street are beginning to awake to the fact that the municipal council has shown poor judgment in putting down heavy and noisy stone paving blocks in a residential street when vitrified wooden blocks such as are being used in other cities would have been much better as they are almost noiseless and would have worn as well as the stone blocks. An engineer of national prominence is authority for the claim that vitrified wooden blocks properly laid will outwear granite blocks on streets of moderate travel such as prevails on Westford street. The wooden blocks are almost noiseless and are just the thing for residential streets. They are not furnished by the Hildreth or any other granite company, though that fact wouldn't necessarily operate against them. Then again, judging from recent happenings they would be a much safer block to keep around the office of the street commissioner than the granite article. It might be added, too, that there are a lot of wooden blocks walking around in Lowell, which if corralled would be of more use in the streets than on the sidewalks.

SHOOTING IN STREETS

A SERIOUS REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK OCCURRED IN PORT AU PRINCE LAST NIGHT

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 29.—A serious revolutionary outbreak occurred in Port Au Prince last night as a result of the landing of Charles Zamour, a brother of the president of the republic. There was shooting in the streets of the city throughout the night and the encounters continued today. The members of the ministry have taken refuge in the foreign consulates.

SHOOTING IN HAZING UPHELD

Grand Jury to Take No Action Against Students of St. John's

"Freshies" Can Use Weapons to Defend Themselves

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 29.—That under class men may defend themselves against hazers with deadly weapons and even take life without incurring any punishment is the principle of the unwritten law established by the grand jury for Anne Arundel county. Yesterday it notified the court that it would not present the five students of St. John's college who were concerned in the shooting of William R. Bowlus, who tried to force their door for the purpose of hazing them last May.

One of the five shot through the door, inflicting the wound upon Bowlus from which he died.

The jury was composed of 23 members and it was unanimous that no action should be taken against the under-class men, four of whom are still students at the college.

The bond of $1500 under which they were held has been released.

COMING TO LOWELL FROM WEST, BUT ACTED STRANGELY IN WORCESTER DEPOT

WORCESTER, Oct. 29.—With $840 in gold on his person, John J. De Aguiar became deranged at the Union station last night, as he was passing through the city, and is at the City hospital awaiting the arrival of Joseph De Aguiar of Lowell, his brother.

The man at the hospital was on his way from Crockett county, Calif., to Lowell, and had to make his last change of trains in Worcester. He missed his train and was wandering around the station aimlessly and complaining that a gang was after his money. The police were notified and took him in charge. He was unable to talk intelligently of himself. A leather money bag was found on the calf of each of his legs, each containing 21 $20 gold pieces.

Joseph De Aguiar, a Lowell storekeeper, called the police here seeking news of his brother and will come here after him.

CENTRALVILLE M. E. CHURCH

The harvest supper and entertainment at the Centralville M. E. church last evening was largely attended. The supper was much enjoyed. The entertainment, with Mr. Edward Leith as pianist and chairman of committee, consisted of the Kitchen orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Chas. Thomas and Mr. Fred Timmins, from the Highland M. E. church. The instruments consisted of all kinds of kitchen material with the zylo attached and each member of the orchestra was gowned in the kitchen apron and cap. The music, though weird, caused much merriment among the audience. Mr. Timmins, base zylo solo, "Asleep in the Deep," and his funny stories were the hits of the evening. Miss Grace Kendrick sang in a charming manner two beautiful solos. The orchestra played several selections during the entertainment, which ended with the "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." The orchestra numbered 20 pieces. The supper was under the direction of the Ladies' Aid of the church.

Possibly through illness, or possibly neglect, your teeth are gradually losing their usefulness and surely their attractiveness.

Take advantage of the situation before it is too late. Face yourself in a mirror. Be frank with yourself. Don't waver. Isn't it really embarrassing to you and surely to your friends to appear in company with foul breath and discolored teeth?

Wouldn't it be an investment that would yield a hundredfold dividend to come to me and have your teeth examined; to know the honest, unvarnished truth of the case?

GARRISON URGES MASS. TO BACK PRES. WILSON

Secretary of War Says Republicans are Snipers Without Issues—Olney Says Lowering of Wilson's Prestige Would be a Calamity—Gov. Walsh Speaks

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 28.—Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, speaking with Gov. Walsh at a mammoth democratic rally in the Auditorium last night, urged Massachusetts to reelect its democratic state officials, whose defeat, he said, would be heralded as a defeat of the president and the principles for which he and the democratic party stands.

He read a letter written by Hon. Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey, in which the ex-secretary of state said that "to weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people would be a calamity."

Other speakers were Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York; Lieut. Gov. Barry and Prof. Edward M. Lewis, candidate for congress.

These, with other state and local candidates, also spoke at rallies in Holyoke, Northampton and Easthampton, and Sec. Garrison spoke in Holyoke, where the audience numbered 1000.

"Unorganized Snipers"

In his speech here, Sec. Garrison said the republican party had no definite program "and our antlered opponent has apparently gone off in search of a sequestered salt lick."

He referred to the republicans and the progressives as "unorganized snipers taking pot shots from ambush and cover."

"With respect to conditions existing in this country before the war broke out in Europe," he said, "they know that many of the things of which they complain were beyond the control of any part or of any administration in this country, and that many other conditions were those which they had created—not we—and which we, not they, were trying to correct.

"Since the war broke out they attempt to attribute the consequences which inevitably fell upon this country to the party in power. They know and you know that this charge is the product of partisan ingenuity. It is without basis or merit and need not be dwelt upon.

Sec. Garrison said that one striking result of the war was the way it had served to "cast into bold relief the masterful figure of the president. Against its lurid background his calm, patient, sagacious, self-controlled and controlling figure stands out like the Washington monument against the sky."

Referring to the critics of the president, he said:

"Their whole campaign is one of whispers and nods and innuendo. They speak slightingly of the president's handling—but do not say what would have been right. They know that it preserved peace—were they for war? Ask them, and they stand mute.

"And so with the tariff bill. If any one thing is clear and is true it is that the American people wanted the tariff duties reduced. The republican party promised to reduce them and broke its promise. The democratic party promised to reduce them and kept its promise. The republicans wink and nod and thrug, but fail to tell us what they would do."

"If by your votes," continued Sec. Garrison, "you discredit President Wilson and the democratic party you thereby publicly advertise that you don't want honest-minded, hard-working representatives, who strive to ascertain the public will and to enforce it."

Letter From Richard Olney

Sec. Garrison indorsed the local candidates, and then read a letter from Richard Olney to Col. George Harvey regarding President Wilson's administration, which was, in part, as follows:

"Personally, I have been immensely impressed with what has been done in so short a space.

"A high protective antiquated tariff, for example, full of absurdities and abuses, has been subjected to a reasonable downward revision, has been supplemented by an income tax, which puts upon wealth a larger and fairer share of the burdens of taxation, and signalizes the passing, never to return, of such legislative crudities and extravagances of the Dingley bill and the Payne-Aldrich bill.

"The federal reserve bill inaugurates a new era in the financial history of the country, and in the judgment of bankers, business men, and experts generally will gradually but surely do away with the confusion and chaos which have heretofore disgraced American finance.

"The trust legislation and the Alaska railroad bill also embody legislation which may fitly be described as essentially constructive. It is not claimed, it is not to be claimed, that these measures, or any of them, are the last words on the subjects they relate to. At this very writing the federal reserve act, studied by statesmen and experts of all parties with the utmost diligence and enacted with as much deliberation and care as any statute ever had, is before congress for amendments believed to be necessary and proper.

President a World Asset

"It is to be remembered that these measures represent a new order of things. They have been brought about in the face of fierce opposition by the lovers of the old order and no doubt embody more or less unavoidable, even is undesirable, compromises and concessions. Yet, when all is said, they at least make good beginnings, are steps in the right direction, and are faulty, if at all, rather in matter of detail than in point of sound principle.

"If the democratic party showed great sagacity in picking Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, it has shown no less in trusting itself to his leadership. It was that trust which brought about the repeal of the 'Panama Canal tolls exemption' through the votes of many congressmen who honestly doubted the justice and wisdom of the repeal. They now unquestionably plume themselves upon their action.

"They now unquestionably realize that, because of that repeal of the president's Mexican policy, and because of the good faith, sincerity, disinterestedness and law-abidingness which mark the president's course in both these cases, the United States today occupies a position of supreme importance in the world. It is the one great power not party to the awful carnage which is now desolating Europe and making modern civilization seem a sham and a reproach. It acts in foreign relations through its president and is the one agency through which ending the war can be urged upon the belligerents with the best chance of a hearing.

"To weaken the president's prestige at this crisis, to make it appear that he and his administration are not trusted and supported by the American people, would be a calamity. At this juncture, and until discredited by some overt act of the American people, the president of the United States is not a democratic asset merely, nor even an American asset, but an asset of the civilized world. It is due to ourselves, to the unhappy warring nations, and to humanity generally, that we do nothing to impair its value."

Gov. Walsh on Health Board

Gov. Walsh in his speeches here and at Northampton and Holyoke said in part:

"In our own state for five years past there has been an energetic effort by public-spirited men interested in this great problem to secure an efficient and responsible state health department.

"It ought not to be necessary to emphasize the importance of this great problem, but in this state in 1912, out of a total of 52,250 deaths, there were 10,300 deaths of children under one year. I wonder if our people realize that 117 children out of every 1000 in Massachusetts die in their first year.

"There are 6000 deaths each year in Massachusetts from tuberculosis, and the expense for the 6000 persons dying from tuberculosis every year in their sickness and loss of wages amount to more than $25,000,000, practically the whole burden being borne by the poor.

"Massachusetts has four times as many deaths from typhoid, proportionately to population, as the city of London.

"The cost of living investigation in 1910 showed that this commonwealth paid for preventable death and serious illness in the year 1908 $52,137,112, and it was shown that 120,000 are estimated constantly to be sick in the commonwealth, one-half of which illness is preventable.

"I was with a knowledge of these sad facts and with the realization that our state health administration system was inadequate in the needs of our people that I called upon the legislature in my inaugural for the enactment of legislation to provide for a paid health commissioner.

"I regret to say that some republican legislative leaders were so blind to the necessities of the situation or so narrow in their partisanship as to attempt to defeat the measure in the closing hours of the legislative session. But despite their efforts the law was placed upon the statute books and I have secured as health commissioner one of the most experienced and best known health authorities in the country, whose duty and experience are based upon years of active service both in the United States and Europe.

"He is to assume office within a few days and I shall then name the advisory council which is to co-operate with him in this the greatest work to which the agencies of the state can be directed.

"I would be content to rest my whole claim for re-election upon the usefulness and importance of this great reform in our state health administration."

Atty.-Gen. Thomas J. Boynton said in part:

"Democrats are often taunted with the question as to what they have done to reduce the cost of living.

"At the outbreak of the great European war the monopolies in control of various food products saw in that war a ready excuse for a substantial advance in prices. Such an advance would have been as was planned, purely artificial and unjustifiable.

"But, foreseeing this move, I at once detailed Asst. Atty. Gen. Seagrave to make a thorough investigation.

BERLIN ADMITS DEFEAT BY RUSSIANS IN POLAND

London Says the Invasion of Russia Seems Definitely Checked and the Czar's Victory There is Expected to Seriously Affect the Austrian Attempt to Recapture Galicia

BERLIN, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 29.—The German and Austrian troops in Poland, according to an official announcement issued in Berlin yesterday, have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian forces advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novogeorgievsk after having repulsed all former Russian attacks.

"At first the Russians did not follow and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. The reserve troops will change their formation according to the situation."

DEFEAT OF GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN POLAND IN SEVEN DAYS' BATTLE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Defeat has overtaken the main German and Austrian army in Poland, in a struggle that approaches the magnitude of a decisive battle.

The invasion of Russia seems definitely checked and the czar's victory there is expected to seriously affect the Austrian attempt to recapture Galicia.

After days of fighting before Warsaw and Ivangorod and along the Vistula river, the teutonic allies found they had run against an impenetrable line of defense. In this situation they were assailed by overwhelming numbers of Russians. The battle lasted more than a week before the Germans gave way and began a retreat toward Silesia.

KING GEORGE'S COUSIN WAS KILLED IN BATTLE

Prince Maurice of Battenberg the First Member of British Royal Family to be Killed in Present War—Recently Commended by General French

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Prince Maurice of Battenberg, a cousin of King George and a son of Princess Henry of Battenberg, has been killed in battle in France. He was an officer of the king's royal rifle corps.

Prince Maurice was the first member of the British royal family to be killed in the present war. It was reported that the prince was not actually killed on the field of battle, but that he died afterward from wounds received in an engagement. King George and Queen Mary visited Kensington palace yesterday afternoon to condole with Princess Henry, his mother.

Two brothers of Prince Maurice also went to the front, Lieut. Prince Alexander of the Royal Grenadier Guards and Lieut. Prince Leopold of the king's royal rifle corps. Prince Leopold was invalided home recently suffering from an injury to his knee, the result of a fall.

Prince Henry of Battenberg, father of the three princes, died from typhoid fever while on service in the Ashanti.

Prince Maurice Victor Donald of Battenberg was the youngest son of Prince Henry of Battenberg, who married Princess Beatrice, a sister of the late King Edward. The prince was the brother-in-law of the king of Spain.

He was 23 years old and since 1911 had been a second lieutenant in the king's royal rifle corps. Field Marshal Sir John French, the commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary force in France, in his report to Minister of War Kitchener, given out on Oct. 16, mentioned the prince for meritorious service in the field.

Carpenters' Meeting

The members of the Carpenters' union, local 1610, held a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting last evening in the union headquarters in the Runels building and a grist of important business was transacted. Three new members were admitted and one application received and turned over to the investigating committee who will submit a report at the next meeting to be held next Wednesday evening. Communications from various sources were read and properly referred and committee reports of much import were favorably acted upon. Several of the members spoke interestingly and instructively on the good of the union and their remarks were listened to with much attention. The secretary's report showed the union to be in a strong financial condition, and for this time of year a good share of the members steadily employed.

Halloween Party

Tomorrow night promises to be the banner night for the employes of the J. L. Challoux store in Merrimack square, the occasion being the annual Halloween party which will be held in the North Chelmsford town hall. Every clerk will attend and the majority will dress grotesquely for the affair. Ducking for apples and other kindred games will of course hold the boards in the early part of the evening, after which dancing will be enjoyed to the strains of one of Lowell's leading orchestras. Mr. N. Walker has charge of the arrangements.

Decrease in Child Labor

Child labor is decreasing so rapidly in the United States that it soon will cease to be a matter of reproach. The census bureau, within the last week, has issued reports showing the number of children between the ages of 10 and 15 years engaged in gainful occupations in four of the great manufacturing cities of the country in the years 1900 and 1910. The cities are Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland. In 1900 there were 50,711 children between 10 and 15 years old at work in those cities. In 1910 the number had decreased to 39,810. Meantime the population of those cities had increased 721,983, or from 3,116,778 to 3,838,741. In other words, despite a gain of 23 per cent. in population there was a reduction of more than 20 per cent. in the actual number of children employed in those four cities and they probably represent the situation throughout the nation.

Mill News

The Valley Falls company, Albion, R. I., have been making various improvements around their mills in order to add to the attractiveness of their appearance. The company is running full time with a full complement of help on a line of fine lawns.

The silk mills of Cheney Brothers, South Manchester, Conn., have placed an order for a number of silk spinning machines with the H. & B. American Machine company, of Pawtucket, R. I.

The Stark mills, Manchester, N. H., have had great demands on their duck and canvas departments on account of the war. The heaviest quality of canvas manufactured, suitable for tents, stretchers, etc., is wanted. Towels and toweling are also in big demand. The company have recently shipped to New York for final manufacture three big carloads of towel material. This will be turned into single towels at that point and rushed as fast as possible to England. Meantime about 10,000 dozen more towels are being made here as fast as possible to be shipped direct to the same market. As a result of this increased demand the duck, canvas and toweling departments of the Stark company are working to their fullest capacity with the greatest quota of operatives that the machinery and buildings will accommodate, which has not been the case in this particular branch for a number of years. All the surplus stock manufactured in recent months and in the storehouses has been cleaned out. It is not altogether improbable that the increased and increasing demand for the class of foods referred to may be met in the near future by an increase in the canvas, duck and toweling machinery, with the necessary additional operatives to run it.

TEST CASE ON CLAM DIGGING

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—A test case involving a question of the validity of the rule of the state board of health forbidding the digging of clams in certain sections will go to the supreme court on exceptions taken yesterday in the superior criminal court at the trial of William Walsh, a clam digger, charged with violating the order of the state board.

A jury before Judge Quinn found the defendant guilty, the court having decided adversely on requests for rulings made by the defendant, who contends that the state board exceeded its powers in making such an order.

Clam diggers are anxious to have the court determine the issue. They contend that the description of the bounds of contaminated waters in which the digging of clams is prohibited is not reasonably made.

BROTHER WAS DEAD

WOMAN GOES TO DOOR EXPECTING HIM, BUT IT WAS POLICEMAN WITH MESSAGE

HAVERHILL, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth Paradis of 484 Washington street expected her brother, John McDonald, to return home yesterday from an apple picking trip to New York state. When she went to the door to greet him she met Inspector Hussey of the police with a message that her brother had been killed at Rochester, N. Y., Monday night, by slipping beneath the wheels of the train upon which he intended to come back to Haverhill.

Mrs. Paradis requested Coroner Kilby at Rochester to send the body back to her home. McDonald was 37 years old and unmarried.

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES FRIDAY

Tomorrow's Sun Will Contain the "Quarter Century" Article and Other Bright Special Discussions

The Old Timer holds forth on some interesting early Catholic history of Lowell, dating back to Indian days, and shows what Lowell societies were doing quarter of a century ago. Many well known people appeared in a grand bazaar in aid of the Young Women's Home, the predecessor of the present Ayer Home.

The girls who are prevented from wearing short sleeves because of unsightly arm blemishes, rough appearing elbows, scaly skin, etc., will be interested in the discussion of the "Beauty of the Arms," appearing under the caption, "The Rabbit's Foot" tomorrow in The Sun. Various means of doing away with dead skin and generally beautifying the arms will be described, as will methods of preventing arm blemishes.

"I want to fix my room over for the winter, Marie," remarked Majorie to the French Maid. Marjorie sought a change from the summer outfit. Whereupon Marie has given valuable suggestions for furnishing, decorating and generally adding to the attractiveness and cosiness of the bedroom. Marie's ideas will be given in The Sun Friday in "What the French Maid Said."

"The Last Rose" is the title of the little "Sleepytime Tale" which parents may read to the little ones from Friday's Sun. It tells how the last rose helped and cheered a poor little sick girl through the aid of the fairies.

An interesting suburban article will also be included in the list of tomorrow's Sun features.

TO INCREASE FREIGHT RATES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Oral arguments for and against the application of eastern railroads for a general advance in freight rates began today before the inter-state commerce commission. The arguments may be concluded today or tomorrow and the commission is expected to take up the case at the November conference for an early decision.

BRUSH FIRE IN PAWTUCKETVILLE

A New Principle in Complexion Treatment

Most creams are injurious when used habitually. They clog the pores and eventually form a permanent, soggy, stifling film which interferes with eliminative action and makes the skin sickly and pasty. There is an application—mercolized wax—which acts upon an entirely different principle. While perfectly harmless, it has the peculiar property of removing by absorption the dead and half-dead particles of scarf-skin, as well as unhealthy matter in the pores. Thus it takes away from instead of adding to the complexion, differing in this respect from cosmetics. The result is a perfectly natural and healthy young complexion. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

The correct principle in the treatment of wrinkles is to tighten the skin, which naturally irons out the lines. A face bath, remarkably effective in this direction, may be made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE

Special Meeting to Take Action on Death of James J. Gray—Tribute by William P. Peters

A special meeting of the New England league will be called to take action on the death of James J. Gray. A delegation of baseball men attended the funeral today.

Tribute by Billy Peters

William P. Peters, sporting editor of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and official scorer of the New England league pays the following tribute to the late James J. Gray:

In the passing of James J. Gray, late manager and part owner of the Lowell baseball team, the game suffers a great loss. "Jimmy" Gray was a successful baseball manager. He showed his capabilities earlier in life when he ran a professional basketball team and it was a big winner. He wasn't long in baseball before he duplicated his basketball experience.

Gray was only a little over five seasons at the helm in Lowell, but in that time he piloted two championship ball clubs—in 1911 and 1913. Many considered his 1913 team the strongest aggregation ever gathered together in the New England league. In 1912 when Lawrence won the pennant, Gray's club was right on the heels of the locals until the last week of the season. In four of the five full seasons which Gray spent in the league, he finished in the first division in four—a most creditable performance when it is recalled that Gray was not a paying manager and neither had he experience as a player.

Gray was no lightwad. He was always willing to go the full limit for players; every one of whom have only praise for the way in which he treated them. Gray was liberal in all senses. He "dug" deep for many things which later on inflicted a sting.

He was often imposed upon on account of his open pocketbook and his good nature, but he never complained. He took his medicine like a man. "Jimmy" Gray was a good sport and on the level all the time. He liked sport for sport's sake, and he has proven time and again, when although he suffered financial losses, he kept his word with the Lowell public. Gray always refused to transfer games even though he were sure that he would gain much financially by so doing. He was loyal to the Lowell fans and the one regret is that they sometimes did not give him as much support and encouragement as he deserved.

"Jimmy" Gray was Lawrence's rival, but from our point of view we unhesitatingly say that no better, squarer or gamer opponent lived than he. He took no undue advantages, fought his hardest and then if he lost out, he was the first to extend the hand. In 1912, when Lawrence beat out Lowell in a close race, the night that the championship was settled the first telegram to reach Louis P. Pieper was from James J. Gray and it read: "Did everything to beat you but failed. Accept my congratulations." Deep in the hearts of local fandom there was a warm spot ever for Gray.

It will be a long time before the New England league replaces Jimmy Gray. The league was the better for his coming into it. His sole thought at all times was to do something that would push the league forward and if everybody did as much as he did the league would be much stronger than it is today.

"Jimmy" Gray's life was not wasted. He left behind a record which all might profitably follow. That applies not alone to baseball but to his life as a son and brother and as a citizen of Lowell. He was a dutiful son and his care of an aged father will bear testimony of this. In fact, Jimmy Gray had so many good traits that it is hard to enumerate them all. This much can be truthfully said—he had few bad traits and no enemies. None had but words of praise for him who has now been called to the great beyond. Peace to the ashes of James J. Gray—a credit to all.

Deal on With Lawrence

"Allie" Moulton, the second baseman of the Lynn New England league team for the past two years, will not wear a Lynn uniform next year under Manager Louis Pieper. This is the story that comes from Lawrence.

Pieper has started work and a big trade is now in the air between the Lynn and Lawrence clubs. The new manager passed up all connections with the Lawrence team yesterday. He resigned the presidency and Dan Noonan was elected to succeed him. Noonan and Sullivan are now the only stockholders of the Lawrence club, although a certain Mr. Quinn of New York is said to own one of Noonan's shares.

"Mike" Lynch and Harry Aubrey, the star veterans who aided Lawrence to win the pennant last season, were given their unconditional releases yesterday.

Although it was impossible to verify the story of a proposed trade between the two clubs today, the chances are that the deal will go through. Three Lynn players are going to Lawrence in exchange for three of the champions. "Allie" Moulton's name is the only one mentioned thus far.

Lynch, "Larry" Mahoney and either Conley, O'Donnell or "Del" Howard will come here. The other two Lynn men have not been mentioned.

Manager Louis Pieper admitted this yesterday afternoon at Lawrence, although he would not announce the names of the players in the deal. It is a well known fact that Moulton is considered one of the premier second sackers in the circuit but it costs real money for his services and this is said to be the reason that he is to go to Lawrence.

It was impossible to get President Eugene S. Fraser this morning in an effort to verify the story to this end. Pieper is anxious to put on a winner this season, but it is impossible to state if the going of Moulton will make a hit. "Allie" is one of the most popular players who ever wore a Lynn uniform but it is a cinch that if Mahoney is brought here Moulton will have to go. It is impossible to even guess the other men who will go. Perhaps they will not go as Lynch is a free agent and can sign a Lynn contract if he wishes. In order to get Mahoney and one other man, however, Lynn will be forced to give up two men in return.

Pieper is now ready to give all his time to the Lynn club. He bid all his friends in Lawrence goodby yesterday and told them that he would be back with the best team in the New England league next season.

The Lynn manager has secured a house in Swampscott. He secured this yesterday and will bring his family, composed of his wife and three children, to Swampscott immediately, where he will spend the winter.—Lynn News.

CANNONADING HEARD

C. Cs. DEFEAT SUN ARMY

Amid the crash of duckpins and the booming of the heavy bowling artillery of Kittredge's alleys yesterday afternoon, the Sun's battalion of fusileers strove desperately to withstand the onslaught of the Courier-Citizen ublans, but—like the allies in the early set-tos across the pond—were obliged to give ground. After the last subaltern had left the trenches and the ambulance corps had completed its ministrations, it was found that the Courier-Citizen forces had battered down twelve hundred and ninety pins; while the volunteers from across the Meuse, pardon, the square, had dented the wooden phalanx for a total of twelve hundred and fifty hickorites.

Throughout the engagement, Sharpshooter Woodies of the C. Cs. delivered a withering fire, dropping 290 of the wooden boys. For The Sun, Colonel McCurdy had the accuracy of a Kentucky marksman, leading his team with an aggregate of 266.

LOWELL BOXER AWARDED VERDICT OVER YOUNG CHAKAS AT MANCHESTER, N. H.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 29.—Young Chakas of Manchester lost to Phinney Boyle of Lowell in the feature bout of 12 rounds before the McElwain A. C. last night. The decision was not a popular one, a majority being of the opinion that the local boxer had a shade the better of the bout. In the semifinals Young Lavoie of Manchester knocked out Young Lorenzo of Boston in the second round and in the preliminary, Young Nelson of Manchester won from Young Burns of Hillsboro.

ARE READY FOR BATTLE

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN TEAM IN BOSTON TO PLAY HARVARD SATURDAY

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 29.—The university of Michigan football team ready to tackle Harvard Saturday in the first big game of the season in the stadium was due to arrive in Boston this noon. It was planned to have the players go at once to Auburndale, where they will have their headquarters. Although an offer of the use of the Waltham high school grounds for practice this afternoon awaited them it was expected that Coach Yost would give his men no work today other than a tramp and run over the suburban roads and field.

Crimson supporters encouraged by the return to practice of several of the regulars recently injured expressed enthusiasm over the drop kicking ability shown by Mahan yesterday. They were hopeful that his work Saturday would partly atone for the absence of Captain Brickley.

The first mass meeting for the Harvard team will be held tonight, when the students will practice songs and cheers.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

A few of Gilmore's promised four surprises are expected to develop during the meeting in Chicago, says a New York paper. Smart baseball men, among them some of the major league club owners, have diagnosed one surprise as the desertion of Walter Johnson.

It has been learned that Johnson has exhausted the patience of Clark Griffith. In spite of the fact that the peerless Walter had his first poor season in 1914 he evidently wishes the earth as terms for a 1915 contract. Griffith came to a parting of the ways with the big fellow at the close of the season, it is said. The Old Fox offered Walter $15,000 for next year and was laughed at for his generosity. Griffith says he will go no higher. The Wards are said to have offered Johnson $75,000 for three years.

Organized ball will not countenance such salaries, which would mean bankruptcy. It would not be surprising if men of Walter Johnson's renown are allowed to go to the Federals if the outlaws are willing to pay such fabulous salaries. There would be no surer way of discouraging the independent enterprise than saddling it with such heavy financial burdens. The major league club presidents, it is said, have determined not to go far beyond the safety zone even to retain those few idols who are free from all obligations save the reserve clause.

A story from St. Louis said that Fielder Jones had taken a pocketful of Fed cash and set out for Coffeyville, Kan., Johnson's home, to sign the big pitcher.

Jack Doyle, now scouting for the White Sox, was a catcher before he was a first baseman and he caught the renowned Amos Rusie. He therefore spoke with authority when he descanted on the relative ability of Rusie and the greatest modern speed merchant, Walter Johnson.

"Johnson's fast ball is faster than Rusie's," said Doyle, "yet Amos had a faster and wickeder curve. But in holding Rusie and Johnson up to view as the speediest pitchers, there's one bygone pitcher who is overlooked. I mean Charley Nichols. Though not as fast as Rusie or Johnson he was good and fast, and his speed was all the more effective because sent up with an easy motion.

"Nichols was the best pitcher I ever saw to take another pitcher's game, and for that reason there never was another pitcher who was more valuable to his team than he was to the Bostons. By taking over another pitcher's game I mean going in when that other pitcher was in bad, and he could do that effectively even if he had pitched the day before. There haven't been any more useful pitchers than Nick."

One of the oddities of the present baseball season arose in a Federal league game between the St. Louis and Pittsburgh teams. Larue Kirby of St. Louis batted out of turn. The bases were filled and Kirby cleared them with a long hit. The opposing captain was "wise," and when he appealed to the umpire the official called out the man who should have batted, which is according to rule. The runners had to go back and Kirby had to bat over. All he did was to make another solid hit, drive in runs again and win the game.

WOMEN TO WATCH BOUT

The bout will take place on the afternoon of Nov. 18 and will be free of charge. The exhibition will precede the 10-round go which has been scheduled for the evening of that date.

The boxers will appear in gymnasium suits and show the women just what a real boxing match is like. An orchestra will be engaged for the afternoon.

WOOL INDUSTRY

Adams Firm's Receivers See Bright Future Ahead

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Edwin K. McPeek and George H. Holden, receivers of the Adams Woolen company of Adams, filed a report in the United States court yesterday. The indebtedness amounts to $44,915.25, of which $39,076.79 is accounts payable to 100 creditors and $5825.44, bills payable.

The receivers believe that it is possible with the present condition of the woolen business, and the bright outlook for the immediate future, to pay eventually the creditors dollar for dollar. They have been running the plant four and a half months, having taken it without any cash on hand and made a profit of $7625.29.

WITH ROGER SULLIVAN

Candidacy of Illinois Man Endorsed By the Administration at Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson considers the endorsement given to the candidacy of Roger Sullivan in Illinois by Postmaster-General Burleson as sufficient and will not write a letter endorsing Mr. Sullivan as he has to some other candidates. That was stated today authoritatively. Mr. Burleson, with the consent of the president, said in a speech at Peoria, Ill., recently that the administration was for Mr. Sullivan. Secretary Bryan was opposed to the nomination of Sullivan.

Chairman McCombs, chairman of the democratic national committee, and some other leaders have come out openly for him.

CANNOT REMOVE BODY

COURT DECIDES DANIEL E. WATSON CANNOT TAKE BODY OF WIFE FROM HER FATHER'S LOT

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Daniel E. Watson loses his suit against his father-in-law, Charles E. Colbert, for an injunction to restrain the latter from interfering with his removing the body of his wife from a lot owner by the father to one recently purchased by him in Holyhood cemetery.

Both families are well known and the controversy over the remains of Mrs. Watson has excited interest among their acquaintances.

Judge Jenney, in the equity session of the superior court, yesterday dismissed the bill brought by Watson. He heard the case last week. Watson alleged he arranged, at the urgent request of his father-in-law, to allow the body to be buried temporarily in the Colbert family lot. The defendant contended that no suggestion of temporary burial was made.

"The funeral arrangements were made immediately after the death amid much grief," said Judge Jenney in his decision. "I do not believe either side has intended to mislead the court. I am inclined to believe the plaintiff did not understand the legal effect of what he did.

"However, taking all the evidence into consideration and considering also the fact that when a temporary reinterment is intended the body is usually deposited in a receiving tomb, I find that the arrangements for the burial were not of a temporary character, and that the plaintiff surrendered the privilege of her burial to her father."

DESTROYER ON SANDBAR

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 29.—The destroyer Paulding on a sandbar at Lynhaven had settled some today. Her crew is still aboard but they will soon be transferred to the naval station here. The weather is good and the ship is said to be in no danger.

$81,000 FOR SUFFERERS

SWISS AMERICANS LOYALLY ANSWER CALL FOR AID OF FELLOW COUNTRYMEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Swiss Americans in the United States have loyally answered the call for aid of their fellow countrymen who are innocent sufferers from the effects of the war. Eighty-one thousand dollars already has been contributed to the relief fund collected by the Swiss minister, Dr. Paul Ritter.

The money has been deposited in New York banks to the credit of the Swiss bundesrat (federal council) to be drawn upon by them and administered as they see fit.

Trade in Switzerland is naturally affected by the war but conditions are steadily improving, it was stated at the legation today, and there seems little possibility that the neutrality of that country will be violated.

NASHUA HAS DEMOCRATIC RALLY

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 29.—Congressman Raymond B. Stevens of New Hampshire and United States Senator Charles F. Johnson of Maine were the chief speakers at a democratic rally which filled city hall last night. Albert W. Noone, candidate for governor, and Timothy F. O'Connor, candidate for county solicitor, gave brief talks.

Congressman Stevens devoted much of his time to the record of Senator Gallinger, whom he declared had voted on the side of the special interests on every measure during his 25 years in the senate.

REINFORCEMENTS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Several carloads of reinforcements for Governor Maytorena at Nogales, Sonora, are expected hourly to arrive from Ensenada, according to a report to the war department today from Brigadier General Bliss. The reinforcements are understood to include 170 men, 35 mules and 16 mountain guns. The situation at Naco is reported unchanged. The Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta is being reinforced from Naco.

BANKS WARNED

To Pay in Gold in Making Transfer to the Federal System

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Notices from the federal reserve board were going forward today to member banks in the new system to use gold or lawful money in making transfers of reserve deposits to the regional institutions. The order also will apply to capital stock subscriptions to reserve banks to be made by the member institutions.

It is aimed to provide the regional banks immediately with money and will permit the ready issue of reserve notes to member institutions. The transfer of reserves will be begun after the secretary of the treasury gives formal notification of the opening of the regional banks, Nov. 16.

"It is the desire of the board, the notice to the banks stated, to arrange for the actual physical transfer of the first instalment in such a manner as to create the least possible disturbance to business conditions in any city or section."

FIFTY MEN SACRIFICED

AIR PUMPS REVERSED IN ROYALTON MINE DISASTER TO SAVE THREE HUNDRED LIVES

ROYALTON, Ill., Oct. 29.—The disaster at the mine of the Franklin Coal and Coke company near here Tuesday from the workings of which 50 bodies have been recovered, was caused by the explosion by a miner's lamp of a pocket of gas located the night before by a mine inspector and marked dangerous.

A large proportion of the dead were sacrificed, it was said yesterday, in order to save the lives of nearly 200 others in more distant workings. Reversal of the air pumps saved 285 miners scattered among the galleries, at the expense of dooming to death those in the zone of the explosion who had escaped being disabled and were trying to reach the air shaft.

Reversal of the pumps kept the main workings free of afterdamp, but most of the dead, it is thought, were thereby forced to become its victims.

These facts were brought out yesterday when the near completion of the work of rescue made investigation possible. The facts regarding the cause of the gas explosion were brought out by members of the state mining board.

Street Work Report

The first definite statement relative to street, sidewalk and sewer work for the year was given out by Mayor Murphy today. The figures did not come from the street department office, but were obtained by the mayor from the city engineer's office. Mayor Murphy said that later on he would prepare a statement including the names of streets operated upon, the streets named in the various appropriations, the amounts appropriated for the different jobs, comparing the work of this year with that of last year.

Amount of Sewer Work

The amount of sewer work done this year, up to Oct. 17, measured 11,093 linear feet, or 2.1 miles. This is exclusive of the Mt. Washington, Upham street, South Wilder street and Lawrence street sewers. The mayor could not state just how much of the total amount appropriated for sewers had been expended, but he said there is no reason why the street department cannot live within its appropriations in all cases.

Graveling and Macadamizing

The number of linear feet of street graveled up to Oct. 10 was 18,217, or 54,651 square yards. The amount of macadamizing done up to Oct. 10 was 47,752.4 square yards. The number of square yards covered with oil up to Oct. 1 was 1,024,966. Four coats were applied, though in the beginning it was stated by Mr. Morse that only one coat a year would be necessary. The first coat covered 533,161.6 square yds.; the second coat, 370,480; the third, 93,556.4, and the fourth, 8468.8 square yds.

Street Paving Work

The amount of paving work done, in which grouted paving blocks were used, was as follows: Plain street, 996.15 square yards; Gorham street, 5977.75, and Westford street, 7304.58 square yards. This amount of work was done up to Oct. 10, and since that time considerable work has been done, of course, in Gorham and Westford streets.

Edgestones and Concrete

The amount of curved edgestone laid up to Oct. 10 was 266 linear feet. The amount of straight edgestone was 2582.2 ft. The number of square yards of concrete sidewalks laid up to Oct. 19 was as follows: Hard concrete, 3967.1 yards; hard topdressing, 1928.6; concrete, 622.5; topdressing, 964.6.

Granolithic Sidewalks

The number of yards of granolithic sidewalks laid up to Oct. 10, was as follows: West side of Wilder street near normal school, 265.2 yards; south side of Broadway near normal school 259.1 yards; south side of Merrimack street, opposite the Y. M. C. A. building, 648.2 square yards.

Registrar of Labor

John C. Gilbert, state registrar of labor, was a caller at city hall this forenoon. The system for the registration of laborers and mechanics in the employ of the city will be installed by Mr. Gilbert in the board of registrars headquarters in the city hall basement on Monday. All of the necessary paraphernalia for the installation of the system is now at city hall. The system includes a great many forms and the mayor's private office is piled high with literature. Some of the forms were printed in Boston, but most of them were printed here. Patrick J. Reynolds will have charge of the bureau in this city and he will let the public know, through the press, when he is ready for business. Mr. Reynolds, though paid by the city, will be in every other sense a state officer.

OPPOSED PARDON

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 29.—Arthur G. Eaton, the former Portland insurance manager who was conditionally pardoned by the governor and council yesterday, after serving two years of a seven year term for larceny and forgery, is liable to be sentenced on 11 counts of which he stands convicted, according to County Attorney Samuel L. Bates.

Mr. Bates today announced that he will move for sentence at the January term of the superior court. He sent a letter to Gov. Haines, remonstrating against the granting of the pardon petition, he said.

NOT TO OPEN COFFEE EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The board of managers of the New York coffee exchange voted today not to open the exchange, as had been proposed, at the expiration of the British Moratorium, Nov. 4.

"A NAUTICAL KNOT"

"A Nautical Knot," a two-act operetta will be given at the Sacred Heart school hall this evening and indications point to a most successful performance. The final rehearsal was held last evening and every detail was carried out to perfection. Borjes' orchestra will assist during the progress of the piece and will also play a series of selections before the opening act.

"A Nautical Knot" will be repeated tomorrow evening so those unable to attend tonight should secure tickets for the second performance.

SING SING INVESTIGATION

SUSPENDED WARDEN NOTIFIES DISTRICT ATTORNEY THAT HE WILL ANSWER QUESTIONS

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 29—T. J. McCormick, the suspended warden of Sing Sing prison, admitted today that David A. Sullivan, now serving a sentence in Sing Sing prison for the part he played in wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, had frequently been outside the prison on automobile rides. Mr. McCormick's admission was made on the witness stand in the investigation started today by Stephen C. Baldwin of Brooklyn, Gov. Glynn's special commissioner.

McCormick was the first witness called. He testified that Sullivan had been detailed to drive the automobile and that the detail was in line with McCormick's policy of having all work done by prisoners wherever possible.

Only a few questions were asked the witness before the hearing was deferred until this afternoon to await the arrival of District Attorney Cropsey of King's county.

WILLING TO TALK

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—T. J. McCormick, the suspended warden of Sing Sing prison, sent word today to District Attorney Cropsey that he was willing to come down to Brooklyn and answer any questions that the district attorney might ask him. Mr. Cropsey so announced, adding that John J. Molloy, auditor at Sing Sing, now in prison in contempt of court for failure to testify before the grand jury had been instructed by John B. Riley, superintendent of prisons, to tell all he knows.

Before leaving this forenoon for Sing Sing, where he will attend the investigation of prison affairs conducted there by Stephen C. Baldwin, Governor Glynn's special commissioner, District Attorney Cropsey said that the October grand jury would be discharged today as had been anticipated but would continue to take further testimony along the lines of its present investigation. This investigation, Mr. Cropsey said, was undertaken to ascertain if David A. Sullivan, serving a prison sentence in Sing Sing for wrecking the Union bank of Brooklyn, had been in Kings county recently and while there had participated in an alleged larceny in connection with the bank's affairs.

Gov. Walsh Will Hold a Public Hearing at the State House Saturday

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—In order to sift the pheasant question in Massachusetts to the bottom, Gov. Walsh has called a special public hearing on the matter at the state house next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The governor states that he has received many communications on both sides of the question and that on Saturday morning he will gladly hear both sides in order that he may be guided in taking proper action.

The opening of the present hunting season on pheasants on Columbus day resulted in 3000 of the birds being killed on that day and since that time the continued killing of the birds has resulted in wide protest.

Claims are made that hundreds of men are shooting illegally in the state and that the pheasant is threatened with extermination. Prominent sportsmen and men high in public life and prominent club women are working hard to put a stop to the slaughter. The hearing should be largely attended.

RENOUNCES JEWISH FAITH

DAUGHTER OF RABBI ELOPES WITH CHAUFFEUR AFTER LEAVING UNUSUAL NOTE FOR FATHER

HAVERHILL, Oct. 29.—Rabbi Samuel Segal, leader of the Jewish congregation in this city, has appealed in vain to the police and the courts to save his eldest daughter, Eva, from a matrimonial alliance with a Gentile. The girl disappeared from her home on Mt. Washington, leaving a note that she will not return and that she has renounced the religion of her people.

John Ryan, a youthful chauffeur, is said to have been concerned in the disappearance of the girl, having driven to her home in an automobile last Friday night.

The Segal girl went to a nearby store and then returned to her home, passing quickly through the house and leaving by the front door, it was said. She gathered up a bundle of clothing, but because she was bareheaded and not dressed for the street her family paid little heed to her. Later they discovered she was not in her room and she has not been heard from since.

No marriage license has been applied for at the city clerk's office, but information came to the police that the girl is still in the city. She was betrothed to her cousin and plans for a betrothal feast have been cancelled.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Fire of incendiary origin destroyed property valued at $350,000 here early today. A large lumber yard owned by Brady Brothers which was virtually burned over, was totally destroyed and railroad and other adjoining property was damaged.

EX-MAYOR'S BROTHER DIES

George F. Fitzgerald Succumbs to Nervous Breakdown at His Home in Dorchester

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—George F. Fitzgerald, brother of Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, died at his home, 51 Mt. Vernon street, Dorchester, early yesterday morning. He had been ill for more than a year from a nervous breakdown brought on by an attack of acute indigestion.

He was the second youngest of the 11 Fitzgerald boys. He served as chairman of the ward 16 democratic committee for two years, and many improvements in the Dorchester district were obtained through his efforts. He is survived by a widow and one son, Edward C. Fitzgerald.

PASSENGER FARES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The interstate commerce commission today suspended until January 29 an advance in passenger fares proposed by a large number of western railroads. The increases suggested in tariffs which were to have become effective Nov. 1 advanced one-quarter cent a mile and affected the passenger rates between points located on the Oregon Short line and the Denver & Rio Grande.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE

CLEVER KITTIE

Once upon a time Grace's father brought her home a small kitten. "Something for you to play with," he said as he tossed it into her arms. All that day Grace spent with her new pet. She gave it more milk than the kitten could drink and petted it so much that it grew cross and was not good natured again until Grace tied a string on a spool and hung it where the kitty could play.

First the kitten would hit the spool with its paw and it would swing away and then it would swing again. The kitten never seemed tired of playing with the spool and Grace kept it tied where she could always find it.

One afternoon the kitten could not be found, although Grace looked for it in every place she could think of and she had to go to bed that night without seeing her pet sleeping snugly in her basket.

Early the next morning there was a rap at the door and a man called to her father and said: "Did you know that the electric light in your front room was burning all night and is burning now?"

Her father said: "Why that is funny. No one slept there and I am sure no one has been in lately." Grace said: "I went in yesterday but I didn't light the light and I came right out again."

They opened the door and looked in and what do you think they saw? The light was burning brightly and Grace's kitten was playing with the long swing light, just as she played with the spool Grace had fixed for her.

"Why," said the father, "the kitten must have been playing with the light last night and in doing so turned it on. A pretty expensive kitten for us, isn't it Grace?"

They were all so glad to see the kitten that they forgave her this time and whenever the kitten could not be found after that one of the family would say: "Better look and see if she has turned on the light again," but she never did.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

PULLED FROM BURNING HOUSE BY STRANGER BUT DIED LATER FROM INJURIES

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Little Rose Thomas was dropped from a fire in her home at 11 Chadwick street, Roxbury, yesterday afternoon, by a passing stranger, but not in time to prevent her receiving burns which proved fatal.

The fire was discovered by Miss Hazel Herpe of Adams street, who was passing the house. She shouted to Jacob Lewis, who was also passing, and both rushed in, Miss Herpe carrying out a baby boy, and Lewis the little girl, whose clothes were afire when he reached her.

The children were playing in the kitchen, when the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Thomas, left the room for a few minutes. It is thought the youngsters started the fire by playing with matches.

SLAYER GETS 20 YEARS

ASSASSIN OF ARCHDUKE AND HIS WIFE SENTENCED—FOUR PLOTTERS TO BE HANGED

SARAYEVO, Bosnia, Oct. 29, via Amsterdam to London.—Judgment was passed yesterday on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg.

Gayrilo Prinzip, the actual assassin, escaped with a sentence of imprisonment for 20 years. Four of the conspirators were sentenced to death by hanging, one to life imprisonment, two, including Medeljo Gabrinovic, who threw at the archduke a bomb which did not explode, to 20 years, one to 16 years, one to 13 years, two to 10 years, one to seven years and two to three years.

The other defendants were acquitted.

MOTHER JONES SEES PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Wilson was asked yesterday by "Mother" Jones, the mine strike leader, and James Lord, of the mining department of the American Federation of Labor, to close down the Colorado coal mines, if the operators continue to refuse the federal plan of mediation already accepted by the miners. They also asked the president not to withdraw federal troops until some solution of the labor trouble had been found.

The president listened attentively and said he was earnestly looking for a solution. He is said to be doubtful of his authority to close the mines, but was told that in the opinion of the labor leaders he had the authority to do so.

VICE PRES. MARSHALL

SAYS ROOSEVELT SUED THE REPUBLICAN PARTY FOR A DIVORCE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 29.—The only two things in American life today that really count are the right to the pursuit of happiness and the keeping the democratic party in power as the surest safeguard of that happiness," said Vice-President Marshall in an address here last night.

The vice-president referred jocularly to both the republican and the progressive parties.

"I know of the founding of the progressive party," he said. "Theodore Roosevelt sued the republican party of the United States for a divorce on the grounds of non-support. I never was interested in the suit, but I am interested in the welfare of the children—the people of this country."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

Court Wannalancit, M. C. O. F., held their regular meeting last Tuesday evening in St. John's hall, and it is safe to say that seldom has there been such a large gathering of members present at an ordinary session of the court. One of the reasons was that this took the form of a roll call and identification meeting. A large number of members of Court Westford were present as well as some of the officers, including Chief Ranger Florence Sullivan and Treasurer John A. Healy, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, chaplain of Court Wannalancit, and Chief Ranger Robert McCarthy of Graniteville and most of the older members of the organization were included in the gathering.

Chief Ranger James P. Daley presided, and a grist of important business was transacted in a very short time. While the court was in session all members present had to respond to their names which were read by the recording secretary, Miss Charlotte Lowe, after which prayers were offered by the chaplain for the deceased members.

After the business session a musical and literary program was enjoyed. Rev. Fr. Schofield gave a very interesting address on the advantages of holding membership in such an organization as the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters and made a decided impression. The program included piano selections by Miss Mary Donnelly and Miss Mary Tucke, and several reading by Miss Veronica Lowe.

A luncheon was also served by the following ladies: Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Henry Miner, Miss Loretta Ward, Miss Mary Tucke and Miss Margaret Welsh.

The proceedings came to a close shortly after 11 o'clock to enable the Graniteville visitors to leave for their destination on a late car which had been provided through the courtesy of the superintendent of the Lowell & Fitchburg street railway.

The members of the Church Aid society of the Congregational church held their regular weekly meeting in the church parlors this afternoon.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS FOR WINTER LUNCHEONS IN COLONIAL HALL

The preliminary arrangements are now complete for the first of a series of winter luncheons to be held by the Lowell board of trade. The first will be held Wednesday, November 4th, at Colonial hall, Palmer street, beginning at 6.30 p. m., when a buffet luncheon will be served and the speaking will begin about 7.45 p. m.

The topic for the first meeting will be "The War Question and its Effects Upon This Country."

The principal speaker will be Edwin D. Mead, director-in-chief of the world's peace foundation, who will take for his subject "War and Peace in 1914." Mr. Mead is probably better qualified to discuss this topic from first hand information than any man in America today. He has just returned from the war zone and is well qualified to discuss the matter in a very interesting and instructive way.

Mr. Roger W. Babson, chief economic engineer of the Babson statistical organization, which furnishes information to the business concerns of the country concerning business prospects will take for his subject "The European Situation and the Results For Which We Should All Hope."

Mr. Babson will discuss this topic from a business standpoint.

Both speakers are leaders in their respective lines and the meeting is restricted to members only.

The success of this meeting will determine the course of the executive committee in arranging other meetings. It is expected there will be a large attendance of members.

FIGHTING IN EAST AND WEST FAVORS ALLIES

Berlin Admits Defeat in Russian Poland—Pause in German Attacks on Left Wing of Allies While Re-enforcements Rush to Strengthen Lines — Kaiser Orders Troops From East and West to March on Calais

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The German host that so confidently rushed against Warsaw has been smashed by the Russian hordes.

Slowly, but certainly, the last desperate attempts of the Germans and Austrians to hold their lines in southern Poland have been overcome by the tremendous new army corps that have been hurled against them.

Hopeful despatches from Petrograd were at first believed to be over-optimistic, but when the official statement came from Berlin that confirmed the retirement of the Germans and Austrians, it was no longer possible to doubt the Russian messages.

PAUSE IN GERMAN ATTACK ON LEFT WING OF THE ALLIES

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The pause in the German attacks on the left wing of the allies where the Germans have fought furiously in their efforts to march on the French ports of Dunkirk and Calais, is considered here to be only momentary.

Reliable reports are to the effect that heavy reinforcements are on their way and that when the German lines are strengthened by these forces, which are said to aggregate more than 200,000 men, the fighting will go on with renewed fierceness. The reinforcements, it is declared, have been drawn from all the other battle-lines, both in the east and west, in pursuance of the order of Emperor William to his officers that the French ports, particularly Calais, must be taken at all costs.

Although the operations in Flanders have been temporarily at a standstill, the allies on the center and in the south have, according to the official communications, not only resisted the Germans, but have made slight gains.

There was a resumption today of interest in the operations of the Woevre, at least in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, where the French offensive is said to have met with fresh successes.

14TH DAY OF DESPERATE BATTLE OF WEST FLANDERS—LULL YESTERDAY

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The 14th day of the battle of West Flanders, which is being fought over an area hardly greater than a good sized farm in the state of Iowa, found the allies holding their ground to the west of the Yser and the Germans apparently bringing up more reinforcements to repeat their furious attempts to break through and reach the coast of France.

All despatches seem to agree that there was a temporary lull yesterday in the fighting between Nieuport and Ypres, but the reports are far from unanimous as to whether this was due to an armistice to bury the dead and remove the wounded which must thickly cover the field or whether it was caused by the exhaustion of the contending forces or the lack of German ammunition.

The London press hazards all three guesses and contends that at any rate the position of the allies is satisfactory. The public is warned, however, that the struggle in this quarter is not yet over for the Germans if they find the northern route to Dunkirk and Calais impassable may shift to the south with Boulogne as an objective.

It was at Boulogne that Napoleon waited in vain for his troops to embark for England and the taking of this city by the Germans would stir the German people as nothing else could.

Berlin claims that there had been no recent progress in the struggle in Flanders and as if explaining this, says 10 British warships are operating on the coast. This number never has been confirmed from British sources.

There are recurring reports that the Germans are constructing sheds on the Belgian coast for the housing of Zeppelin airships. A local newspaper is offering free insurance against Zeppelins to its subscribers. There is no official confirmation of the reported German invasion of Portuguese West Africa. Holland is still on edge as regards a possible violation of her neutrality. The first boatload of food for Belgium under American supervision left London today.

BIG OPEN AIR DEMOCRATIC RALLY

MR. HUMPHREY O'SULLIVAN
Chairman

HON. JAMES H. VAHEY
One of the Speakers

Greatest Local Demonstration in State Campaign Held Last Night

Crowd of Over 2000 Gathered at City Hall Steps

Lots of Old Time Democratic Enthusiasm—O'Sullivan Presided

Despite the fact that a hall was unobtainable, and the night a wee bit chilly, the democratic rally in Lowell last night was a great big success from start to finish. It was held at city hall, with the front steps as the rostrum and over 2000 people listened to the speakers, all of whom presented spirited and logical arguments for the democratic ticket. It was the first democratic rally of the state campaign and the cold night air did not chill the enthusiasm characteristic of old-time democratic rallies. Rallies by republicans and progressives, as witness the recent rally by republicans at Associate hall, may lack steam and enthusiasm, but not so with that of the democrats. They always manage to throw in the political spices that give to the rally the proper flavor.

The speakers last night included State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Hon. Charles F. McCarthy, of Marlboro, candidate for county commissioner; Hon. James H. Vahey of Watertown; Peter F. Tague of Boston, who represented ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, and Michael O'Sullivan of Lawrence. The crowd suffered some disappointment when it was announced that a death in his family made it impossible for the ex-mayor of Boston to be present.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, who presided, expressed regrets because of the fact that it was necessary to hold an open air rally. He explained that Associate hall had been engaged before the rally had been arranged for and it was impossible, he said, to rescind action in either case. The hall could not be taken away from the parties who had engaged it and to change the date of the rally would be out of the question. "We are all right here," shouted one of the enthusiastic auditors, who had joined in giving Mr. O'Sullivan a splendid ovation as he opened the meeting.

Mr. O'Sullivan made a plea for harmony. He said he would like to discuss national questions but he did not want to take up the time of the speakers who would follow and who would deal with national affairs. He asked his auditors to bear in mind the fact that the democratic party is the party that fought the battles of the working man; the party that the rank and file has always had to lean upon, and it never failed them of support. Referring to the administration of Governor Walsh, Mr. O'Sullivan said Lowell people should consider his administration impartially. Before Mr. Walsh has finished as governor, said the chairman, he will have convinced the state that his was a good administration. "Of course they may criticise the governor on personal questions," said Mr. O'Sullivan, "but the personal element must be subordinated in considering a man's worth to the public at large. A public servant should be measured by what he does in the aggregate. The democratic party is closer to the people than any other party. It has made more genuine progress for the country as a whole than any political institution the world has ever seen. It is the duty of every good democrat to stand by President Wilson and the democratic administration from top to bottom. We have the world's greatest leader at Washington and we must assist him to carry out the great improvements he has planned." To do this effectively Mr. O'Sullivan said it was necessary and in every way desirable to reelect Governor Walsh.

State Treasurer Mansfield

In introducing State Treasurer F. W. Mansfield, Mr. O'Sullivan referred to him as one of the best democrats in Massachusetts and a man of sterling worth and quality. Mr. Mansfield spoke in part as follows:

"Whenever the commonwealth needs money to carry on its great enterprises it gets it just as an individual does when he needs money. If an individual wants money, he generally gets it on his promissory note, if the bank is satisfied with the security. The state gets its money in exactly the same way. It borrows on its promissory notes only it calls those notes bonds. They are called bonds merely because the state binds itself to pay the money when it is due.

"It had been a custom for over 125 years to sell those bonds to a syndicate of bond dealers and bankers. One year ago, when I was campaigning for election as state treasurer, I pledged to the people, that if elected, I would not sell bonds to the syndicate, but would give the people a chance to buy them. This year we had the largest bond sale in the history of the state—over $6,325,000. I advertised for bids, because the law provides that this must be done. I received about a dozen different bids, the highest being by a large and powerful combination of bankers in Boston, and was $1042.79. This meant that the syndicate was willing to pay $1042.79 for every $1000 bond, and of course if I sold to the syndicate, the ordinary person could not buy a bond without dealing with the syndicate, and inasmuch as they would have control of the entire issue, the purchaser would be entirely at their mercy, and would be compelled to pay whatever rate they wanted to charge.

"I rejected all those bids, and offered the bonds for sale to the public at the same rate that the syndicate had bid to me. All of the bonds were sold 'over the counter' in exactly 21 working days, although one year ago, when the syndicate bought an entire issue of 5,000,000 from my republican predecessor, it took that syndicate 10 months to dispose of them. The profit which the syndicate would have made, the money that I saved to the purchaser, and I estimate it at about $65,000.

"But the saving of this money was not what I desired most to accomplish. I wanted to bring the government of this state nearer to the people, and disseminate the bonds over a larger area, and to place them in the hands of more of the ordinary people. If this could be accomplished, civic pride and patriotism would be increased. If I could place a Massachusetts bond in the hands of every anarchist, every socialist, and every enemy of government, I would convert that man immediately into a friend of government, because then he would realize that whatever word or act of his which would tend to injure his government or his state, would injure his own bond.

"I also tried to bring the bonds nearer to the reach of the ordinary people by reducing their denomination. Before 1914, it was impossible for a poor man to buy a Massachusetts bond because they were $1000 each. There is no statute which compels the fixing of the denomination at this price. It is entirely discretionary with the treasurer, and it didn't seem to me to be fair to the poor to fix the price so high as to be prohibitive. Therefore, I reduced the denomination of Massachusetts bonds from $1000 down to $100, to give the poor man and the smaller investor a chance which he never had before.

Burden of Taxation

"In addition to popularizing the bonds, I have tried to lighten the burden of taxation for the poor man. Much of our state debt is in the form of taxable bonds. A taxable bond is one upon which the person who owns it is supposed to pay taxes. The only person from whom a list of names and addresses of taxable bonds may be obtained, is the state treasurer. After taking office, I found that it had been the custom for over 100 years, for the state treasurer not to divulge the names of the taxable bond holders, and the result of this pernicious custom, is that a great many wealthy people who ought to be in better business were dodging their taxes. They relied in many instances upon this custom, and bought taxable bonds, knowing in advance that their names would not be disclosed, and of course in this way they escaped paying their share of the tax burden. The poor man cannot escape his taxes, because the property he usually owns is not of a kind that can be hidden. If a poor man owns an equity in a house, or a little farm, he cannot hide this kind of property behind the skirts of an obliging state treasurer, and he is compelled to pay not only his own share, but that of the wealthy man as well.

"I now pledge myself to the people of this state that as long as I remain state treasurer, the wealthy taxable bond holders will have to pay their share of the taxes, as well as the poor man.

"It is a significant fact that the last three republican state treasurers who preceded me, Elmer A. Stevens, Arthur B. Chapin and Ed. S. Branford, after serving as state treasurer, each for a period of five years, were each made vice-presidents of banks, and it is also significant that in the contest of the republican primaries for nominees for this position, the two gentlemen who aspired to the nomination, were both bank officers. Does the republican party think that the office of state treasurer belongs to bankers? I do not wish to make any unfair criticism, but I think it is, to say the least, improper. It does not look well for men to go directly into banks, after leaving the state treasurer's office. Again I wish to pledge myself that while I am treasurer, I will endeavor so to conduct my duties of that office, as to win the approval of the citizens and tax payers, and not so as to win a vice-presidency of a bank.

Saving of $40,000,000

"I have also inaugurated a plan, by which $40,000,000 can be saved to the people of this state in 40 years. I have recommended that the old sinking fund bonds be retired, and replaced by serial bonds. As everyone knows, the sinking fund bonds cannot be paid until the end of the time for which they have to run, whereas serial bonds are paid off yearly, and the interest and principal is constantly diminishing. The difference in interest alone, in the 40 year term, would be over $1,000,000 a year, and His Excellency, Governor Walsh, thought so well of the plan, that he sent a special message to the legislature about it, and the board of efficiency and economy is now considering it, and a public hearing was held today at the state house.

"I have also reduced about 40 per cent. of the sinking fund requirement for the 40 cities and towns in the Metropolitan district. This requirement is ascertained, by computing the sinking fund with their earnings at 3 per cent. to the end of the time the loan has to run, and subtracting this amount from the total that is to be paid, and the difference is divided proportionately between those cities and towns. As a matter of fact, the funds have been earning more than 4 per cent., and by reckoning this as low as 3 per cent. those various cities and towns have been compelled to pay more than they ought to, and many of the funds will be filled years before the loan matures. In other words, this generation has suffered from an over-taxation, part of which belongs to the next generation to pay.

"This year I have computed the funds at 4 per cent. as I see no reason for computing them at 3 per cent. when they are earning 4 per cent., the result of a reduction of about 40 per cent. in the yearly requirements, dropping for example, $812,000 in 1913 to $492,000 in 1914.

"My only object as state treasurer has been to do the best I could for all of the people of the commonwealth, and especially to alleviate the condition of the poor man, and I shall continue this policy as long as I am state treasurer, and it is upon this record that I ask for re-election."

Hon. Charles F. McCarthy

Senator Charles F. McCarthy proved eloquent and energetic. He is a candidate for county commissioner. Mr. McCarthy as a legislator, introduced the bill known as the McCarthy bill, compelling mill owners to pay taxes on property where the property is located instead of where the owners of the mills live. This bill became law and the working of it means over $60,000 a year to the city of Lowell. This amount was formerly paid in rich towns where the mill owners lived, instead of being paid in Lowell and other cities and towns where the mills are located. In the course of his speech Senator McCarthy said:

"I stand for election as county commissioner on my record as a public official and upon the experience gained as a city official of the city of Marlborough, and in the Massachusetts senate and house of representatives.

"I believe a candidate's public record is the truest test of his fitness for office and I believe that experience in legislation will prove one of the best and most useful assets in administering the affairs of this great county during the next three years.

"I have been elected three times to the Massachusetts senate and four times to the house of representatives by the rank and file of the people, irrespective of party, on my record as a public official and upon my promise to represent them honestly, faithfully and fairly.

"During my public service I have striven earnestly to merit the trust and confidence of my constituency by my every vote and action. I have endeavored at all times to place the interests of all the people above everything else, and to give my voice and vote in support of all legislation for their welfare.

"With this in mind, and being firmly of the opinion that there is a sincere and wide-spread desire on the part of the voters of Middlesex county for a change in the present method of administering the affairs of the county which has prevailed for the past twenty years, I desire to respectfully submit myself as the candidate for county commissioner.

"I stand first, last and always for Massachusetts—for its interests and its industries, and for the advancement of the welfare of the great mass of its people.

"I believe in the industries, institutions and people of Middlesex county, and if elected commissioner will be guided always by their best interests.

"I believe a large majority of the voters of Middlesex county are dissatisfied with conditions as they exist in the conduct of the affairs of the county, and if elected commissioner, I promise to give the best that is in me for a faithful and impartial administration of the people's business in the office."

In referring to Commissioner Levi Gould, up for reelection, Mr. McCarthy said he didn't want to attack him on account of his age, but he declared Middlesex county interests demanded the election of another man. He said, and very truly too, that the average man knows nothing about the doings of the county commission, and if elected, he said, he would arrange it so that every man interested in the work of the commission would have an opportunity to know all about it. Every man, he said, should know what the county commission is doing. The county commissioners have been holding their meetings at times and places where it was impossible for the rank and file to attend and in this way their movements have been covered up, more or less. "If I am elected county commissioner," said Mr. McCarthy, "I will see to it that the meetings of the county commissioners are held at night in order that the man who works all day in the mill and other places of industry will have an opportunity to see for himself what is going on." Mr. McCarthy referred to Lowell as the greatest city in the county, and said it had not been fairly treated by the county commission. In mentioning Mr. Gould, the speaker took occasion to remark that Mr. Gould was diametrically opposed to the election of Erson Barlow of Lowell as county commissioner.

Hon. James H. Vahey

Hon. James H. Vahey was given a warm welcome when introduced by Mr. O'Sullivan. Mr. Vahey bore down on the fact that democratic unity spells democratic success. He said that democratic success would mean an indorsement of President Wilson's administration, which he regarded as the best since that of Abraham Lincoln. He said that if a man like Lincoln were a candidate today he would gladly vote for him, irrespective of party, and he asked his hearers to forget party ties in the coming election and vote for men who represent the Wilson ideas. Referring to present conditions in America, Mr. Vahey said that only for the most conservative management, war would be upon the people of this country—war with Mexico, and possibly other countries. "Forget your party, think of your country, and vote for men who will bear the message that President Wilson has your confidence," concluded the speaker.

Fitzgerald Not Present

Peter F. Tague, congressional nominee in the 10th district, came as the representative of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston. The ex-mayor's brother, George F. Fitzgerald, died at his home in Mt. Vernon street, Dorchester, yesterday morning, and that was the reason the ex-mayor did not put in an appearance in Lowell last night. His brother had been ill for more than a year from a nervous breakdown brought on by an attack of acute indigestion. Mr. Tague, representing ex-Mayor Fitzgerald at the rally, proved a very entertaining speaker.

Man From Lawrence

The last speaker of the evening was Michael O'Sullivan, a prominent Lawrence lawyer. He said, in part:

"Thomas J. Boynton, as attorney general during the past year, has refused to be awed by corporate greatness, or impressed by corporate wealth. In the interpretation and administration of the laws there are many opportunities to twist the law this way and that, and to resort to technicalities. Where some attorneys general might have strained the law in the interest of big corporations, and have neglected the cases which bore on the wealthy, Thomas J. Boynton has looked at law matters from a human angle and has always been concerned with obtaining the greatest good for the greatest number. The following are examples:

"A large corporation for years polluted the beautiful Neponset river, with the acquiescence of previous attorneys general. Mr. Boynton has forced the building of a filter. For years the Haverhill Gas Co. resisted the order of the gas commission for 80-cent gas. With Mr. Boynton's advent it has capitulated. Mr. Boynton won the best cases in the supreme judicial court, which have brought the tax-dodging foreign corporations to time.

"It is to be noticed that all these corporations have capitulated without a fight, realizing that at last there is a stalwart servant of the people in the chair of the attorney general. Reelect Thomas J. Boynton."

CHRYSANTHEMUM EXHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The annual chrysanthemum exhibition of the department of agriculture opened today. On account of the large number of plants, 1300, as well as the many new varieties displayed, the exhibition gave promise of one of the best ever held.

As a result of the warm weather many plants have reached a height of ten feet, attracting much attention from visitors.

One of the finest chrysanthemum plants on view is the Christy Mathewson, an "in-curve" variety, its petals curving up toward the center.
